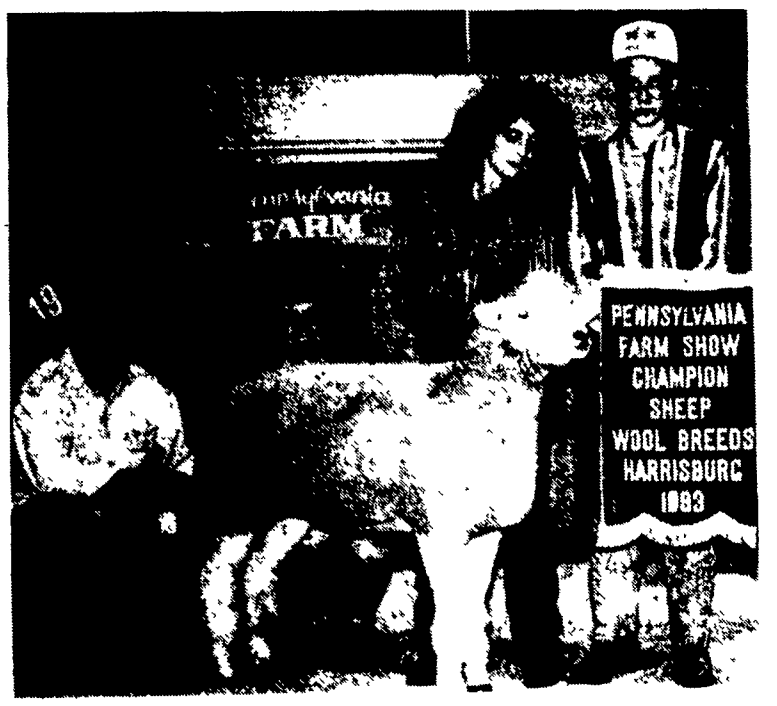
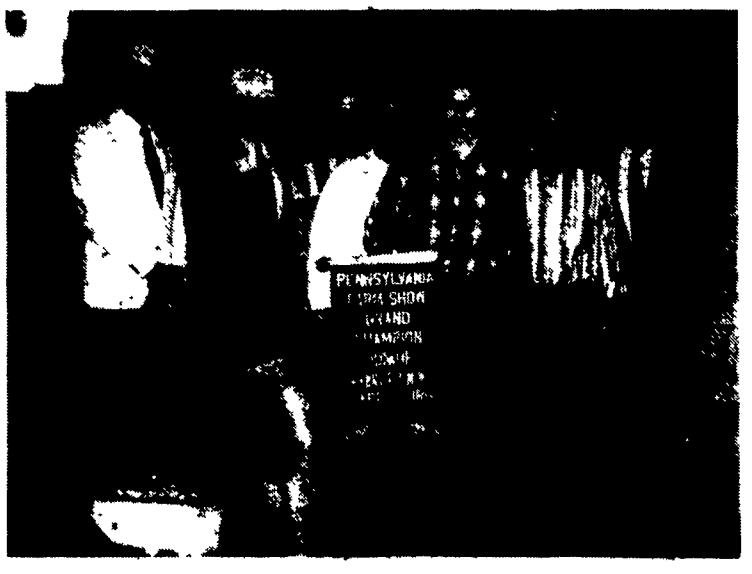
77th Farm Show: Innovative Agriculture At Its Best





$15,100 For Market Swine Sets Record, Creates Scholarship

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff
HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)

A record price paid Thursday for a Farm Show market swine resulted in the creation of a Farm Show youth educational fund.

During the annual sale of champion youth market animals in the Small Arena of the Farm Show complex, a syndicate of buyers raised the price of the market hog to $15,100, not only almost doubling the old record price but setting up enough money to start a scholarship fund.

Of the three livestock champions, the market hog was first on the auction block. The price quickly soared to $5,000, when auctioneer Harry Bachman, of Annville, called for a pause.

Harry said he wanted the activity to slow down for a second. Then he explained that Mark Simmon, the youth owner of the grand champion hog said that if he could get $5,000 for his champion swine, he would be willing to put the rest toward a scholarship fund.

After the announcement, the bids quickly shot above $10,000

Full Farm Show Coverage In This Issue

With extensive coverage in this issue of the events and shows that transpired at the 77th Farm Show in Harrisburg, you will also notice that Lancaster Farming is back on the regularly scheduled publication date. For the past several weeks (because of Christmas, New Year's Day, and an early publication day last week to beat the opening of the Farm Show) you may have received those issues a day or two early. But that was the execption and not the rule.

New England Chicken Parts
EDISON, NJ
JANUARY 13, 1993
NORTHEAST BROILER/FRYER PARTS. FEDERAL-STATE

Trucklot buying interest was light. Supplies of boneless skinless breasts were irregularly distibuted; larger size cutlets were fully adequate and generally slow to clear while lighter size cutlets were in close balance. Line run breasts continued very tight, some deliveries of regular commitments were shorted, some Wednesday deliveries were rescheduled to tomorrow, and shipper asking prices for partial load volumes trended higher. Wings were adequate for the light and cautious buying interest. Leg quarters were readily available and offered for buyer bids. The trade sentiment on most parts items was very unsettled.

DELMARVA BROILER/FRYER MARKET. FEDERAL-STATE

Movement of ready-to-cook whole broiler/fryers slowed and was light to fair at best. Offerings were available and slow in clearing, particularly on over 3 pound sizes. Live supplies ranged moderate to heavy and weights were often heavier than desired. Processing schedules were heavy and several plants planned to operate on the upcoming Monday holiday. Less than trucklot asking prices were 1 cent lower at 51 to 60 cents. Trade sentiment was generally weak. In the parts complex, bone-in breasts remained tight. Other items were fully adequate at most plants and generally slow in clearing.

The OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC THIS WEEK WITH

DRUID NEW YEAR, JAN. 22.

NEW MOON, NEW YEAR

An old bit of Almanac lore tells us that the druids celebrated the new year at the first new moon in January. Druidism was the religion of the ancient Celts and seemed to involve some sort of worship of the sun, but in fact, we don't know very much about them. They apparently followed a lunar calendar in which the natural rhythm of the changing seasons was an important element. The time of winter solstice, with its short, dark days, held particular significance as the death of the old year. In fact, we wonder if they actually celebrated the new year at the first new moon after solstice, which, in our calendar, would fall in January some years, and in December others.

The good of other times let people state;/I think it lucky I was born so late. — Ovid

TIP OF THE WEEK

EARTHWISE

If you are reluctant to bathe your dog in the winter, but Fido is beginning to look sort of dingy, try a dry shampoo. Spread an old sheet on the floor as a drop cloth and gently rub dry oatmeal into the dog's coat. When you brush out the oatmeal, the dirt and grease will come out too. Baking soda can also be rubbed into the coat as a cleansing powder, and it has the added advantage of neutralizing that "doggie" smell.

BROWN RICE PUDDING

¼ cup short-grain brown rice
2¼ cups milk
¼ cup honey
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ cup raisins
1 cup heavy cream, divided

Cover rice with water and bring to a boil. Cook 5 minutes, drain. Place rice in greased 1½-quart baking dish. Scald milk, stir in honey and cinnamon. Add raisins and ½ cup of cream. Pour over rice. Bake at 325° F for 1½ hours. Stir pudding, add remaining cream and return to oven for 30 minutes.

Makes 6 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

SOUTHEAST: Rain, sunny and very warm Florida, then showers; colder, rain and snow.

SOUTHWEST: Showers, snow mountains, then clearing, some rain California, then sunny and warm, clear and very warm desert.

OPINION

Time To Lower SCC

Beginning July 1993, the somatic cell count (scc) limit for bulk tank milk drops to 750,000 cells/ml, or a linear score of 5.9. It is not easy to lower the herd scc quickly when there is no scc or culture history for the herd. Historical records of individual monthly sccs are needed, and culture results are helpful in identifying the problem cows and designing control procedures for a herd. Cows with clinical mastitis have sccs in excess of 1,000,000 while subclinical (invisible mastitis) cows can have cell counts between 200,000 and 1,000,000. Clinical cows represent a small percentage of the herd, but they indicate that many other cows in the herd have subclinical mastitis. To control mastitis, both the clinical and subclinical mastitis cows need to be identified. Individual cow sccs that show the number of cows at risk for subclinical mastitis are available from DHIA at a low cost, while milk bacterial cultures are nearly ten times more expensive and more difficult to arrange.

According to Bill Heald, Penn State Dairy & Animal Science, somatic cell counts for a herd should be less than 300,000 cells/ml, but require concerted mastitis control efforts. This level of cell count is well worth the effort and should be the goal of most dairy farmers. Some herds need more than three years of mastitis control procedures to get to this lower level of cell counts. A change in cell count of this size returns 400 to 800 pounds of milk per lactation. In added milk production alone, that amounts to $2,880 to $5,760 per year for a 60-cow herd. Procedures that lower cell counts include dry cow therapy, teat dipping, milking hygiene practices that maintain clean dry udders at all times, milking machines kept in good working order, and isolation of and eventual culling of chronic cows that fail to recover. Elimination of the source of the infection is the primary concern, while treatment of clinically infected cows is secondary and often not very helpful.

Don't be caught with high sccs that could jeopardize your income. Set a goal for a somatic cell count of less than 300,000 cells/ml. Develop a mastitis control program with your veterinarian or advisers to accomplish the goal. To measure your success, subscribe to an scc program such as DHIA that monitors udder health. Good udder health can pay you big dividends.

To Look For Fire Hazards

The recent fires in poultry and swine operations reminds us we need to be constantly looking for fire hazards and correcting them.

Some areas to check are:

- Electrical wiring. Check for exposed wires and broken insulation. Especially look at electric motors and light fixtures.
- Check gas and fuel oil systems for leaks and unsafe installations.
- Keep all types of heating devices clean and in good condition. Inspect flexible gas hoses for wear and replace when necessary.
- Inspect safety chains and cables used in hanging the brooders to determine that chains and cables are properly connected and in good condition.
- Be extremely careful when handling gasoline. It is flammable and explosive.
- Store all combustible scrap debris and waste material in covered metal containers.
- Select, provide, and regularly service the proper fire extinguishers for the type of material in areas they are to be used.

There are many people who will help you with a fire hazard assessment. They include your insurance agent, local fire company, and fire safety equipment sales people. You should also invite your local fire company officers to visit your farm so they may become familiar with your facilities, location of key items, and specific hazards.

To Cope With Stress

Farming is a stressful occupation. Recent weather problems, increased government regulations, pests, diseases, long hours and money problems are a few of the things contributing to stress.

According to a recent study, farmers have the highest rates of death due to stress related conditions. Heart and artery disease, hypertension, ulcers, and nervous disorders top the list of killers.

The National Safety Council offers the following tips to reduce stress and improve mental and physical condition:

- Acknowledging that stress exists in your life is the first line of defense.
- Do not minimize your reactions to stress. If you keep stress buried inside, it is liable to create mental and physical problems.
- Talk out your problems with family, friends, or clergy.
- Eat a well-balanced diet and try to limit the amount of caffeine and alcohol intake.
- Get enough sleep.
- Keep all machinery in good condition. Eliminating possible breakdowns will help reduce stressful bad days.

Remember, you can not control the weather, but you can control your ability to deal with stress in productive, not destructive ways.

To Keep Disease Off Your Farm

We are in the heart of winter when disease becomes a more important factor in our animal operations.

To reduce the risk of a disease outbreak, tighten up your biosecurity. Do not go to local auctions, especially if you are a poultry producer. These poultry auctions have birds coming from many small flocks with an unknown disease status.

MG, LT, and AI are a few of the diseases you could bring home with you. Keep visitors out of your barns. Make sure people entering your barns are wearing clean clothes and boots that have not been on another farm.

Keep your farm and buildings clean. Have an effective rodent control program.

By practicing a good biosecurity program, staying away from other animals, keeping a clean operation, and controlling people traffic in your buildings you will be placing several excellent barriers to keep diseases off your farm.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE ONLY WAY
January 17, 1993

Background Scripture:
Acts 11.
Devotional Reading:
Ephesians 2:11-22.

More churches have floundered and even come apart at the seams because of someone's insistence that their way is "the only way". Sometimes, like that, it is boldly said, and other times more subtly. Nevertheless, many of us assume that there is but one way to worship, to baptize, to teach, to believe, or to witness, and it is our way!

Several times a year I am engaged by local churches to conduct a weekend program. I am often surprised to find that one or more members of these churches begin their participation in these programs with an attitude of deep suspicion. My wife and I have just returned from such a weekend in a United Methodist church several hundred miles from Dallas, our home. At the end of the last program, one man told me that, his first impression was that I might have been "of the Devil", but that he was glad to find that, despite some things I had said that were troubling to him, I wasn't.

FINALLY "O.K."

This man and I are both followers of Jesus Christ, but, because I didn't enunciate my faith in the same terminology that he does and believes to be essential, he began with considerable doubts about the validity of my Christianity. I am glad that eventually he came to the conclusion that I am "O.K.", but troubled to think that we could have been alienated from each other because my way was not his way. Although we come from two different worlds, the fact that we are both disciples of Jesus Christ should have been a bridge to bring us together, rather than to separate us.

Maybe I've used analogy here before, but it doesn't matter. A little boy charged his friends an admission fee, admitting them to his backyard so they could see the eclipse. Christians are sometimes like that, assuming that the eclipse can only be seen from their own backyard, when, in reality, it belongs in no one's backyard. So, the experience of God is dependent upon no "one way", no single doctrinal interpretation, no one candle statement, because God is bigger than any of our backyards.

In Acts 11 we can see the painful manner in which some of the earliest Christians learned this lesson. Whatever they thought about Gentile converts to Christ, they did not believe that it was possible for them to have any kind of relationship with them. Circumcised Jewish Christians certainly could have nothing to do with uncircumcised Gentile Christians. There was but one way and that was not the way! Even the most discerning of the apostles knew that.

WITHSTANDING GOD

But, apparently, God's way was different from theirs. So, Peter returns to the Jerusalem church and tells of an absolutely amazing thing that happened to him at Joppa: God told him to minister to some Gentiles and then, when they accepted Christ, the Holy Spirit fell on them, just as it had to the Jewish Christians in Jerusalem. Reluctantly, Peter let God's revelation overcome his prejudice: "If, then, God gave the same gift to them as he gave to us when we believed in the Lord Jesus Christ, who was I that I could withstand God?" (11:17).

Good for Peter! He asked the skeptics in the Jerusalem church the same question we must always ask ourselves: who are we that we should withstand God? And we need to take personally the admonition which God gave Peter in his dream: "What God has cleansed you must not call common" (11:9). Other Christians may worship differently, verbalize their faith differently, and have experiences that are beyond our own, but we must not reject them. It matters little if they do not do it our way, so long as it is one of God's ways.

CASE STUDY

How a Doebler's alfalfa rings up profits

by Willard Jones

My old economics prof had a theory he pounded into our heads class after class: "You won't make much money in farming if you're just average."

Recently I asked myself, "But what's average for new commercial alfalfas today? And how do Doebler's alfalfas compare?"

So I pull out Penn State's 1992 trial reports and crunch yields on the longest trial at Rock Springs. The highly rated Precedent is our entry. Here's what I find:

THE DOEBLER ADVANTAGE

	AVERAGE TONS	PRECEDENT TONS	EXTRA PROFIT
1989	5.23	5.83	$ 60
1990	7.61	8.20	$ 59
1991	5.52	6.09	$ 57
1992	6.65	7.27	$ 62
	25.01	27.39	$238

This trial was big time competition, with just about every popular brand name entered.

Average for the 64 entries was 6.25 tons per acre over four years.

Doebler's Precedent made 6.85 tons, or 0.60 of a ton extra per year. And 2.38 more tons over four years.

At $100 a ton, that's a $238 Doebler advantage for each and every acre.

My prof was no dummy. Be smart. Go with the best.

I'm Willard Jones, Doebler's sales manager, with the story about a professor, an alfalfa trial and $238 extra profit.

Oklahoma City Feeder Cattle

Oklahoma City
Wednesday January 13, 1993

ATTN: DODGE CITY
OKLAHOMA NATIONAL STOCKYARDS WEEKLY CATTLE SUMMARY

Compared to last week: Feeder steers over 650 lbs. steady. Heifers over 600 lbs. $1.00-$1.50 higher. Lighter weight cattle steady to $2.00 lower. Yearling demand good. Feeder quality equivalent to last week, average to attractive. Yearling flesh highly varied with majority of feeders ranging from slightly thin to moderately fleshy. Calf demand moderate to good Weather cold and wet and this took some of fire out of calf prices Also calf condition not as hard and thin as last week with increased percentage of short term weaned calves. Weigh conditions more attractive to buyers than last week and gaunt to average. Slaughter cows and bulls steady to $1.00 higher. Good demand for both classes. However, orders from different packers seemed to change daily; normal cow supplies disrupted by bad weather in some destination areas. Receipts this week 8,000; last week 5,500; last year 9,628 head. Run 69% yearlings or big calves over 600 lbs.; 26% calves under 600 lbs; 5% cows and bulls. Bulk price ranges follow; weighted averages in parenthesis.

BETTER BEANS START WITH BETTER GENES.

Not all soybeans are created equal. Pioneer® brand soybeans start with leading genetics that offer greater disease resistance and performance. Through a strong commitment to research, Pioneer is proving that better genes make for better beans. That's why soybean growers have made Pioneer varieties the number one planted brand. And now they're also available in bulk. Ask your Pioneer sales representative for the varieties right for your fields.

Penn Ag Democrats Oppose Madigan Decision

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — United States Secretary of Agriculture, Edward Madigan announced at a press release that he has targeted the closing of 18 County A.S.C.S. Offices in Pennsylvania.

The Penn Ag Democrats of Pennsylvania are voicing their strong opposition to this decision. We are not opposed to the closing of offices that are not cost-effective, but we are opposed to closing offices for political reasons rather than sound economic reasons.

Secretary Madigan asked for a report from the State Director, Donald Unangst, in which it was recommended that five (5) offices in Pennsylvania be closed. Disregarding the recommendation, Sec. Madigan chose to target 18 offices, of which some of the original 5 were not included. We are urging our membership to voice its disapproval of the random closing of important offices for political gain rather than sound economic reasons.

Eastern Region Frozen Eggs

Edison, N.J.
Tuesday, January 12, 1993

The market tone, though cautious, was generally fully steady to firm. Trading was limited as asking prices trended higher and the willingness to discount product dissipated. Raw materials were limited in their availability and held with increased confidence. Floor stocks were generally sufficient to cover current needs.

Like all fertilizers, manure application rates affect the quality and yield of your crops. That's why your White-New Idea dealer can help you set up your New Idea spreader to apply manure at a rate that matches your soil nutrient needs.

With commercial potash costs of $150 per ton, using manure could mean a $15 per acre savings. In fact, applying manure at a rate of three to six tons per acre—instead of the 20-ton rate commonly used today—can save you $7500 on just 500 acres.

So test your manure and soil. Then see your White-New Idea dealer for all the manure application rate details.

Sheep To Shawl Weaves Success For Hill And Hollow Handspinners

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Hill Hollow Handspinners won the grand champion prize at the 77th annual sheep to shawl competition at the 1993 Pennsylvania Farm Show. The winning shawl was auctioned off to Gordon Shive for $550. In previous years the winning shawl has sold for as much as $1,000. Harry Bachman served as auctioneer.

The winning team consisted of weaver Jan Ott, spinner Helen Clusman, spinner Ginny Mitti, spinner Barbara Barlow, and shearer Tom Junkin. The team was from Huntingdon County, and has participated in the Farm Show in 1987, 1988, 1989 and 1992.

Several hundred attended the event at the Farm Show Complex, and in previous years nearly 5,000 has attended. The first lady of Pennsylvania, Ellen Casey, officially opened the competition at 5 p.m.

The Butler County Peddlers of Butler, Venango, Westmoreland and Armstrong Counties won second place. The Wool Wizards of Dauphin County won third place. The Fiber Friends of Schuylkill County won fourth place.

The Butler County Peddlers won the team's choice award and the weaver's award for innovative design. Christian Herr of the Wool Wizards won the champion shearer's award. The Hill and Hollow Handspinners won the fleece award and the premium spinning group award.

The sheep to shawl contest is exactly what it sounds like. In a little less than two hours the various teams sheared, combed, spun and wove a sheep's protective coating into a garment generally associated with little old ladies in rocking chairs.

The crowd was also entertained throughout the evening by the bag pipe sounds of pipe major Bruce Altschuler. Then - while the judges were tallying the scores to determine the winner - Tom Horton and Billy Klinghorn performed Shearing Through the Ages, a demonstration of tools used throughout the ages to shear sheep.

The judges made their decisions based on shearing skill and speed, uniformity of spun wool, design originality and difficulty, lack of weaving errors, and speed. The judges were Jaqueline Boggs, professor at the College of Visual and Performing Arts at Kutztown University; Marcia C. Beppler, a craftsperson and member of the Pennsylvania Sheep and Wool Growers Association; Barbara Campbell, a spinner, weaver and owner of 50 sheep; and Earl Cole, a retired sheep farmer from Greene County.

Team members of the Wool Wizards were weaver Tom Knisely, spinner Kathy Graham, spinner Kelli Peyser, spinner Carolyn Peyser, and shearer Christian Herr.

Team members of the Fiber Friends were weaver Barbara Blander, spinner Kathryn Otto, spinner Barbara Fessler, spinner Kim Schroeder, and shearer Allen Comman.

Team members of the Butler County Peddlers were weaver Marilyn Merbach, spinner Donna Long, spinner Carolyn Lash, spinner Linda Gross, and shearer Dean Sherwin.

Public Meeting To Read Bill

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — A public meeting will be held for the READING of a new farmer-friendly bill to replace the failed Nutrient Management bills H.B.496 and S.B.1444 at the Farm & Home Center in Lancaster on Friday, January 22, 1993 at 7:30 p.m. Leaders of the Lancaster County Farmers' Association and the Lancaster County Granges have assisted the Farm Family Movement in the preparation of this legislative initiative aimed at providing a bill that will allow farmers to have policy input into regulations that are being developed by agencies in Pennsylvania which are attempting to control farmers whose farms produce manure.

All farmers and agribusiness owners or operators and any other community leaders in Southeastern Pennsylvania are invited to attend this reading of the proposed Agricultural Resources Act. Following the reading, there will be an opportunity to ask questions and make comments on cards that will be provided. In addition, there will be an opportunity to sign a petition to show support for this bill.

FFA Holds Midwinter Convention In Large Arena

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — For the first time, the Pennsylvania FFA held its mid-Winter Convention in the Large Arena of state Farm Show Complex Monday evening, to present the organization's earned degrees, honor supporters and to select the top four star members in the state.

Because of delays with beef cattle shows, the convention got off to a late start, but it did little to deter the apparent enthusiasm of the members who sat on metal folding chairs facing a stage constructed at the north end of the dirt floor arena.

With an amplified banging of the gavel, state FFA President Mandy Hilbert opened the convention with the traditional opening ceremony, with each of the state officers explaining their duties.

She then welcomed the public and explained the newness of the convention site.

"This is the first year to hold the convention here at the Farm Show Complex. This is an opportunity for us to inform the public about our organization, the FFA," she said.

She told the full arena that they would witness more than 300 active FFA members from across the state receive prestigious awards, inlcuding the Keystone, Star and State Star.

She also explained that the national FFA claims membership of more than 400,000 youth, including the District of Columbia and territories Guam, Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico, and that it is an agricultural and leadership-development organization.

She also talked about the state's membership in excess of 7,500 youth aged 14 to 21 and the diversity of the different chapters.

Also, she explained that it is no longer called Future Farmers of America, a error still commonly made by non-agricultural media.

One of the highlights of the mid-winter convention is to present achievement and honorary awards and degrees.

Prior to the convention, most of the recipients already know what they are to receive. However, the selection for the top four members in the state organization isn't revealed until the convention.

There are four catagories for which a member can strive to achieve star status: in production; sales, service and mechanics; horticulture; and specialized.

The regional star winners were ushered out on stage by one of the FFA officers, where a spotlight focused on the member while the introduction was made.

There was also a large screen hung to the left and high above the stage so that the audience could watch as a slide presentation of the member accompanied the introduction.

When the regional star winners of the catagory were all introduced, an envelope was opened to reveal the winner's name, adding to the drama.

Western Region Star Chad Nichols, president of the Conneaut Valley FFA Chapter, was named state production star. He is the son of David and Jean Nichols, and lives at home on his parents' Crawford County dairy farm. His projects are Brown Swiss dairy herd and raising sorghum. He started in FFA with 11 animals and now has 21 registered Brown Swiss.

Also up for the award were Eastern Region Star Kraig Sellers, son of Kenneth and Karen Sellers, who have a dairy farm near Annville and milk about 70 Holsteins; North Central Star Catherine Pirrung, member of Headwaters FFA and daughter of Gerald and Constance Pirrung, who have a dairy farm; and South Central Star Colleen Kretzing, of the West Perry FFA, daughter of Perry and Adeliade Kretzing, who have a dairy farm in Loysville.

The Agriculture Sales, Service and Mechanics Star is Western Region Star John Evans, member of Linesville FFA Chapter and son of Mark and JoAnn Evans, from Crawford County.

John's enterpirses include dairy herd, small engine repair, agricultural mechanics, landscaping and mowing. He learned basic tune-up skills working on push mowers for his grandfather who has a small-engine repair business.

For the past two years he worked on neighbors farms doing things such as greasing equipment, changing oil in tractors and doing maintenance.

Also up for the award was Doug Walker Northcentral Regional Star for Ag Sales, Service and Mechanics. A member of Cowanesque and the son of Doug Walker and Norman and Bonney Merchant.

The state Horticulture Star went to Linda DeAnn Hall, daughter of David and Nancy Hall. A member of the State College Little Lions FFA, she raises and sells poinsettias, spring bedding plants and vegetables and she markets and sell the plants at a profit. She uses the school greenhouse to grow a lot of her plants, since she doesn't have much space at home. She also has done research on light intensity and did a work experience project doing lawn care, maintenance and landscaping.

Also up for the honor was Western Region Star Julie Urcheck, member of the Derry Area FFA, and daugther of John and Jane Urcheck.

The Specialized Agriculture Star was won by Braden Elkin, also a Western Region Star, son of Benjamin and Kathryn Elkin. Vice president of the Marion Center FFA, Braden did a supervised project of raising winter squash, chinese vegetables and peppers. He used knowledge gained in class to fertilize the soil and control weeds to raise the crops which he marketed to local businesses.

Also up for the honor were Eastern Region Star Jesse Rabert, member of Kutztown FFA, and son of Lawrence and Shirley Rabert, of Kempton; and South Central Star Aaron Stephens, with Greenwood FFA, son of Dean and Gail Stephens, Liverpool.

In addition to the star farmers, there were 228 Keystone degree recipients (announced in the Jan. 9 issue of Lancaster Farming).

Other recognitions made during the convention included the Special Parent Recognition Award, given to parents who have had three or more children receive the FFA Keystone Degree. Those parents with three children received an Honorary Keystone Degree, while those parents with four or more Keystone Degree-winning children received a special parent award.

In the Eastern FFA Region, included were Nelson and Lois Harnish, of Willow Street with four Keystone children; Robert and Esther Groff, Lancaster, with three children; Abram and Mary Jane Hess, of Conestoga with four children winning; Daniel and Ethel Metzler of Pequea, with three;

Braden Elkin receives the state Star in Specialized Agriculture.

John and Jane Barley, of Conestoga, with three children receiving the Keystone; Harold and Audrey Dice, Fredericksburg, with three; Robert and Joan Rohrer, of Nottingham, three; and Ray and Barbara Bicksler, Richland, three.

In the South Central Region were Galen and Sonja McDonald, of Imler, with four children having received the Keystone; Glenn and Verda Fisher, St. Thomas, with four children; Carl and Mabel Lehman, Mechanicsburg, three; Charles Lobaugh and Anita Bown, Aspers, with three; Dale Sr. and Jean Myers, of Wellsville, three; and Earl and Tamie Campbell, Lykens, with three.

In the North Central Region, honored were Bryan and Donna Ianson, of Coudersport, with three children having received the degree.

And in the Western FFA Region, honored were Clyde and June Mostoller, of Garrett, with three children; and Herb and Carol Engle, also of Garrett, and also with three children having received the FFA Keystone Degree.

Eleven Honory Keystone Degrees also were presented to individuals who have provided support and service to the FFA, having helped at least two FFA chapters for more than 10 years.

Recipients were state Rep. John Barley (also received special parent award); Gerald Phillips, loan officer for Keystone Farm Credit, Lancaster; Sonja Wasco, of Lititz, former ag instructor at Warwick High School, currently office manager at Grant Heilman Photography; Robert Badger, Quarryville, vice president of the Bank of Lancaster County; William Ringler, dairy and crop farmer, former Pennsylvania State Grange Master; Bernard Kunselman, of Marion Center; Michael Wilson, principal at New Oxford High School; Dr. Carl Allison, dairy farmer in Franklin County; Dr. Edwin Sponseller, chief school superintendent at Chambersburg Area School District; Calvin Sauder, farmer and truck driver in Cumberland County; and Dustin Peters, principal at Elizabethtown High School.

In other awards, Stephanie Garret, with Manor FFA, received the state Computers in Agriculture Award, which is given to the student who uses computers for agricultural purposes.

In the Building Our American Communities program, five chapters won the gold award at both the state and national level for a number of projects.

The Spud Growers Chapter of Potter County did an aquaculture program at their high school, constructed a new park concession stand at the Coudersport Area Recreation Park, constructed water quality improvement on Mill Creek; a wildlife management project on 10 acres; and joined to assist 15 county officers in recovering and relocating after fire destroyed their office building. They also studied, grew and promoted flower awareness to more than 250 elementary school children.

The Greenwood FFA did two recycling projects; the Lenape FFA Chapter did a number of projects at Crooked Creek Horse Park; Grasslands FFA did a number of projects centered on the Chesapeake Bay and improving health through increasing recreational activities.

Cedar Crest FFA won a national silver award; Twin Valley and Headwaters FFA chapters won national bronze awards; while Chad Nichols receives the state Star in Agricultural Production.

Clearfield, Ephrata and Selingsgrove FFAs won silver state awards; and Berlin Brothersvalley, United, and Manheim FFAs received state bronze awards.

Franklin Farm-City Program Wins Again

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — State Secretary of Agriculture Boyd E. Wolff presented awards to three Farm-City Councils, the winner of a state poster contest, and a family partnership for conservation efforts Tuesday evening.

The Farm-City Councils were recognized for their yearlong efforts to promote rural and urban understanding. County activities were documented through scrapbooks and judged in December.

Dalton Paul, chairman of the Franklin County Farm-City Council, received a plaque for first place. His organization sponsored an agricultural exposition at the Chambersburg Mall, pumpkin caper, several farm tours, environmental festival, poster contest, mall exhibits, job exchange program and a speakers bureau.

Second place was awarded to the Mifflin County Farm-City Council, chaired by Donna Snook. Their activities included an agricultural products day, school programs, work exchanges and the printing of placemats for use by local restaurants. They were also instrumental in having farm-city themes included in a Halloween parade, fall frolic, and countywide proclamation.

The Juniata Farm-City Council, chaired by Nancy Kauffman, picked up the third place award. They promoted conservation and environmental messages at the Juniata County Fair, agricultural banquet, farm family awards, cooperator of the year and printed placements with county data.

Abe Singer of Dushore won the 1992 State Farm-City Poster Contest.

His poster was the blue ribbon entry at the Sullivan County Fair and made him eligible for the state contest. He received a $100 check from Dyan Yingst, chairperson of the State Farm-City Council.

Adam Shaffer of New Stanton, representing the Harrold Fair, won second place in the poster contest earned a $75 check. Third place and $50 went to Katlyn Sleppy of Penn Run, Indiana County Fair. They were unable to get to the Farm Show for the awards.

Honorable mentions in the contest were given to Kendra Stoltfus representing the Kimberton Community Fair, and Amanda Wyman, Spartansburg Community Fair.

Gilbert Hutter of Westmoreland County received Pennsylvania's 1992 Good Earth Family Award from the National Endowment for Soil and Water Conservation. Hutter's sons Blaine and Dale accepted his award for outstanding achievement in conserving natural resources.

Hutter was a pioneer farmer in the use of no-till farming and nutrient management. His willingness to try new farming methods and his lifelong practice of soil and water conservation earned him the award.

Alpine Takes "Best Of Show' At Harrisburg

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The goat show wrapped up activities at the Pennsylvania Farm Show on Thursday. Out of 92 entries, judge Peter Snyder of New York, chose an alpine goat as the best of the show.

It wasn't the first championship for GCH Shanenako Z Gypsy, the alpine owned by Anne and Fred Leader of Wellsville. In its fifth year, the alpine, nicknamed Gypsy, has been named best of breed and of show at many competitions.

Champions from the six breeds competing included a LaMancha named Kiddin Hills XX Silver Queen. The two-year-old doe, called Queenie, is owned by Clarence and Lorraine Eschbach of Bethel. The Eschbacks have been raising goats for 20 years. This was the second time the Kiddin Hills achieved best of breed. Eschbach said the LaMancha's udder capacity impresses judges. The LaMancha was shown by the Eschbachs's 11-year-old grandson Troy Christman of Kempton.

In the Nubian breed, Lorraine Yankowich of Emmaus took best of breed with GCH Jasper Hollow Flashy Paisley. The Nubian is a 5-year-old that, according to Yankowich, usually doesn't have a chance to win because she has a better Nubian that she generally shows. But this year, Paisley showed her stuff and Yankowich was quite proud of her. "She has a sweet personality," she said.

In the Toggenburg breed, Amy Plummer of Chalfont took best of breed. Amy and her brother Paul, who is also the National Goat Representative, raise 25 to 30 goats, which they show across the U.S. The Plummers are the children of Dr. John and Maxine Plummer who own Neshaming Acres, a goat and Jersey calf farm. Amy said that her 3-year-old doesn't usually win because she has several better Toggenburgs that she shows, but this year those were either ready to kid or dry, so she brought Lime Starburst, the doe who proved that she could compete with the best.

The Saanen breed champion is owned by Ed Sollers of Alexandria. This was the first win for Charity, a yearling, that was bred on his farm where he has 43 goats.

Fifteen-year-old Katie, the daughter of Robert and Patricia Evanchalk, has 10 goats. Katie is the first in her family to raise goats. She became interested in them through 4-H. Two years ago, she showed the reserve grand champion in the recorded grade competition at the Farm Show.

"Nickel is my favorite, she is the first one I owned and she has a daughter who was named reserve and junior champion here," Katie

Windermere Farm's Percheron Takes Supreme

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Making it three out of the past four years, members of the Allebach family, owners of Windermere Farm, Spring Mills, stood in the Large Arena of the state Farm Show Complex last Saturday and showed the supreme champion draft horse.

But this was not last year's champion making a second appearance. This animal was the son of the farm's key Percheron stud — Blackhome Duke, an all black stallion, and currently the top rated sire in the U.S. and Canada.

The son, Windsong's Gambler, is a 3-year-old that the Allebachs sold and purchased back in order to have an heir to carry on the genetic heritage which has taken shape at the Centre County farm.

This is not Gambler's first win in the showring, either. He was reserve grand champion at last year's Keystone International Livestock Exposition, grand champion at the Ohio State Fair, grand at the Royal Winter Fair '92 in Toronto and the national Percheron show the last two years. He was also champion at the International Fair in Detroit, Mich.

The supreme draft horse competition at the Farm Show vies mares and stallions of three major breeds Belgian, Percheron, and Clydesdale.

The Allebachs not only had the top Percheron stallion in the ring, but the top mare as well, Windermere Joy. Joy also is an offspring from Duke.

The Allebach family consists of Gerald Allebach, 29, who showed the stallion to its win, Gerald's wife Cindy, his sister Monica, father Abraham and mother Mary.

Their 450-acre former dairy operation is located east of State College near Penn's Cavern and it is where the family has been breeding and selling Percherons, Thorobreds, Percheron-Thorobred hunter-jumpers, and Clydesdales.

This team of horses was one of several which competed for honors at the state Farm Show. Spectators throng to see the pulling contest, filling the arena to capacity.

According to Gerald, the family repurchased Gambler and two mares to back up Duke, and to begin linebreeding — crossing back on paternal sisters. As to the risk of bringing out an undesirable recessive trait, "You don't stand to lose much line breeding," Gerald said.

HYTEST BRAND CORN DOES IT AGAIN ...

NCGA CHAMPIONS
HYTEST Brand Corn has done it again in 1991! Two National Championships and 4 State Winners in the National Corn Growers Association Yield Contest.

Mr. James C. Justice II of Beckley, West Virginia was named the Class A, Non-Irrigated Division National Champion with a yield of 259.0697 Bushels per Acre and the No-Till Non-Irrigated Division National Champion with a yield of 251.7041 Bushels per Acre. These yields were also the Virginia State Winners. HYTEST Brand HT650A was used for both wins.

Mr. Jim Russin of Sharon, Connecticut was named the Class A, Non Irrigated Division State Champion with a Yield of 178.8533 Bushels per Acre using HYTEST Brand HT650A.

Mr. Joe Matejik of Mechanicsville, Pennsylvania was named the Class A, Non Irrigated Division State Champion with a Yield of 200.5841 Bushels per Acre using HYTEST Brand HT736.

PROVEN PERFORMANCE
HYTEST Brand Corn has had 16 State Winners and 3 National Champions out of the east in the past 2 years! This is a record of performance many larger National Brands can't match!

RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT
The same careful breeding, testing, and selection process that went into producing these Champion Hybrids goes into all of our varieties. Each variety, under the proper conditions, has the potential to be a Champion.

HYBRID SELECTION
Your HYTEST Brand Sales Representatives and Regional Agronomists are trained to help you select the best variety for your particular growing conditions. They will follow up with technical assistance right through harvest time.

TOP SELECTIONS FOR 1993
Each season, after review of the many test plots, demonstration plots, and numerous grower's fields, Joe Butwin, Manager -- Farm Seed at Beachley-Hardy develops his own special "favorites" list to share with all of us. Joe's choices this season are:

NORTH	SOUTH
HT7224-SX – 90 DAY	HT7510-SX – 113 DAY

McCauley's Holstein Supreme Dairy Cow

VERNON ACHENBACH, JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Alan McCauley, of Sunny Hill Farms, Elizabethtown, took home his first honors of showing the supreme champion cow of all six major dairy breeds represented in the Large Arena of the state Farm Show Complex on Tuesday.

The 3-year-old Holstein, Cameo, is an Astro Jet daughter out of a Valiant dam, besting not only the hundreds of other Holsteins, but the hundreds of other breed dairy cattle.

McCauley, a veterinarian and partner in the embro-transfer and genetic development farm Em-Tran in Elizabethtown, brought only two cattle to the show — Cameo, and a spring yearling which took second in its class.

He said the $1,000 premium was to go to offset show expenses.

Alan's son Tom McCauley showed Cameo in the ring. It was his win as well. Tom said Cameo was classified twice and is a 90-point Excellent with an Excellent mammary. Her first lactation yielded 19,000 pounds of milk and she is currently projected to 27,000 pounds, having freshened in October.

He said that the show cattle were not fed any differently than the rest of the high-producing cow segment of the 75 cows they milk regularly.

Tom also explained that while the herd is on test, the farm's rolling herd average is not indicative of the production capabilities. That is so, he said, because about 150 cows are kept at Em-Tran and are dry a lot, being used for flushing for embryos.

Cameo has also competed at the World Dairy Expo in Madison, Wis., where she earned a fifth place in her class. She was also shown at the Lancaster County Fair and the Maryland State Fair.

According to Tom, plans for Cameo currently are that she will not be flushed for embryos.

The reserve grand champion Holstein was shown by Craig and Nikki Woodring, of Chambersburg. Their 4-year-old cow was also judged to have the best udder of the Holstein show.

Elizabeth Walton, of Carlisle showed the junior champion Holstein, while Fantasyland Holsteins, of Bernville, showed the reserve junior champion.

Taking premier breeder honors were John Jr. and Alice Foster, of Petersburg, while the Woodrings were named premier exhibitor.

In the Brown Swiss breed, Gary Mase showed his first grand champion cow at the Farm Show. Mase, of Lebanon, is co-owner of Mort Sterling Mellisa. He bought Mellisa at an October herd dispersal of deceased Indiana breeder Rex Mort, who had Rex Mort & Sons farm.

Mase and Sharon Love, of Love-Haven Farms, Scottdale, actually were going to go together on the purchase of another heifer, but the one he wanted was sold for too much money. He said they settled on Cameo, which now he said he's glad he did.

"There were a couple more I would have liked to have bought," Mase said.

Mase has a small operation with a registered Brown Swiss herd and a mixed herd of Holsteins. He sells milk to Mount Joy cooperative.

Richard and Sharon Love also have a registered Brown Swiss herd and a mixed herd of Holsteins.

Mase showed the animal and was beeming with the win. He has been showing at least eight of the last 10 years. In addition to being part of the showing of the breed's grand champion, Mase also shared in the victory earned by son, Garrett, who showed the junior champion.

Taking reserve grand champion of the Brown Swiss was Steve and Robert Wagner and E. Gill, of Quarryville. Wagner has shown at a number of different shows and also does fitting and showing.

In the Guernsey competition, Aaron Gable of New Enterprise, showed the grand champion animal and the junior champion. The youth also swept the youth division titles.

The Jersey breed champion was shown by Ralaine Jerseys, of Everett, which is owned by Ray, Elaine, Leon and Lori Sollenberger. The 5-year-old Ralaine Legend Pinata was also best udder.

According to Lori Sollenberger who showed Pinata in the ring, the last time she showed at the Farm Show was in 1982.

"I thought this cow and the heifer looked pretty good and I wanted to come back," Sollenberger said.

Taking reserve grand champion Jersey was Scott Youse and Russell Subject, of Oley. Those two, plus Amy Plummer, all students at Delaware Valley College, showed the junior champion Jersey.

In the Milking Shorthorn breed, the grand and reserve grand champions were shown by Christine Young, of Newville. She also had the junior champion and was named premier breeder of the show.

Dairy Computer Programs To Be Shown At Meeting

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) Dairy farmers will have an opportunity to observe and compare a variety of computer programs designed for dairy herd management. Approximately eight different programs will be shown at the Dairy Herd Management Software Expo scheduled for January 27th and 28th. The event will be held at the Days Inn, located near the Harrisburg East exit of the Penna. Turnpike.

Anyone who is interested in computerized dairy records systems is invited to attend.

It is an opportunity to:

1. Learn what to look for when choosing dairy computer software and hardware.

2. See some of the dairy herd management software programs that are available. Each company will have the opportunity to do a half hour screen presentation of their program.

3. Make contact with people who can provide dairy herd management software, hardware and related services. There will be ample time to visit with the exhibitors.

4. Talk to experienced computer users.

This event is being conducted by Penn State Cooperative Extension. There is no registration fee. The program for each day is different. In addition to the scheduled presentations and demonstrations, there is a lot of opportunity to visit with the exhibitors. The schedule for the two days is listed below.

January 27

9:00 - Visit exhibits, refreshments.

9:30 - Considerations When Choosing Dairy Computer Software and Hardware.

10:00 - My Experiences With Computers - user panel.

10:30 - Dairy Comp 305 and ARIS - Penna. DHI — DART plus and PCDART - Raleigh DHI — Visit exhibits, lunch on your own.

1:30 - Dairy Champ — Chek-Tech — Visit exhibits, refreshments.

January 28

9:00 - Visit exhibits, refreshments.

10:00 - Dairy Base - Boumatic — Dairyplan - Westfalia — Herd Master Galaxy - Alfa Laval — Visit exhibits, lunch on your own.

1:30 - Additional presentations possibly — Visit exhibits, refreshments.

As the dairy business becomes more competitive, it becomes more and more essential for dairy producers and the people who work with them, to be able to monitor the progress of their herds and farm business closely.

To Jump-Start Milk Production, Plant Custom Farm Seed Waxy Corn Hybrids.

20 years ago, CFS introduced waxy hybrids. Today, 20 years later, CFS waxy hybrids equal ... or better ... your favorite dent in bushels per acre, standability and overall performance.

But users realize the real benefits of CFS waxy ... 100% amylopectin starch.
While dent corn is composed of 25% amylose the less digestible starch, CFS waxy is 100% amylopectin, and zero amylose Starch intake is what produces milk and weight gain in livestock. It stands to reason that CFS waxy will produce more milk for dairy producers and faster weight gain for livestock producers, on less grain fed

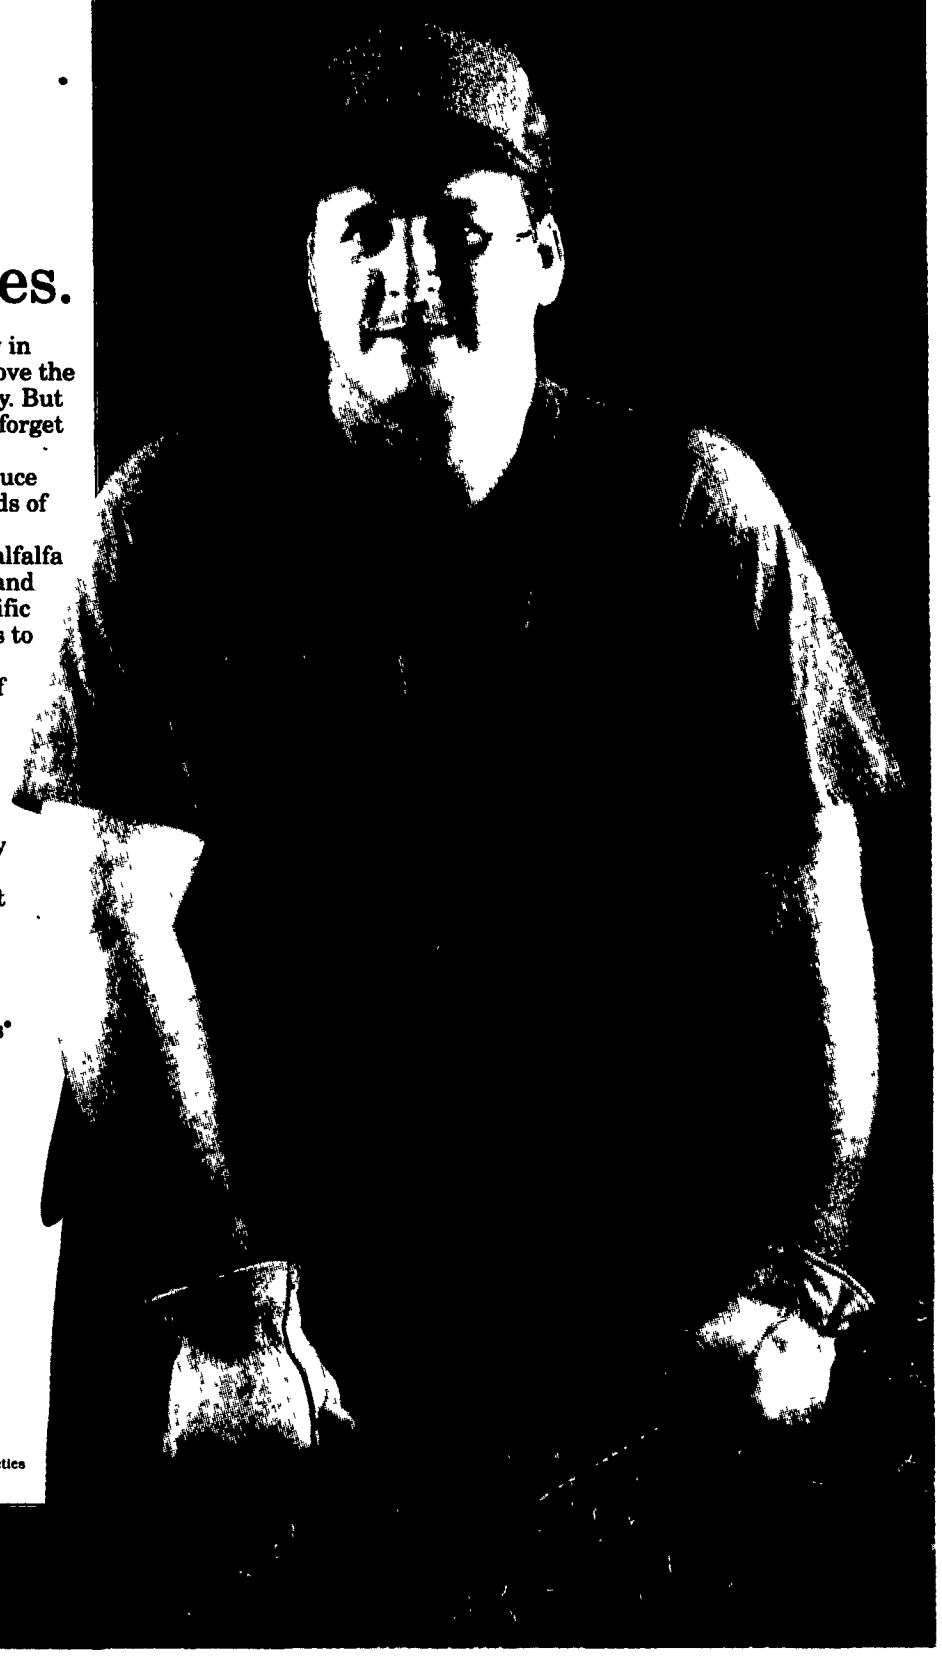
For me, the test of any alfalfa is how many pounds of nutrients per acre it produces.



I'm as interested as the next guy in what researchers are doing to improve the alfalfa varieties on the market today. But sometimes, I think seed companies forget that more leaves or better disease resistance by themselves don't produce more milk. The bottom line is pounds of nutrients per acre.

That's why I plant Multi-plier alfalfa from Jacques. Sure it's a multileaf and has good winter-hardiness and terrific disease resistance. But all that says to me is that Multi-plier has the potential to produce more pounds of nutrients per acre on my farm.

I look at my corn silage hybrids the same way. So I also plant a lot of 7970 from Jacques. Yes, it's big and leafy and yes, it makes a lot of grain and fits my operation. But my analysis only measures total digestible nutrients and that's what I'm looking for.

I'm open to new alfalfa varieties and silage corn hybrids, but only if they'll deliver more pounds of nutrients per acre than my Jacques® Multi-plier and 7970.

Keystone Cornucopia Changes Date

The Pennsylvania State Council of Farm Organizations has changed the date of the Annual Keystone Cornucopia reception to February 8, 1993, from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. at the Harrisburg Hilton. The cost of the reception is $25.00.

We feel that it is vital to the Cornucopia to have the reception during the time the legislators are in session. The purpose of the Cornucopia is for everyone to be able to meet and talk with their legislators about concerns in the agricultural community.

President Ernie Miller said, "to have the Cornucopia at a time other than when legislators are in session would defeat the purpose of the Cornucopia".

Pennsylvania State Council of Farm Organizations promotes the welfare of agriculture in Pennsylvania by bringing together in the Council farm organizations of state-wide activity or influence for the study, discussion and solution of mutual problems and to sponsor and support constructive legislation which will be valuable and helpful to Pennsylvania agriculture and to farmers' agencies which are working for a better agriculture.

and only slowed down after reaching more than $13,000.

Details of the fund were not complete by presstime, due to the fact that the concept of buyers going together to support such an effort was only conceived that morning.

Kenneth Winebark, Lebanon County extension agent, had acted as point man in the effort to cooperate on the record purchase. First, Mark made it known that he would be more than satisfied with receiving $5,000 for his Hampshire-Duroc cross swine. Any additional monies that buyers pay he said would be nice to use to help someone starting out.

According to Winebark, the endowment fund is being created though the Friends of 4-H at Penn State University. He said the scholarship will be available to qualified applicants for scholarships to college, trades schools or to fund the startup of an agribusiness. Applicants have to exhibit in the Pennsylvania Farm Show's junior livestock program in beef, sheep or swine.

"We've got businesses like Hatfield Quality Meats, Hoss's Steak and Sea House, and Glatfelter Agribusiness Insurance that are tremendous suppporters of the 4-H and FFA programs," he said.

Two years ago, Darryl Bomgardner of Lebanon set the stage for the creation of the fund. At that time, his grand champion sold to Carlos Leffler for the record price. He kept $5,000 and donated $1,500 to the Pennsylvania

BRING IT HOME.

Get the yields you deserve for all the hard work that goes into raising a good corn crop, with the proven performance advantage of Pioneer® brand hybrids. Because all over the country, the facts show, once again, those who planted our hybrids harvested more bushels per acre. So ask your Pioneer sales representative about which hybrids will help bring out the Earning Power in your fields. And keep a good thing going.

NEW

3525 — 106 CRM

The new performance leader in this maturity. 3525 is a widely adapted, stable, high-yielding hybrid. Tall plant type, excellent for grain and silage. Late flowering. Good ear flex and ear attachment.

3394 — 111 CRM

Record setting yields and exceptional agronomics. This exciting hybrid combines: impressive early growth, strong stalks and roots, exceptional stress tolerance, above average drydown and lengthy staygreen. Widely adapted to varying soil types, tillage methods and populations. Good grain appearance.

3293 — 114 CRM

Similar to 3241 with more top-end yield potential. Exceptional early growth. This hybrid features outstanding stalks, superior staygreen and drought tolerance. Above average grain appearance and grain protein content.

3241 — 114 CRM

Excellent early growth and resistance to several diseases make 3241 ideal for conservation tillage. Grain growers will appreciate its outstanding stalks, lengthy staygreen and reliable drought tolerance. Good grain appearance with above average grain protein. Top silage producer.

Comparative Relative Maturity (CRM)

With no industry standard for maturity ratings, comparing maturities between companies is usually difficult. Use this rating to compare Pioneer hybrids with competitive hybrids of similar maturity and harvest moisture. These ratings are based on customer side-by-side and research comparison experience. Individual company ratings may still show a variation from the average comparative rating.

Winners Named In Junior Steer And Breeding Shows

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)—With his fancy black crossbred steer named "Buddy" looking in perfect condition, 18-year-old Lewis Moore walked into the winner's circle at the Farm Show Jr. Steer Show, Wednesday afternoon. With his base at Claycomb Farms in Bedford County, young Moore said he hopes to stay on the farm in the future and believes all the effort to care for the steer was a great way to gain experience for life. Moore had shown at the Eastern National and the Keystone International earlier this year, but this was his first grand championship.

Jonathan Lori with his 1,355 pound steer named "Arrow" won the reserve grand champion banner. Lori is from Fayette County.

In a change in procedure this year, champions in each weight division were not named in the crossbred show. A champion and a reserve champion was selected and along with the breed champions they competed for the over all grand champion of the show.

In the Angus division Keith Grubb, York County, had the champion and Bryan Dean, Lawrence County took reserve.un

In the Charolais breed, Stan Reever, York County, had the only entry.

In the Limousin show, Jennifer Lori, Fayette County, had the champion, Jon Harnish, Lebanon County, had the reserve.

Kevin Rooker, Fayette County had the champion Polled Hereford, and Curt Stockdale, Armstrong County, had the reserve.

In the Simmental show, Derrick Carlisle, Washington County, had the champion, and Raymond Stough, York County had the reserve.

J. Ira Coble Award

The annual J. Ira Coble award was presented this year to Robert and the late Doris Sickler. They were leaders in Chester County for 16 years and were instrumental in establishing the daily gain and feed efficiency award in the Chester County 4-H Beef Club. They helped to develop young people through the 4-H program and started the Chester County show and sale three years ago. They also served on the extension board and the 4-H board of directors.

W. Donald Templeton Award

Suffel Takes Ewe To Supreme Championship

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Stacy Suffel of Carlisle took supreme champion ewe with "Pearl," a 15-month-old Dorset, at the Farm Show on Sunday.

"Pearl" was also judged grand champion of her division earlier in the day. The ewe had placed first in the fall ewe division at NAICE last year.

Stacy also won champion Dorset at the junior show on Wednesday. The same day, she swept the Hampshire division, winning champion and reserve.

Stacy is the daughter of John and Shirley Suffel, who reside at the 70-acre Yellow Rose Farm in Cumberland County. She is a freshman at Penn State and is studying to be an elementary teacher.

Dairy Fun Night

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Of the many activities at the 1993 Pennsylvania Farm Show, "Dairy Fun Night", held Tuesday evening, offered hilarious activities from "cow pie" dodging to a milking and butter making contest that ended in a "butter fight."

The evening's purpose of "fun with the dairy industry" reached planners' goals.

The Celebrity Cow Milking and Butter Making Contest resulted in unusual actions by area media celebrities.

The contest began with a fight over the "perfect" cow to milk. Everything became progressively more competitive as media personalities resorted to ridiculous antics to get milk from their cows. Some massaged udders while others worked diligently to make their cows give milk.

The Butter Making contest was a hard fought competition, that ended in a butter fight between several teams. The WHP-AM team, Rod Fritz and Melanie Apple, from Harrisburg, earned the first place prize from judges, while another Harrisburg team, WNNK-FM's Bruce Bond and John Shaffer, won a close second placing. Other participating teams included: WGTY-FM, Gettysburg; WHP-TV, Harrisburg; WQLV-FM, Millersburg; and WWKL-FM, Harrisburg.

Chris Fickes, WIMX-AM program director, served as master of ceremony with Crystal Schweighofer, state dairy princess. Secretary of Agriculture, Boyd E. Wolff, welcomed the crowd and promised an entertaining evening.

The first event featured eight teams competing to churn the best flavor of ice cream. Each recipe was uniquely created by the teams, with all recipes made with "Real" dairy products.

A grandmother, Elsie Smith, and her grandchildren, all from Roearing Spring, worked to churn their "Hawaiian Delight" to the top prize, $300. The second place award, $160, was given to a "Strawberry" ice cream, created by John Hess, from Manheim. Harold and Linda Geise, Watsontown, took the third place prize, $125, for their "Winter's Delight."

Other entries were churned by: Chris and Brenda Davidson, Shippensburg; Galen Kopp, Mount Joy; Benjamin Schriver, Jonestown; Harry Thompson, Mount Joy; and Connie Troutman, Mohrsville.

Three judges were Phil Keeney, Jr., from the Hershey Creamery, Company, Harrisburg, Daina Savage, a reporter with the Lancaster Intelligencer Journal, and John Shaffer, Newscaster with WNNK-FM, Harrisburg.

The newest event for the evening, the "Dairy Obstacle Contest," generated plenty of action during

Integrated Program Offered By ASCS

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Farmers wrestling with how to meet minimum erosion standards required under the Food Security Act should look into the options offered by the Integrated Farm Management or IFM program through the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) office.

For the first time, a government program offers farmers an opportunity to diversify rotations to improve soil resource sustainability and imnprove Integrated Pest Management without being penalized with the loss of crop acreage bases. Eligibility requires that 20% of all crop acreage bases for the farm be devoted to a legume, legume-grass, small grain--legume-grass combination or other soil conserving crop.

Advantages include: soil conservation, pest control (IPM), improved soil structure and fertility with no loss of crop acreage base. And depending on how the program is set up, non-program nurse grain crops, such as oats, rye or spelts, can be harvested for grain and the legume seeded with the grain can be hayed or grazed without losing base acres or deficiency payment eligibility!

The 20% base committed to soil conserving use can be rotated from one field to another every year allowing the reseeding of hay strips without losing crop base acres. It's important to note, the 20% base acreage figure is an average over the life of the contract. In other words, the 20% figure doesn't have to be met every year as long as the contract average is 20%.

All base crops on the farm must be enrolled in the program for a minimum of three years and a maximum of five years. Any contracts expiring by 1995 are eligible for renewal for another three to five year period. And of course if the requirements of the contract are violated there are provisions for penalties.

IFM is a win-win situation for those farmers who have wanted to break the grain intensive cycle to conserve soil resources but didn't want to risk the loss of base acres. IFM may make it easier for farmers to establish a rotation to meet minimum soil loss standards for the Food Security Act (FSA) without having to buy expensive no-till equipment or install structural control practices like diversions or terraces.

All Counties in Pennsylvania are eligible up to a limit of 60,000+ acres statewide. See your local County ASCS office for specific details regarding your individual situation. Remember, a decision on participation will have to be made before April 30, 1993, the end of the spring sign up period

A word of caution: take a copy of this article along to the ASCS office. There has been some confusion in some offices between this program and the SP-53 program which is limited to only thirteen counties in the state. Once again, all counties in Pennsylvania are eligible for IFM!

Nutrient Management Bill Meeting

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — You are cordially invited to attend a meeting on January 18, 1993 at 3:00 p.m. at Kreider's Restaurant, RT. 72, Manheim, to discuss a proposed Whole-Farm Nutrient Management bill. The proposed Whole-Farm Bill, which is in competition to SB1444, will be introduced to the Pennsylvania Legislature in January.

All persons attending the meeting at Kreider's will receive a copy of the proposed bill and a 45 minute briefing. There will be approximately 30 minutes allocated for discussion.

This meeting is open to all interested persons, and we encourage your active participation. Please let others know of this meeting. Reservations are not required, but would be helpful for planning purposes. Phone: (717) 859-3276. Thank you.

Welk Reelected To ASC Committee

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Lloyd H. Welk, a southern Lancaster County dairy farmer, was recently elected to serve on the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) Committee for another 3-year term. He was elected by community committee delegates at the annual convention held December 21, 1992 at the Farm and Home Center.

Welk, of 231 West State Street, Quarryville, will represent the farmers from six southern Lancaster County communities in the administration of ASCS farm programs beginning in January 1993. He had previously served as a field and office assistant with ASCS for three years, beginning in 1972, and as a performance supervisor and chief field assistant from 1976 through 1980. He also served as a community committeeman representing Eden, Bart, and Sadsbury Townships for six years before being elected to his first term on the County Committee in 1990.

Also elected at the county convention were A. Dale Herr, Kirkwood, as first alternate and G. Victor Brinton, Peach Bottom, as second alternate. Each alternate will also serve a three-year term representing the farmers of southern Lancaster County.

The community committee delegates also chose Paul B. Kline, Lititz, to be chairman; Robert E. Martin, New Holland, to be vice chairman; and Lloyd Welk, to be regular member.

The grand champion market lamb was sold by Taryn Rockwell, of Carlisle, to Hoss's Steak and Sea House for $900. The reserve champion sold by Jeremy Dobbin, of Halifax, to Kessler Inc. for $1,100.

The grand champion steer shown by Lewis Moore, of Osterburg, sold to Hoss's for $15,000. The old record was set last year by Hoss's with a price of $25,000.

And the reserve grand champion steer á Limousin, was sold by Johnathan Lori, of Scottsdale, to C&C Cattle and Sugar Maple Leaf Farm for $4,100.

...event. Four teams from Pennsylvania FFA chapters competed in three separate events: hay bale stacking, "cow pie" dodging, and "milk robotics" (milk pouring). The "cow pie" dodging consisted of team members traveling through an area covered with "cow pies" made of chocolate pudding.

Gifford Pinchot FFA, from Dillsburg, York County, came away with the top prize, $75, in this contest. Team members Quentin Crone, Trish Erford and Dave Myers had the highest score in the event. Scores for the teams were based upon time and several quality standards. A team from Greenwood FFA, Millerstown, Perry County, came in second, winning a $50 prize.

Two other teams competed, one from Albion FFA, Erie County, and the other from Moniteau FFA, Butler County.

Judges for the contest included Mrs. Peggy Wolff, wife of the state secretary of agriculture, the state Alternate Dairy Princesses Jennifer Rosenberry, and Sandy Gross, from Berks County.

Two other events during the evening were "Dairy Feud," a take-off from the television game show, and a milk mustache contest.

The Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program created "Dairy Fun Night" at the PA Farm Show to bring recognition to the state's leading agricultural industry. Event organizers wanted visitors to the show to leave with a greater understanding of the economic significance of this industry and the value of the state's many dairy products.

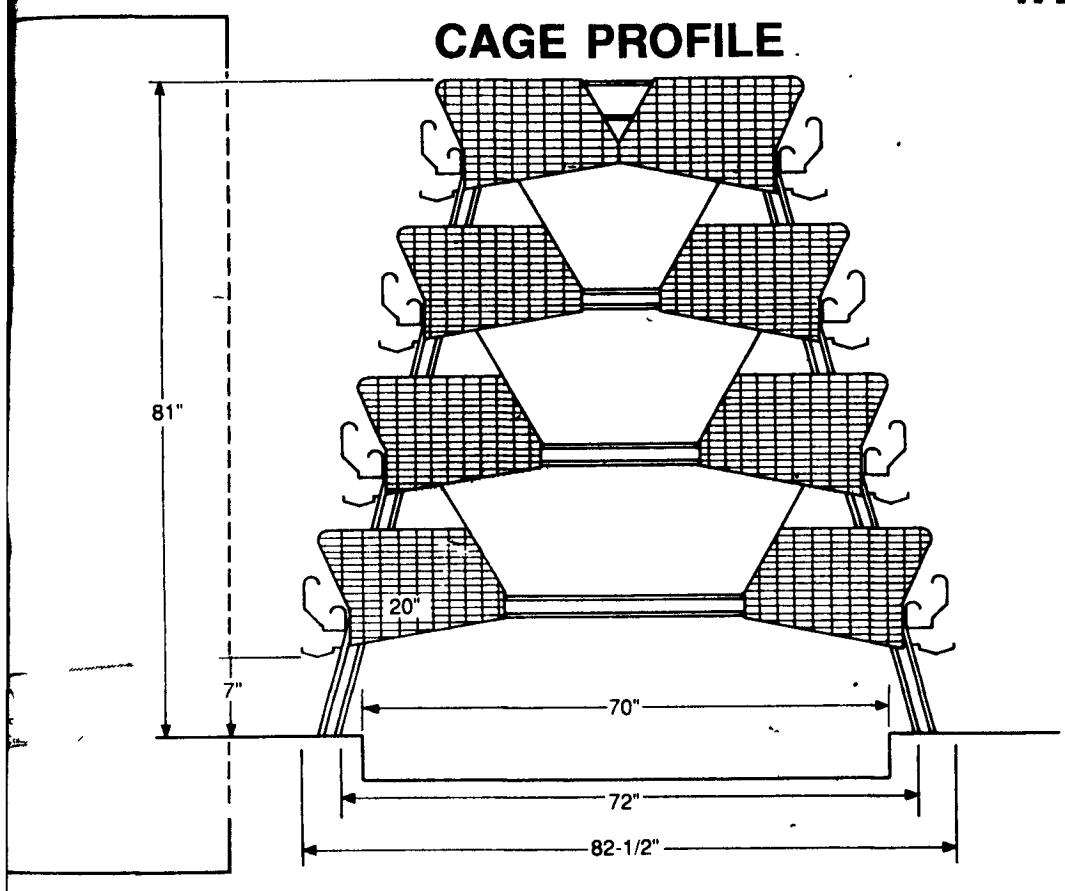
ee How It Really Measures Up To The Original, Big Dutchman

uple the Big Dutchman cages with a rshey-designed building and equipment tallation and you have an unbeatable mbination for service and efficiency.
Hershey system is better ventilated, and has en proven to use less electricity.

A Hershey building includes more lumber and heavier metal in its construction, and therefore is stronger by design.
And, there is a real bonus in it, because a Hershey built system provides a bigger percentage of larger eggs for a longer period of time.

IS BETTER?



CAGE DOORS...Our sliding door is easy for the operator to open and close, but impossible for a bird to open. Once closed, the door stays closed.

ALIGNMENT...Our rows stay aligned, enhancing top performance from the feeders and egg collectors.

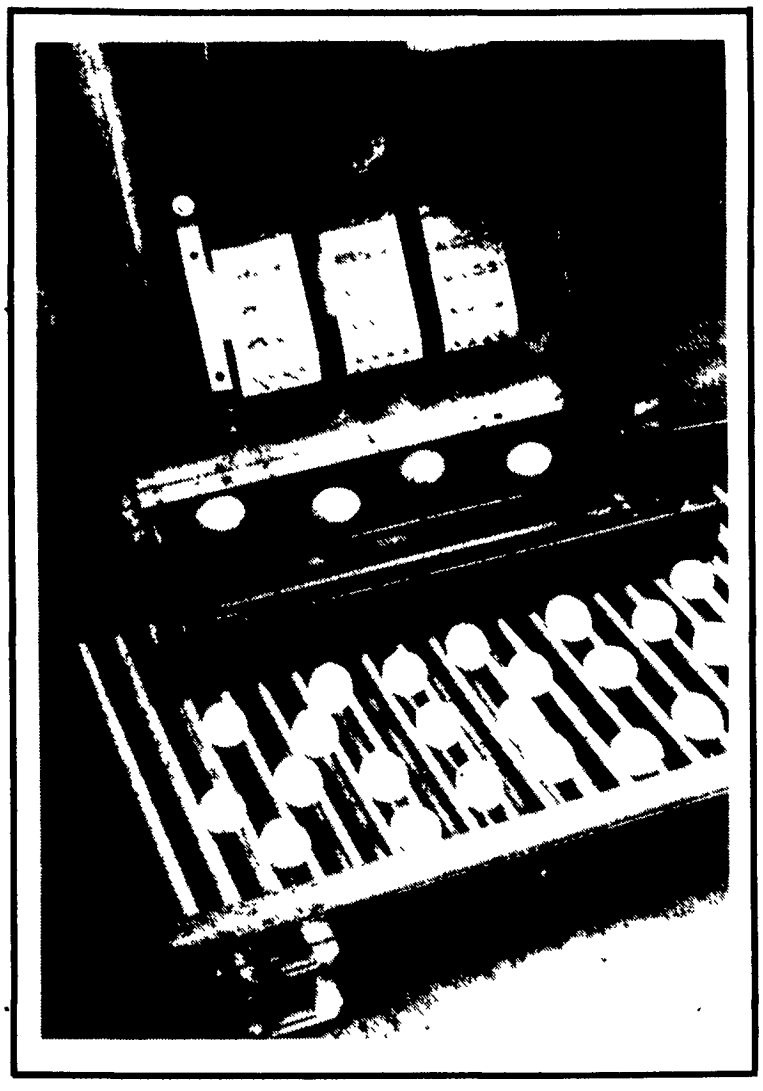
A PROPER FIT...Our feed trough fits snugly on the cage. This provides strength, and protects eggs as they move to the egg belt. The straight inner side of the trough also acts as a manure shield.

WHOSE COLLECTOR IS BETTER?

FINGERBELT TRANSFER...The Big Dutchman fingerbelt collector utilizes a series of rubber fingers mounted in a durable belt to hold eggs in a safe position on the incline, going down from cage belts to cross-conveyor.

DUAL DRIVE...Each collector has two drive motors, one for each side. This provides better control with fewer moving parts. Shafts and bearings are all heavy duty material.

PROVEN ROD CONVEYOR...The rod conveyor moves eggs from the collector to the packer with no rolling or colliding. It can move up and down inclines, and is ideal for moving eggs between several houses and the packing room in multi-building farms.



QUALITY EGG BELT...We offer our standard 3¾ inch woven fabric belts. A shallow "V" shape in the wire egg tray keeps eggs in the center.

UNIQUE DESIGN...The Big Dutchman collector does not protrude or hang over the cross conveyor. The full width of the conveyor is used to handle more eggs with less contact between eggs. Dirt, feathers and soft-shells drop through the rod conveyor and are not carried to the packer.

Greatest Cocoa Cake Comes From Tioga County

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) —"I came prepared for three fatalities," said Sandy Johnson of Tioga County.

Instead, Sandy was proclaimed the first-place winner of the Greatest Cocoa Cake Contest at the Pennsylvania Farm Show on January 9, for which she won a weekend trip for four to her choice of the Hershey Resort and Conference Center of the Hershey Hotel.

"My kids say that I am a pessimist," Sandy said. That was why she prepared two cakes and made a 9-inch three layer cake, which could be cut down to regular size in case it crumbled on the trip. Just in case, Sandy also brought two bowls of extra frosting and chocolate roses and leaves for decorating.

To her relief, the cake that Sandy decorated at 3 a.m. that morning survived the four and a half hour drive from their home. She arrived at the Farm Show within 15 minutes of the entry deadline.

Sandy and her husband Charles live on a 400-acre Pennsylvania dairy farm that borders New York.

Sandy taught herself the art of cake decorating after the birth of her first child. Now five children and one grandchild later, Sandy has a small cake decorating business that she operates from her home.

Sandy said that she has been using the chocolate cake recipe for years. For the visual appeal, Sandy said, "I just started decorating and this is what I ended up with."

The cake had a mass of chocolate roses and chocolate covered leaves, which were real rose leaves brushed with a mixture of melted chocolate chips and chocolate candy wafers.

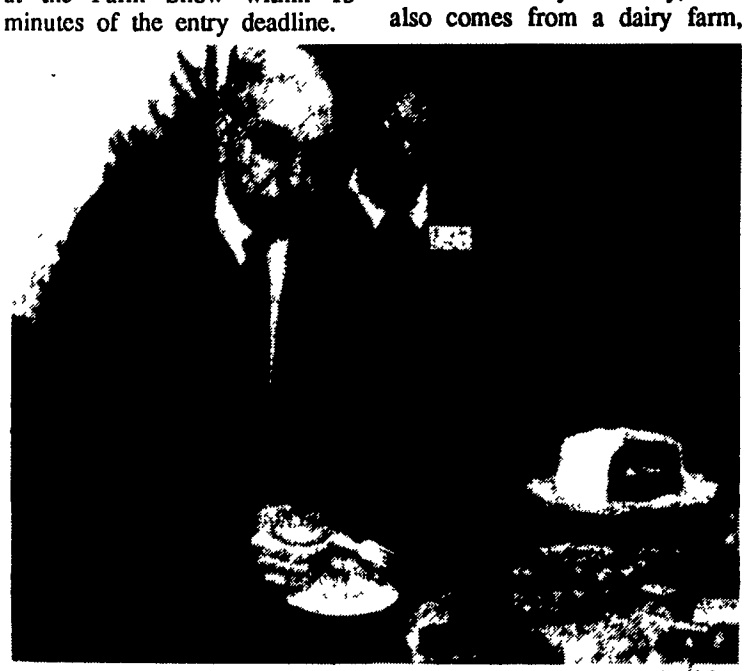
"My cake uses real dairy products," Sandy stressed.

So, also does the cake of second-place winner Dolly Longenecker, who was grand prize winner of last year's state contest. This year, Dolly baked a different cake than last year. Dolly, who also comes from a dairy farm, baked a Chocolate Mint Cake that earned her a $50 prize. It had been the winner at the Manheim Community Farm Show.

Third place and $35 went to Julie Raup for her Cocoa-Nut Layer Cake. Entries in the competition needed to win a blue ribbon at the county level before they could qualify for state competition.

According to Beverly Gruber, secretary-treasurer of the Pennsylvania State Association of County Fairs, there was a total of 1,118 cakes entered in 94 county and local fairs.

Judges for the state competition were Lynn Stallworth, New York culinary writer; Michael Schnader, Allentown; Martene Firestine, secretary for Penn Agri-woman; and Dianne Hassinger, cook from Millersburg.



"In my job, I have to eat chocolate cake and apple pie. It's a tough job," said Sec. of Agriculture Boyd Wolff with obvious pleasure.

SANDY'S CHOCOLATE CAKE

1 cup butter
3 cups lightly packed brown sugar
4 eggs
2 teaspoons vanilla
¾ cup cocoa powder
3 teaspoons baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
3 cups minus 6 tablespoons flour
1⅓ cup sour cream
1⅓ cup boiling water

Cream butter, add brown sugar. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Beat on high speed until light and fluffy. Beat in Hershey's cocoa, baking soda, and salt. Add flour alternately with sour cream. Blend on low speed until blended. Add water and stir again.

Pour into three greased 9-inch pans. Bake at 350 degrees for 35 minutes. Cool in pans for 10 minutes before removing. Cool and frost with your favorite buttercream frosting.

Half-and-half contains between 10 and 12 percent milk fat — more than milk and less than cream. It can be substituted in recipes calling for light cream, which has at least 18 percent milk fat, but not for heavy cream, which contains at least 36 percent milk fat.

Second Try Earns Blue Ribbon Apple Pie Honors

LOU ANN GOOD

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — "Nothing is as American as Mom and apple pie," was the theme of the Blue Ribbon Apple Pie Contest held at the Farm Show on January 9.

Out of 54 entries, Pamela Paulsell's All-American Green Apple Pie was pronounced the winner of the $100 prize.

Pamela said that she got up at 4 a.m. to bake the pie. She traveled from her home in Chester County, holding her freshly baked pie, and reached the Farm Show Complex at 8:30 a.m. Judging began at 10 a m.

"It's the same recipe that I entered last year, but it didn't even place then," said Pamela, who advises others to keep trying even if they don't succeed at first.

Since she did not win at the state level last year, Pamela admits to being tempted to change her recipe, but family members urged her to keep the same recipe, "because it tastes great and a different set of judges might like it."

It was good advice as Jim Harvey, one of the judges, said that Pamela's pie "was one of the finest apple pies I've ever seen or eaten."

Other judges were Betty Groff, cook book writer and owner of Groff's Farm Restaurant, Lancaster; Brad Flich, operations manager for Z107; and Kirsten Miller of JDK Catering, Harrisburg.

Each of the judges chose three out of the 15 pies they tasted. Then the pies of the 12 finalists were again tasted and awarded points by each judge.

Judging was based on overall appearance, crust flavor, color, and texture, filling flavor and texture, and creativity.

To be eligible to enter the state apple pie contest, entries must first win a blue ribbon at a county fair. Pamela won hers at the Unionville Community Fair.

Second place and $60 went to Charlotte Glenett of Middleburg for her Rhu-Cran-Apple Pie.

Third place and $40 was earned by Debra Todd of Graysville. Pennylvania Apple Marketing Program awarded the premiums.

ALL-AMERICAN GREEN APPLE PIE

Select Crispin apples (a Pennylvania hybrid apple that is green and sweetly tart, crisp, and outstanding for eating and baking). Pare and slice the apples, thinly.

Sprinkle with 2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ cup granulated sugar
½ cup brown sugar
¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
Dash salt
3 tablespoons butter

Mix the dry ingredients and blend in butter. Spread over apples while preparing the crust.

Pie Crust
Makes 2 9-inch crusts

2 cups unbleached flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅔ cup plus 2 tablespoons vegetable shortening
1¼ cups cold water

Blend dry ingredients and shortening. Slowly add a little water to mix dry ingredients, just enough for easy handling. Split the dough in half and roll out the bottom crust. Add the apple filling. Roll out the second crust and place over top. Crimp and seal. Brush lightly with milk and bake at 425 degrees in preheated oven for 50 to 60 minutes. Protect edges of pie crust with foil during the first 30 minutes of baking.

Sec. of Agriculture Boyd Wolff congratulates Pamela Paulsell, champion of the Blue Ribbon Apple Pie Contest.

Emu Receives Big Promotion At Farm Show

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Samples of emu were offered to visitors during some of the cooking demonstrations held at the Pennsylvania Farm Show.

"It tastes similar to beef," said one participant.

"A bit like beef heart," said another.

Emu is a red meat, high in protein and similar to beef but lower in fat, calories, and cholesterol.

"It's the health food of the 90s," say Emu breeders.

At this point emu is extremely high priced and difficult to purchase in the area. But emu breeders plan to change that.

"Right now it is a breeder market, not a slaughter market," Judy Congreve said.

Chicks cost $2,000 to $2,500 a piece. A yearling emu cost $5,000 to $7,000.

"Once they reach three months of age, emu are disease resistant and very hardy," Judy said.

"Emu are very cost efficient, having a high food to weight conversion factor and can be maintained with a minimum of labor and space," According to Judy, the emu is a gentle, flightless bird similar to an ostrich. They are docile and have an amusing curiosity.

The emu grows to a height of 5 to 6 feet and weighs up to 150 pounds. They begin to breed at 18 to 30 months of age and can produce more than 30 eggs a year.

After 48 to 60 days of artificial incubation, hatched chicks are kept in a brooder until they learn to eat and then are moved to a larger area for exercise with shelter.

In addition to meat, emu provides a hypo-allergenic, deep penetrating oil used in cosmetic cream and for medicinal purposes.

Leather is similar to ostrich hide, although softer and more pliable, the appearance and durability are the same. It is used for boots, shoes, briefcases, purses, clothing, and accessories.

The feathers are used for fashion clothing, dusters, and fishing lures.

Broken or hatched egg shells can be made into jewelry or other fashion accessories.

The birds are slaughter at 14 months for use as meat. About 50 pounds of breast meat comes from a bird.

Marcia Sharp, who was in charge of the food demonstration, said that emu and chicken are wonderful cooked together.

"You should treat emu similar to beef. It has the flavor but no saturated fat," she said.

Tarragaon 'n Thyme Chicken & Tarragon 'n Thyme Emu*

2 (2½ to 3 lb.) broiler fryer chickens, quartered
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons tarragon leaves (or sprig over each quarter)
3 tablespoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon ground thyme
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 tablespoons Old Cider Mill Tarragon Vinegar
Thin slices of lemon
3 tablespoons lemon juice

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Rinse chicken, pat dry. Place chicken, skin side up, in shallow baking pan in foil. Sprinkle salt, pepper, tarragon, thyme, lemon juice and tarragon vinegar over chicken. Cover tightly with foil. Bake 40 minutes. Remove or open foil and bake 20-25 minutes longer, or until tender. Sprinkle with juice, chopped parsley and garnish with lemon slices.

FOR EMU: Substitute 1 lb. well trimmed sliced Emu.

Vegetable Pasta

1 (2-3 lb.) spaghetti squash
1 small zucchini
2 medium onions, chopped
2 tablespoons butter
1 (16 ounce) can stewed tomatoes
½ pound mushrooms, sliced
16 ounces shredded cheddar cheese
Salt and pepper to taste

Cut squash in half and place down in a shallow pan. Put water to bottom of squash and cover with foil. Bake about 1 hour at 350 degrees. Take out seeds and, with a fork, scrape out the squash into spaghetti shreds. Put into a greased baking dish. Fry zucchini and onion in butter. Add mushrooms and saute a few minutes. Mix remaining ingredients except ½ of the cheese. Mix with squash. Top with remaining cheese. Bake at 350 degrees until cheese is melted and bubbly.

Chicken Country Captain & Emu Country Captain*

2 tablespoons butter and vegetable oil
1½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper
¼ teaspoon Spanish paprika
¼ cup flour
4 chicken thighs, skinned and deboned, cut into strips
3 cups steamed white rice

Sauce:

1 small onion, diced
1 small red and/or green pepper cored, seeded and cut batonnet
1 clove garlic, minced
1 tablespoon fresh minced parsley
¼ teaspoon thyme
½ teaspoon curry powder
¼ teaspoon black pepper
¼ cup water
1¼ cups tomato juice
9 ounces canned tomatoes, cut concasee
¼ cup currants
½ cup almonds toasted

Mix the seasoning mixture. Dredge the chicken pieces in the mixture, shaking off excess flour. In a large skillet, heat the butter and oil. Saute chicken to a golden brown. Remove from the skillet and keep warm. Add more butter if necessary. Saute onion, red and/or green pepper, garlic and parsley, just until the onion is translucent. Add water, thyme, curry powder and black pepper. Stir in the tomato juice and tomatoes. Simmer the sauce over medium heat for 10 minutes or until slightly thickened. Add the chicken to the sauce. Simmer 10 to 15 minutes longer. Stir in 3 tablespoons of currants. Serve mixture over steamed rice. Dust with currants and almonds.

Cajun Chicken and Shrimp Cream & Cajun Emu and Shrimp Cream*

Seasoned Flour:

¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon white pepper
1 teaspoon onion powder
½ -1 teaspoon cayenne pepper
2 teaspoons sweet paprika

Recipe:

1 pound fettucine, cooked, drained and buttered
2 full chicken breasts, skinned, boned and cut into 1 inch cubes
8 ounces large shrimp, shelled and deveined
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
4 tablespoons unsalted butter
6 scallions, cut into ¼ inch rounds including the green leaves
1 (6 ounce) jar marinated artichoke hearts, quartered, juice reserved
½ to 1 cup chicken broth
1 cup heavy cream

Prepare the seasoned flour. Place in a zip lock style plastic bag. Prepare the chicken and shrimp as described above. In small batches, add to the seasoned flour. Shake to coat evenly, removing excess flour. Heat oil and butter in a heavy skillet over high heat. Add the chicken and shrimp pieces. Saute until golden, about 4 minutes. Add the scallions. Saute 2 minutes. Add chicken broth. Stir to mix and dissolve the brown flavor bits. Cook mixture over medium heat for 4 minutes. Add the heavy cream and reserved marinated liquid. Cook over medium heat until sauce thickens and reduce. Add the artichokes and heat through. Serve mixture over cooked pasta, garnished with minced parsley and/or scallions. Serves 4.

FOR EMU: Substitute 1 pound well trimmed, small diced Emu.

Spicy Garlic Chicken & Spicy Garlic Emu*

2 pounds boneless chicken breasts
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
15 cloves garlic, peeled and split
½ cup Old Cider Mill Hot Pepper Vinegar
2 tablespoons honey
1 ounce soy sauce

Wash chicken and cut in half. Brown all in vegetable oil in heavy skillet. Add garlic and cook a little longer, until browned. Add remaining ingredients and cook over medium heat until chicken is done and glazed with sauce. Turn chicken several times during cooking.

FOR EMU: Substitute 1 to 2 pounds well trimmed diced Emu.

Chicken Cerubi & Emu Cerubi*

1 whole chicken breasts, skinned, bonned and cut into 1 inch cubes
8 oz. Italian sausage, cut into ½ inch slices
8 oz. fresh mushrooms, sliced emincer
Dash of oregano, basil, salt and white pepper
4 tablespoons butter, divided
3 scallions, cut into ¼ inch pieces
2 slices ham, cut batonnet
3 ounces snow peas, stringed
¼ cup all purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper
¼ cup dry white wine
Cooked fettuccine, angel hair or rice

Skin, bone and cut chicken into pieces as indicated above. Mix together the flour, salt and white pepper. Dredge the chicken in the seasoned flour, shaking off excess flour. Melt 3 tablespoons of butter in a saute pan. Saute chicken pieces until light colden in color. Add the sausage pieces. Saute until firm to the touch. Remove and set aside. Add the remaining butter to the skillet. Saute the mushrooms and green peppers. Add the ham, snow peas and scallions. Saute 3-5 minutes. Deglaze the skillet with the white wine. Add the reserved chicken and sausage, along with the seasonings. Cover and simmer over low heat for 10 minutes or until chicken is firm to the touch. Serve chicken mixture over hot pasta or rice. Serves 2.

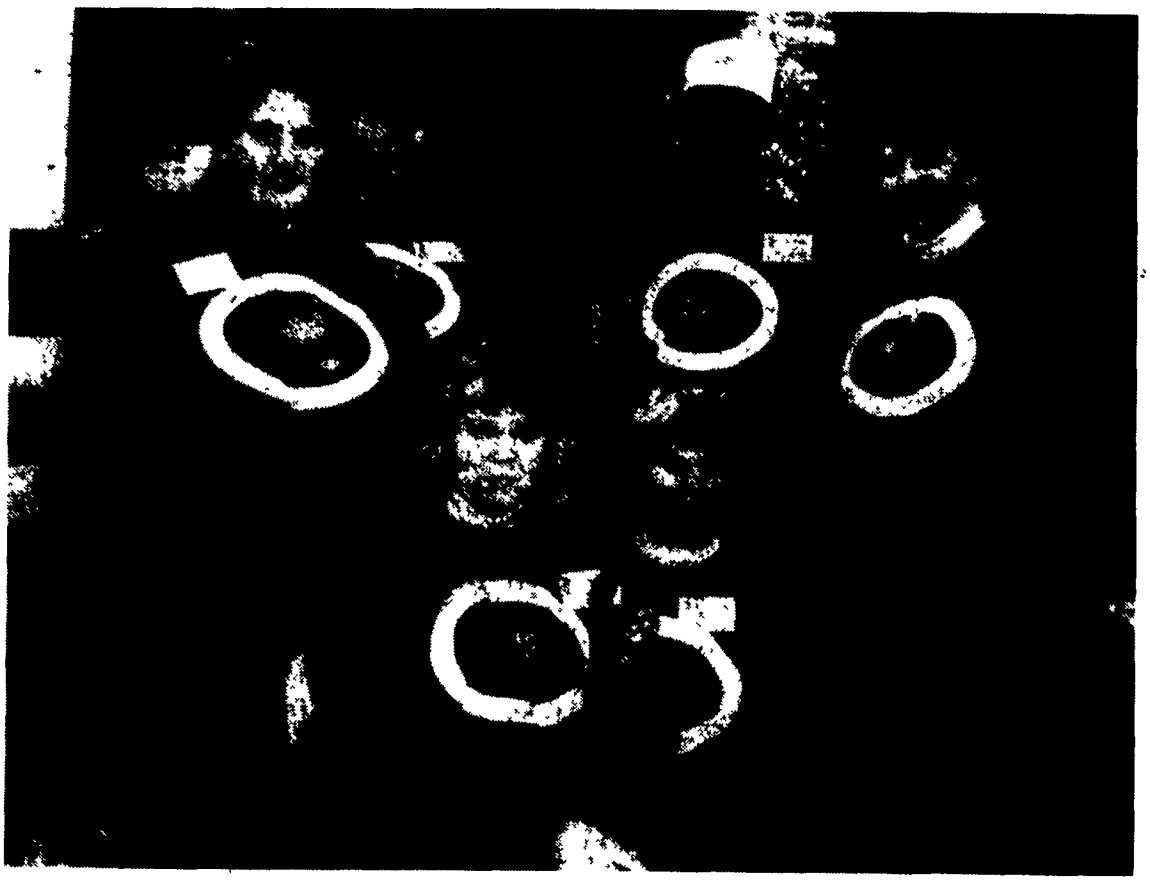
This culinary dish features chicken and emu, a dark meat that is high in protein and low in fat. Holding the meat are emu growers from Bernie's Flying Emu Farm in Etters. Visitors at the cooking demonstration sampled the meat.



From left, Joanne Cissel, Ann Cissel, Bill Cissle and Judy Congreve with Nancy Hulsizer and Rita Liptz, seated, eagerly tell Farm Show visitors everything they should know about raising emu.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

So goes an old saying. Ever wonder — got the cat what? Dead? Hurt? Lost?

Curiosity got Butch, our dark-tiger-striped barn cat, a mouse a few mornings ago. He's learned that when bales are moved in the feed alley of the heifer pen, sometimes a mouse slips away.

Curiosity almost got Butch squashed this morning when he perched atop a pile of bales thrown down through the hay hole. He nearly got flattened beneath another bale dropping through.

So, curiosity might well get the cat. Here, though, there often seems to be a need to re-write that old cliche.

"Curiosity got the cow" might be equally appropriate.

If there's anything with more curiosity than a bunch of cattle, I don't personally want to have to deal with it. Cattle curiosity causes enough close calls.

On one of the those balmy, spring-like days last week, The Farmer delivered a big calf to a first-time heifer mother. Because it was a rather difficult calving, we knew the calf would not have the immediate strength to stand and nurse within an hour or so, like it should.

Bottle in hand, I headed out across the heifer pasture under the afternoon sunshine to feed the new baby. Reluctant at first, she began to nurse with a little coaxing. Intent on the feeding, a nudge at my back caught my attention — the ringleader of a virtual stampede of bred heifers trotting in our direction. Curious. Wondering what was going on.

"Shoo! Get outta' here!"

Momentarily the circle of nosy, black and white muzzles backed off — at least a foot. Eventually the calf finished the bottle — but not without several arm-waving, "get outta' here" interruptions aimed at the crowd of four-footed, 800-pound busybodies whose curiosity threatened to stomp me into the soggy ground.

And, a good-bye committee of about a dozen stayed on my heels during the hundred-yard walk back to the dairy barn. Just curious, of course.

It was curiousity that drew one of those same nosy heifers into the dairy barn a day later. But it was greed that kept her there with her muzzle buried in the high-moisture corn cart when we found her at milking time.

Fortunately, she hadn't sneaked in long enough for curiosity — and greed — to have earned her a major tummyache or bloat problem.

Curiosity also won an unexpected bath for a younger, six-month-old heifer that embarked on an exploration trip about the same hour of that same afternoon. Heifers are much like children; in a group of a couple dozen, there is bound to be one adventurous individual always testing the boundaries or rules.

This one managed to slip out of a large group pen and proceed to curiously sniff, stroll and study the terrain beyond the farmstead buildings. When chase was given with the cycle, rather than return sensibly to her penmates, she opted to go visit the wooded housing neighborhood next door.

Take note that this was a mostly-black, smaller heifer, cavorting around at dusk, through lovely backyards filled with lots of trees and bushes. Kind of like hide-and-seek. Which she won. Temporarily.

Later, rounding the wagon shed en route to calf feedings after dark, she and I came face-to-muzzle. About the same time, The Farmer approached from a different direction. Corralled, her curiosity sent her for the likeliest escape route, the lit walkway leading . . . right back into her pen.

Trotting through the shadows, she looked rather gaunt; I wondered if this lively critter was ailing. Until The Farmer related that her curiosity had taken her on an unexpected detour through the manure storage lagoon, leaving her winter-thick coat "slicked" down.

It'd be a peaceful change around here if curiosity would just stick with the cats.

Pennsylvania Fair Queen Reigns At Farm Show

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Within two weeks, 18-year-old Cheryl Anne Muraski will crown a new Pennsylvania Fair Queen.

Reflecting on her one-year reign, Cheryl said, "Before my reign, I hadn't had much opportunity to visit areas outside of my home in Pike County. The highlight of my reign was meeting people across the state. The hospitality they extended to me was phenomenal."

And, to many people watching, Cheryl Anne's ability to ad lib with poise and clarity before crowds in diverse places across the state is phenomenal.

"I grew up speaking in front of people. It comes naturally," said Cheryl Anne who remembers that she was only four years old when she first spoke to a church group.

Cheryl received a $1,000 scholarship when she was chosen as the state queen from county and local fair queens across the state.

"I entered the local pageant, Green-Dreher Sterling, on a whim," said Cheryl, who said she then became very involved in fairs and in learning about agriculture. She estimates that she has attended about one fourth of the 94 fairs scattered across the state.

When Cheryl was a high school student, she started her own baking and catering business.

"I grew up in the kitchen helping my mother cook. Because there were only three in our family, my dad, mother, and me, I needed to find another channel for the food I baked."

She began preparing brunches, desserts, and buffets during holidays and weekends.

Because Cheryl was also a cheerleader, field hockey player, in student government and ambassadorship, she wanted a job that didn't lock her into a time frame and thought the catering business would be ideal.

"It turned out to be a much bigger undertaking than I expected," Cheryl said. "When I look back, I wonder where I found all the hours to do what I did. I know I had lots of enthusiasm."

Cheryl needed to give up her catering business when she entered Cornell University, where she is studying hotel administration with a finance concentration. She also works in the human resources department for a head injury recovery center.

Cooking remains Cheryl's biggest hobby. "I read cook books for fun instead of novels," she said.

When she was asked to speak to the crowds that gathered at the Farm Show for the apple pie, cocoa cake, and chocolate cookie contests, Cheryl was delighted.

"This is right down my alley," she said. "I wish I could be one of the judges."

TAKING TIME

January Marriage Resolutions

If the holidays were a time for friends and family togetherness, I suggest that you resolve to make January the month to become reacquainted with your spouse. In busy families, it is easy for husbands and wives to grow out of touch with each other. This happens as the hectic schedules rob them of valuable time together.

Time is what this article is about. Time and commitment. At some point, 90 to 95 percent of the population will marry. Over one-third of those marriages will end in divorce. One of our goals in Cooperative Extension is to support individuals as they take steps to build strong families and marriage relationships.

Several researchers have done studies related to the characteristics of strong marriages. Dr. Jerry M. Lewis cites closeness and commitment as two or several key elements found in healthy marriages. These elements include two adults sharing basic values, interests, and social relations. The adults also express a belief that their relationship is the most important. Although they value relationships with children, parents, friends, and siblings, these are all secondary in importance. That's commitment.

If your marriage due for an annual check-up? Marriages lose that sense of closeness and commitment when two people hold few goals or interests in common. Problems also occur as spouses fail to adjust to changes in one another after the wedding. Dr. Catherine Surra, Utah State University, commented that routines and patterns evolve in relationships, but without care, they can become ruts. "A husband may not try anything new sexually because he 'knows' his wife doesn't enjoy experimenting with sex. A wife may not bother to even ask her husband about going out to dinner on Saturday night because she 'knows' how he would respond."

January is a great month to break some of the patterns you've fallen into with your spouse. Adding some spontaneity and humor may really jump-start your relationship. Some researchers have documented a trend that marital satisfaction declines during the fifth year and stays somewhat lower until children leave home. But this is not an inevitable situation. Shared leisure time is very important to the health of marriages especially during critical times of adjustment. I've listed a few ideas that you can consider. These are ways to warm up your marriage — even during the cold, gray months of winter. (Who says YOUR marital satisfaction has to decline?)

- ♥ Give a small gift to your spouse on an ordinary day.
- ♥ Choose one of the roles your spouse normally does, but does not enjoy, and perform that responsibility for him or her.
- ♥ Arrange some couple time away from home and children.
- ♥ Write a love letter to your spouse. Send it registered mail for an added sense of importance.
- ♥ Read an article or book about strengthening marriages and talk about the ideas with your spouse.
- ♥ Praise each other daily.
- ♥ Join a co-ed intramural sports league or walking group. If sports aren't for you, try a dinner club, card group, or theater get-together.
- ♥ Read aloud to each other after the kids go to bed instead of watching TV or doing laundry.
- ♥ Tell others how much you love your spouse. Try writing a letter to your in-laws to thank them for raising such a special person.

January is a time for resolutions. Resolving to recommit yourself to your marriage relationship is a resolution that will pay dividends all year long!

Attend Pennsylvania Dutch Festival

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The Pennsylvania Dutch Convention & Visitors Bureau is pleased to announce the first-ever "Pennsylvania Dutch Food Festival: A Celebration of Food in Lancaster County," to be held throughout Lancaster County, Pennsylvania from February 15-20.

The "Pennsylvania Dutch Food Festival" will highlight the many ways that food adds fun to a visit to Lancaster County any time of the year. Planned activities include a chicken pot-pie cook-off, tours of food producing plants and farmers markets, a tour of bed and breakfast inns and farm bed and breakfast inns serving local dishes, participation by area restaurants serving their versions of local specialties (featuring locally-produced foods) and a community pot pie dinner to benefit the Bird-in-Hand Fire Company and the Clinic for Special Children.

Besides having a cuisine of its own, Lancaster County is synonymous with quality foods. It is among the top producing farm counties in the nation. Additionally, Lancaster County is the home of many quality food production companies, many whom offer tours of their facilities to the public year-round.

A complete brochure, detailing the "Pennsylvania Dutch Food Festival," will be available in mid-December, 1992.

For more information, contact Mary Rankin, Public Relations Specialist at the PA Dutch Convention & Visitors Bureau in Lancaster County, (717) 299-8901, ext. 726.

Cattlemen Seek Queen

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Applications for the 1993 Cattlemen's Queen are currently being accepted by the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association. PCA will be selecting a queen and one alternate during the 1993 PA Beef EXPO, March 25, 26, 27, and 28.

The queen contest is open to any interested female, ages 18 to 23. Contestants must have a working knowledge or have displayed abilities to work with cattle at the on-farm level of the cattle industry.

The Cattlemen's Queen will be crowned at the annual awards banquet, Thursday, March 25. She will represent the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association and the beef industry at various events throughout the state.

The Pennsylvania Beef Council will also be selecting "Beef Industry Representatives" for 1993. Serving as the Cattlemen's Queen would not interfere with that individual's opportunity to serve as a Beef Industry Representative.

Applications are available by contacting Sue Clair, chairman of the Queen Program Committee, 568 Rock Road, State College, PA 16801, or by calling Mrs. Clair (814) 238-1233.

Learn-At-Home

WILLIAMSPORT (Lycoming Co.) — Penn State Cooperative Extension has developed a Learn-At-Home Child Care Kit. The kit includes two booklets: 101 Plus Ways To Keep Kids Busy; 101 Ways To Care For Kids; a child care provider checklist as well as a health and safety checklist. The booklets include art activities, toy suggestions, game ideas, stories, snacks, play ideas, and safety tips.

Breakfast Ideas Your Family Won't Resist

Breakfast, nutritionists say, is the most important meal of the day. It's the time to pack in the best nutrition for boundless-energy for the whole day.

Many people, especially teen agers, skip breakfast because they find it — well, blah. But, these recipes are guaranteed to stop complaints about boring breakfasts. They are packed with nutrition and the calories need to fill your hours with energy.

EGG AND CHEESE BAKE

4 to 6 eggs
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
½ cup cheese, preferably Velvecta
¼ teaspoon dry mustard, optional
Salt and pepper
½ cup buttered bread crumbs OR 3-4 slices buttered bread, cubed

Grease 9x9-inch baking pan. Break raw eggs into pan, letting yolks whole. Make a white sauce by melting butter over medium heat. Stir in the flour with a fork until smooth, gradually add cup of milk until hot and thick. Stir constantly. Add the ½ cup grated cheese, stirring until melted. Pour cheese mixture over eggs. Top with buttered crumbs or cubes. Bake uncovered at 350 degrees for 20 to 30 minutes or longer. Baking time is flexible, depending on how you like your eggs.

APPLE BUTTERMILK BRAN MUFFINS

½ cup butter
1 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 eggs
2½ teaspoons baking soda
2 cups buttermilk
2½ cups flour
1½ cups All Bran of Bran Buds
1 cup apples, finely chopped

Cream together butter, sugar, salt, and eggs. In another bowl, combine baking soda and buttermilk. Alternating in thirds, add flour, bran, and buttermilk mixture to the creamed mixture. Stir together batter and apples. Pour into greased muffin pans and bake at 400 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes. Makes ½ gallon batter. Can be stored tightly covered in nonmetal container in refrigerator up to 6 weeks.

EMPIRE MUFFINS

2 cups shredded, unpeeled apples
1 cup chopped cranberries
1 cup shredded carrots
1 cup chopped walnuts or pecans
1⅓ cups sugar
2½ cups flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
2 teaspoons baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons cinnamon
2 eggs
½ cup oil
1 teaspoon vanilla
Cinnamon sugar for tops, if desired

Combine chopped fruits and vegetables with sugar. Set aside. In a large bowl, combine flour, baking soda, baking powder, salt, and cinnamon. Set aside. Combine beaten eggs, oil, and vanilla. Beat with fork.

Mix all the ingredients together and stir only to blend thoroughly. Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Spray muffin pans with oil. Fill pans ½ to ⅔ full. Sprinkle with cinnamon sugar if desired. Bake about 20 minutes or until brown. Makes about 24.

These muffins should be made the day before. They actually become softer and more moist overnight if stored in a plastic bag.

GINGER-PEACH PUFFY OMELET

Ginger-peach omelet filling:
8¾ sliced peaches in juice
1 tablespoon brown sugar
⅛ teaspoon ground ginger
¼ cup crumbled gingersnaps
½ tablespoon butter

Drain peaches, reserving juice for omelet. In small saucepan, toss together peaches, brown sugar, and ginger. Cook over low heat, stirring occasionally until sugar has melted and peaches are heated through. Cover and keep warm. In small bowl, combine gingersnaps and butter. Set aside.

Omelet:
4 eggs, separated
½ cup reserved fruit juice or water
½ teaspoon cream of tartar
1 tablespoon butter or cooking oil

In large mixing bowl, beat egg whites with juice and cream of tartar at high speed until stiff but not dry. In small mixing bowl, beat egg yolks at high speed until thick and lemon-colored. Gently, but thoroughly, fold yolks into whites.

In 10-inch omelet pan or skillet with ovenproof handle over medium-high heat, heat butter until just hot enough to sizzle a drop of water. Pour in egg mixture and gently smooth surface. Reduce heat to medium. Cook until puffed and lightly browned on bottom, about 5 minutes. Bake in preheated 350° degree oven until knife inserted halfway between center and outer edge comes out clean, about 10 to 12 minutes. Loosen omelet edges with spatula.

With sharp knife, cut upper surface down center of omelet but do not cut through to bottom of omelet. Fill with reserved peach mixture. Sprinkle with reserved gingersnap mixture. Tip skillet. With pancake turner, fold omelet in half and invert onto warmed platter with a quick flip of the wrist.

Cut in half or into wedges. Serve immediately.

BAKED OATMEAL

¾ cup brown sugar
¼ cup butter, melted
2 eggs, beaten
Add:
2¼ cups oatmeal
2 teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
¾ cup milk

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Jestyn Giest of Valley View won the Greatest Cocoa Cookie Contest held January 9 at the Pennsylvania Farm Show.

She earned a weekend trip for four with her "Peanutty Chocolate Chewy Bars." She can choose between the Hershey Resort and Conference Center or the Hershey Hotel.

The contest was only open to young exhibitors between the ages of 8 and 18 who won the same class at an agricultural fair throughout Pennsylvania in 1992. Jestyn qualified through the Tri-Valley Community Fair.

PEANUTTY CHOCOLATE CHEWY BAR

2½ cups basic cookie mix*
⅓ cup Hershey cocoa
⅓ cup granulated sugar
2 eggs, lightly beaten
1 cup peanut butter chips
14 oz. can sweetened condensed milk
1 cup flaked coconut

Combine cookie mix, cocoa, sugar and eggs in a bowl; blend well. Spread in greased 13x9x2 cake pan. Bake 8-10 minutes at 350 degrees. Remove from oven and sprinkle peanut butter chips over the top. Drizzle sweetened condensed milk evenly over the chips and top with coconut. Return to oven and bake 20-25 minutes longer. Cool and cut into bars.

*Basic Cookie Mix (can be kept in the refrigerator and used as needed)
5 cups flour
2 cups granulated sugar
1 cup packed brown sugar
2 tablespoons baking powder
1 tablespoon salt
1 cup shortening
½ cup butter

Combine flour, sugars, baking powder and salt; add shortening and butter and mix well.

HEARTLAND CORNBREAD

2 cups flour
1½ cups cornmeal
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt, optional
5 eggs
2 cups buttermilk or skim milk
½ cup coarsely chopped smoked sausage or cooked lean ham
½ cup sliced green onions with tops.

In large bowl, stir together dry ingredients. Set aside.

Stir in sausage and onions. Make a well in dry ingredients. Pour in egg mixture. Stir just until dry ingredients are moistened. Pour batter into greased 10-inch skillet with ovenproof handle.

Bake in preheated 400 degree oven until knife inserted in center comes out clean, about 40 minutes. Let stand 5 minutes. To serve, cut into wedges.

AMERICAN EGG BOARD

WAFFLES

2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt

HEALTHFUL MUFFINS

(Make two batches of your favorite recipe and seal one in a freezer container. You can enjoy healthful muffins for up to two months).

1½ cups whole wheat flour
½ cup all-purpose flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
3 tablespoons sugar
1 egg
1 cup skim milk
6 tablespoons applesauce

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. In a medium mixing bow, mix together flours, baking powder, and sugar. In a separate bowl, mix together egg, milk, and applesauce. Combine liquid and dry ingredients with as few strokes as possible. Line muffin pan with paper liners. Fill liners three-fourth of the way full. Cook for 20 minutes or until done. Yields 12 muffins.

Variations: Add ½ cup fruit or vegetables or 1½ teaspoon spice.

CINNAMON FLOP

1 cup granulated sugar
1 cup milk
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ cup butter

Mix together ingredients and bake in 8x11-inch pan for 30 minutes at 350 degrees.

While cake is still warm, spread with butter, sprinkle with granulated sugar and cinnamon.

IMPOSSIBLE BACON PIE

12 slices bacon, crispy cooked and crumbled
1 cup shredded natural Swiss cheese
⅓ cup chopped onion
2 cups milk
4 eggs
1 cup Biquick baking mix
¼ teaspoon pepper

Beat remaining ingredients 15 seconds in blender on high speed or until smooth. Pour into pie plate. Bake at 400 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 5 minutes.

If you don't have a 10-inch pie plate, a 9x1¼-inch one will work with a few minor changes: Use 1½ cups milk, 3 eggs, and ¾ cup Bisquick.

GOOD MORNING COFFEE CAKE

2⅓ cups flour
1⅓ cups granulated sugar
¾ teaspoon salt
¾ cup butter
2 teaspoons baking powder
¾ cup milk
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
3-ounce package cream cheese, softened
14-ounce can sweetened condensed milk
⅓ cup lemon juice
2 teaspoons ground cinnamon, divided
29-ounce can sliced peaches, well drained, chopped OR 21-ounce can apple pie filling.
1 cup chopped nuts, divided
⅓ cup firmly packed brown sugar

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. In large bowl, combine flour, sugar, and salt; cut in butter until crumbly. Reserve 1 cup crumb mixture. To remaining crumb mixture, add baking powder, milk, eggs, and vanilla. Beat on medium speed 2 minutes. Spread into greased 9x13-inch baking pan. Bake 25 minutes or until set.

Meanwhile, in small bowl, beat cheese until fluffy. Gradually beat in sweetened condensed milk; stir in lemon juice, peaches, ½ cup nuts and 1 teaspoon cinnamon and brown sugar. Spoon peach mixture evenly on top of cake. Sprinkle with crumb mixture. Bake 35 minutes longer or until set. Serve warm.

Cook's Question Corner

If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Lou Ann Good, Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send a SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address.

QUESTION — Jane Heckman, Effort, would like a recipe for a white cake that has sour cream in the batter. After pouring the batter in the baking pan, it is drizzled with melted chocolate chips and baked. When you eat the cake, you find swirls of thick chocolate.

QUESTION — Anne Good, Lititz, would like a recipe for sesame chicken soup.

QUESTION — Ruth Edwards, Kennett Square, asks what effect epsom salts have on strawberries? Is it a natural laxative or what? Can someone answer her question. I know that several old recipes used epsom salts for making jam, and it seems to work as a thickening agent rather than a laxative, but I don't know why.

QUESTION — Alice Steere, Chepachet, RI, would like the recipe for the gravy McDonald's serves on its biscuits and gravy around the Columbus, Ohio area.

QUESTION — Jennifer Rake, East Stroudsburg, would like to know how and when to harvest dry soybeans and how to roast them.

QUESTION — Marion Steger, Groton, N.Y., would like the recipes for Aunt Effie's Hillsborough Moist Apple Nut Layer Cake with butterscotch frosting and the Turn-Of-The Century Cake.

QUESTION — Linda McCuean, New Galilee, writes that her 15-year-old son eats breakfast cereal like there is no tomorrow. She would like a recipe to transform plain shredded wheat cereal into the frosted variety.

QUESTION — Susan Howard, Mt. Pleasant Mills, would like a recipe for lemon poppy seed muffins made with sour cream such as those served by Kathryn Flint's Restaurant in Jim Thorpe.

QUESTION — An Elizabethtown reader would like a sand tart cookie recipe that uses sour cream and egg yolks. She said the recipe had appeared in this paper several years ago. Did anyone cut out the recipe so that they can send it in for us to reprint?

QUESTION — N. Martin requests a recipe for Double Chocolate Sour Cream Drop Cookies. It is a cookie made with white chocolate chips in the cookie dough and melted chips in the frosting.

QUESTION — Maybelle Page, Oxford, would like a recipe for Tar Heel Pie. She writes that several years ago she was travelling and saw the recipe printed on a post card. She writes, "Of course using no sense, I failed to purchase the post card and have kicked myself zillions of times since." Readers, can you come to her rescue?

QUESTION — Sonja Zehr, Croghan, N.Y. would like a recipe for cinnamon (hard candy coated) apples. The unpeeled apple is put on a stick and dipped in the hot syrup.

QUESTION — Tina Rzucidlo, Cochranville, would like a recipe for a batter to fry chicken that tastes similar to Kentucky Fried Chicken, original flavor.

QUESTION — Carolyn Norwood, Irwin, writes that her husband recently returned from a trip to Chicago and declared that Spinach Pie was the only pie worth eating. She suspects that it contained eggs and cheeses, but he doesn't think so. She would prefer a lowfat, no cholesterol recipe for Spinach Pie if it is available.

QUESTION — A Dayton, VA. reader would like to know how to keep a pumpkin cake roll from cracking when it is unrolled after cooling.

Barbecued Turtle In Pressure Cooker

Paprika
½ cup chili sauce
1 onion, minced
2 tablespoons vinegar
¼ cup water
Salt and pepper, to taste

Sprinkle turtle pieces with paprika and place in pressure cooker. Combine remaining ingredients and pour over meat. Close cover securely and cook at 15 pounds pressure for 15 minutes or until tender. Cool cooker and reduce pressure at once. Remove meat from bone and cut into bite-size pieces. Return meat to sauce in cooker and thicken with flour or cornstarch. Serve over buns or hot cooked rice.

Turtle Steak With Sour Cream Sauce

1½ pounds turtle steaks, cut very thin
All-purpose flour
6 tablespoons butter
Salt and pepper
Paprika
½ cup dry white wine
1 cup dairy sour cream
Chopped parsley

Pound steaks paper thin, dredge in flour. In a skillet, with a lid, melt the butter. Add turtle steaks, brown quickly on both sides. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Sprinkle with 1 tablespoon paprika. Add wine, cover and simmer 1 hour. Add water if necessary. Remove turtle to a warm platter. Add sour cream to drippings in skillet, heat, stirring constantly. Pour over turtle and sprinkle with parsley.

Serves 4 to 6.

Banana Whoopie Pies

4 cups flour
1 cup shortening
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 eggs
1 cup buttermilk or sour milk
1 cup mashed bananas
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon baking soda

Cream shortening, sugar, eggs, and vanilla. Add dry ingredients and milk. Mix well. Add mashed bananas. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto greased cookie sheets. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes or until lightly browned.

Whipped Cream Icing:

½ cup butter
½ cup shortening
3 cups confectioners' sugar
4 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon vanilla or almond extract

Mix together all ingredients. Beat for 5 minutes. Fill whoopie pies with mixture.

ANSWER — Georgia Bond, Gandeeville, W. Va., wanted a recipe for canning strawberries with epsom salts. No one sent in a recipe using epsom salts, but Miriam DeLong, Quarryville, writes that she has a better idea for preserving berries.

Frozen Strawberries

Mix strawberry pie glaze according to package directions, but add ½ cup extra water. Put in as many strawberries as can be mixed into the glaze. Fill pint-size freezer boxes and freeze. After thawing, strawberries stay firm in refrigerator for several days.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Why do people collect things? Is it because they have time on their hands due to early retirement or just because some things remind them of their childhood?

I am a saver of many things including string, buttons, thimbles, stamps — you name it and I probably have it stashed somewhere. But, mostly I collect paper such as old letters and cards.

Just now I'm going through big boxes of old mail from the 1940s, 1950s and 1960s that was addressed to me. I am separating them into packages for my sisters and children. For my sisters it will be like a diary of their children's growing-up years. And, for my children these letters will remind them of their college days.

Our oldest daughter broke the family circle by going to Alfred University in New York state. She wrote many, many letters home in which she detailed her activities. I reread the letters telling me about her roommates, her studies and her joining a sorority. I had forgotten that her blue, wool winter coat was stolen at college.

Some of my ancestors collected things too. One had a big collection of stamps and coins. Another kept printed programs of different organizations. I find it interesting to read my grandfather's graduation program from a business college in Ohio. The business records that a great, great grandfather kept of his mill business has been preserved by caring relatives.

The dusty boxes stored in attics often yield records of life long ago because someone else cared enough to save them.

Public Speaking Contest

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — For the second consecutive year, a Public Speaking Contest for Dauphin County students in grade 9 through 12 will be conducted by the Dauphin County Conservation District on February 25. The highest scoring contestant will receive a cash award of $150. The second and third place awards are $100 and $50.

The contest is to serve the dual purpose of helping students develop good communication skill while learning more about our natural resources. Accordingly, contestants will be required to deliver 5 to 7 minute informative or persuasvie speeches on the topic of pesticides; their use in and around the home.

Students and teachers from any public or private Dauphin County High School may obtain applications and more information by calling the District office in Dauphin at (717) 921-8100.

Kids Find New Things To Do At Farm Show

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The new building at the Farm Show was packed with kids having fun. Of course, kids usually have fun at the Farm Show, but this was different because it was a whole new building with a whole new set of activities.

On the second floor of the new Northeast Building is an area called the Family Corner. There is a walk-through exhibit of small farm animals, which gives children a chance to learn about animals and how to care for them. The Shaver's Creek Environmental Center, was a hands-on museum geared toward children. Snakes, owls, and other birds fascinated children and adults.

Kids could learn how to build a tree branch, how to balance items on a scale, and how items look when placed under a magnifying glass.

If you love ice cream, you would have liked the Scooperbowl that was held on January 9. For a $3 contribution to the Four Diamonds Fund at the Hershey Medical Center, you could eat as much ice cream as you liked from several different vendors.

There were 35 presentations scheduled from Sunday through Thursday, with subjects ranging from fish farming and emu farming to landscape design and wetland identification.

There was even a book nook where delightful books for children could be purchased.

Christiana Kasian, 4, and Mark Joseph Kasian, 2, children of Joseph and Christine Mumma-Kasian, tried out these steps displayed by an advertiser.

Kimberly Smick, 8, of Schuylkill County admires the pigs. She learned that Pennsylvania has 920,000 pigs.

John Myers, 11, of Enola tries to balance out the scales. He is the son of Robert and Dorothy Myers.

All-you-can-eat ice cream is enjoyed by this gang. From left, Cathy Stroud, 12; Carol Stroud, Bryan Adams, 13; Jenny Adams, 12; Julie Stroud, 9; and Kristy Stroud, 5. The Strouds from Chambersburg encouraged the Adams family from Armstrong County to visit the Farm Show for the first time.

Have You Heard?

Lancaster Extension Home Economist

Save On Your Food Bills

When was the last time you kept track of how much your family spends for food? If yours is a typical American family, you may be shocked at the amount you spend on food and beverages.

According to the U.S. Department of Labor, of every $100 Americans spend, $17.70 goes for food and beverages. Food is the number three expenditure, topped only by housing ($41.35) and transportation ($17.80). Food may be one place where you can make substantial savings in your expenditures.

About 40 percent of the money spent on food in this country is spent on eating away from home. Fast-food establishments serve four out of every 10 meals eaten in restaurants.

If you fit this category, you may want to consider some alternatives to your current habits. The results may improve your health as well as your food budget.

Think about your family's eating-out habits. How often do you eat in restaurants? The more you do, the more your food budget and diet will be affected. Where do you eat out? If you often choose fast-food restaurants, you may want to look for other places that can give you better nutrition at a lower cost.

Supermarkets now offer carry-out meals from their salad bars or delicatessens. Select plain sandwiches or soups and vegetables or fruit salads; skip the fries and rich desserts.

Convenience stores may have fresh prepared food to take home at prices less than those of your favorite fast-food establishment.

If you eat at traditional restaurants, you will pay more for the foods; you will pay for the service as well. Instead of ordering a full meal, you might order appetizers. A cup of soup, a side salad or vegetables and dip may be a better choice. Because beverages and desserts add a lot to the cost, you can save those extras for home.

One last question to ask yourself is how much you eat when you go out. The all-you-can-eat deal may leave you miserably full. Usually, it is not the cheapest option, either. Look at other choices on the menu. You can take control of both your wallet and your diet when you eat out.

Although eating out is popular, more than half of the food dollar goes for at-home meals and snacks.

If you want to see how your food money is spent, save your grocery receipts for several months. Then, figure the amount you spent on meats, convenience foods such as bakery cakes and frozen dinners, extra snacks such as pop and chips, toiletries and household items.

Categorizing your purchases can help you see your high-cost items. Cutting back on those items can reduce your grocery bill.

Some other suggestions to help you keep your food expenditures in line include:

Try new ways of preparing the lowest-priced meats.

Buy meat on sale and freeze it for future use.

Buy generic and store-brand products.

Manage your time so that you can make more meals from scratch without using costly convenience products. The time these products save you may not be worth their high prices.

Get out of the pop-and-chip snack routine by offering your family pudding, popcorn, crackers and peanut butter, fresh fruit in season or a homemade milkshake.

Make a stop at the discount store for toiletries, soaps, light bulbs, cleaning supplies, and other personal and household goods.

Shop alone. Avoid taking someone who tempts you into buying all those extras. It is amazing what hungry, nagging youngsters can do to your grocery bill.

Make a shopping list, take it with you to the supermarket and STICK TO IT. The notion that there is nothing you can do about rising food costs just is not true. Although you cannot control production costs or the supermarket's prices, you can control your food-buying and eating habits. It is possible to save money and still enjoy the food you like whether eating at home or in a restaurant.

Hey! Folks

If your cows are slipping and falling, it ain't my fault because I have a machine called a Scabbler that will fix that concrete so your cows won't keep slipping all the time.

We've got service all around this section of the country, and I have a fellow just jumping to do your job mighty fast.

And that ain't all, our prices are right reasonable, and if you're a tightwad we'll let you do the job yourself if you've got over 500 square feet. It can save you right smart a money.

So call me on my nickel at 800-692-0123. If I'm not by the phone, some real live person will take your number, and I'll try to get back to you real soon. Usually somebody is awake in this outfit, so you just call any time day or night. But, please mind the Lord, and don't call on Sunday.

Just one more thing. We fellows make our living doing this kind of work, and we've got children to feed and bills. That's our side of it, but you've got such things too. A lot of people tell us that this Scabbling saves a whole lot more than it costs. So go ahead and do it. It'll put shoes on everybody's feet.

The Scabbler Man

Farm Women Societies

Berks Society 3

Group #3 of the Berks County Society of Farm Women held its Christmas banquet at Christopher's Restaurant, Bechtelsville. Twenty members and guests were served a family-style dinner prior to the business meeting.

Program booklets for 1993 were distributed and $5 gifts were exchanged. Names for secret pals for 1993 will be exchanged at the January meeting.

A $100 donation will be given to the DARE fund at Earl School. Four members plan to attend the State Convention in Harrisburg on January 11. Cost is $16 per person.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mary Hill, Fourth St., Boyertown. The Society's Bylaws and Constitution will be reviewed.

Cleanliness Quiz

See if you and your youngsters can make a clean sweep in this quiz about cleanliness from Liquid Dial antibacterial soap.

1. The place on your hand likely to harbor the most germs is (a) the palm (b) between the fingers (c) under the fingernails (d) the knuckle?

2. Most people spend (a) 30-40 seconds (b) ten to 15 seconds (c) 60 seconds (d) 90 seconds each time they wash their hands?

3. All soaps continue to fight the growth of germs even after rinsing. (a) true (b) false?

ANSWERS:

1. (c) Under the fingernails is where dirt and bacteria most easily hide. When washing hands, be sure to clean the entire hand and wrist thoroughly, giving extra attention to under the nails.

2. (b) Ten to 15 seconds which is not long enough, say experts. At least 30 seconds are needed to do a thorough job. To make handwashing more fun for youngsters, many parents are using a new soap pump called Croc-O'-Dial, containing germ-killing Liquid Dial. The "Croc" which is shaped like a cartoon character also makes a unique gift.

3. (b) False. Only soaps containing antibacterial ingredients continue fighting germs for a period of time.

One of the best things you can do for children is to teach them to wash their hands often. It's a habit that will benefit them for the rest of their lives. The correct handwashing procedure is: use soap and warm water, scrub vigorously, rinse well and dry hands with a clean paper or cloth towel. To conserve water, turn it off while scrubbing. Remember to wash between fingers and under the nails. When exiting a public restroom teach children to use their elbow or shoulder to open the door so their hands remain clean.

Berks Society 11

The December 28 meeting of Berks Society 11 met at the home of Doris Brown, president. The devotion was a reading of "Brighten the Corner" by Doris. She presided over the meeting with all eight members attending wearing red and green. Everyone brought their favorite ornament and told a little story about it. The group's family Christmas Dinner was held previously at Blue Mt. County Kitchen.

Program books for 1993 were distributed each looking like a bank checking book. Two members will be attending the State Convention on Jan. 11 at Harrisburg. Treasures book will be audited by Linda Marks.

To conclude the meeting, members revealed their secret pals for the year and drew names for the new year. Doris also served a very nice light buffet. The January 25 meeting will be held at Jean Erb's home.

Doctor Organizes Farm Safety 4 Just Kids

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — "Twenty children die each day from an accidental injury. If I can save just one, it will be worth it," said Bill Sheehan.

That's why this Lancaster post master is helping Dr. Albert Price, a Lancaster pediatrician, form a Safe Kids and Farm Safety 4 Just Kids chapter.

Both Sheehan and Price had a booth at the Farm Show where they handed out literature, showed videos, and talked to thousands of people about taking precautions to prevent childhood injury.

"Since I've been in Lancaster, eight to nine children have died from farm injuries that could have been prevented," Price said. "I can't live with that."

Nationwide he said that 300 children under the age of 16 died in a farm-related accident within one year. More than 23,000 children were injured while using or playing near farm equipment.

A week rarely passes without a child being killed in a farm accident.

He wants to make adults and children aware of dangers so that precaution is taking to prevent accidents.

His concern is not limited to farm kids but to every child.

He asked, "Did you know that more than 8,000 children die every year from preventable accidents in the United States?"

"More than 50,000 are permanently handicapped?"

"One in four children are badly injured each year?"

Sheehan said, "We want to get people proactive. Instead of saying 'isn't that a shame,' which doesn't help, we want to enlighten people on how to build a safe place."

Sheehan is concerned that playgrounds are often build from an adult's point of view instead of a child's perspective.

"A sliding board with a four foot drop might not seem like much to an adult, but a four foot fall can kill a child," Sheehan said.

A meeting promoting Safe Kids and Farm Safety 4 Just Kids will be held at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center on February 6, 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. Price urges farm families to attend.

Also, a bike fair is on the agenda since about one child a day dies from a bike accident. At the fair, bikes will be tested and checked for safety. Bike helmets will be encouraged as the fun thing to do.

Both Sheehan and Price are available to speak to groups and give demonstrations using videos and exhibits. They stress the need for using danger symbols on signs to warn children to stay away from machinery. They tell people to change fire alarm batteries twice a year, the same time that change clocks to adjust to daylight saving times.

Farm Safety 4 Just Kids is a national non-profit organization, but the Lancaster chapter is the first one in Pennsylvania.

"This is the first chapter in Pennsylvania, but we hope to get in other counties," he said.

Price said that his concern for child safety has been longstanding, but that he was especially motivated to do something when he attended a national SafeKids Campaign. Former Surgeon General C. Everett Koop, who is chairman of the campaign, said, "If a disease came along that affected one in four children, we would be told to spare no expense to find a cure and be quick about it."

That is why Price is establishing a dual-function group of SafeKids and Just Kids. The goal is to raise safety awareness, to educate the public about safety features and precautions, to change public policy with better safey legislation and to work for safer products and environments.

For more information on Farm Safety 4 Just Kids, write or call Dr. Albert Price, Roseville Pediatrics LTd., 160 North Pointe Blvd., Suite 110, Lancaster, PA 17601, (717) 569-6481.

D. Price and Bill Sheehan promoted Farm Safety to those who visited their booth at the Farm Show.

Ten Tips To Take Off Weight

Simple dietary changes can go a long way toward taking off extra holiday pounds. Remember to eat foods from all five food groups to maintain a balanced diet, and to eat "5 a Day" — five servings of fruits and vegetables, starting with the only fruit that crunches.

Apples are a sweet and satisfying snack any time of the day. Apples are full of fiber, which helps curb hunger in between meals. They're also portable and naturally packaged, ideal for sack lunches or on the way to work or school. With less than one gram of fat and only 80 calories in a 5½ -ounce apple, they're a healthy alternative to that last piece of fudge or that holiday sugar cookie.

1. Fill up an hour before your meal. Apples are loaded with pectin, a soluble fiber that absorbs more water in the stomach and gives you a "full feeling" longer.

2. Escape the bland food blues. Tired of cottage cheese and dry toast? Tantalize those taste buds with the only fruit that crunches. And, with so many varieties, you can savor flavors like a spicy Winesap or a tart Granny Smith.

3. Treat yourself to something special. For a "you-won't-believe-it's-healthy dessert, core an apple, sprinkle with cinnamon and microwave for four minutes. Top with non-fat frozen yogurt.

4. It's not hip to skip. Skipping meals is not the way to cut your calorie intake. This just increases your chances for snacking or overeating later. If lack of time is your excuse, crunch an apple during your morning commute to give your body energy for the day ahead.

5. Take 5 a Day. Fad diets will be your downfall. Your diet must include all five food groups (dairy, grains, meat and protein, vegetables, and fruits) to give your body the nutrients it needs. The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services recommends that you eat two to four servings of fruit each day. So eat 5 a day!

6. Deck out your diet. If your meal doesn't look appetizing, you won't be satisfied. Add apple slices to fill up your plate, give it a splash of color, and great taste too!

7. Guilt-free grazing. It's natural to want to pick, so make sure there's something healthy in reach. Cut up apples and dip in orange, lemon or lime juice (to keep them creamy white) and place them "front and center" in the fridge so they'll be "quick for the pickin's."

8. Fight off those hunger pangs and energy lows. Ever get those afternoon slumps? Keep a portable, naturally packaged apple in your desk or briefcase to bring you up from the "sugar lows."

9. Arm yourself against temptation. Guarantee there'll be something nutritious and delicious even when you're not in the "safety" of your own kitchen. Equip yourself with refreshing fruit kabobs at the next potluck or for your bag lunch. Thread grapes, apple chunks, kiwi and pineapple cubes on toothpicks or bamboo skewers.

10. Give yourself a little extra. Add apple chunks to your cold cereal, oatmeal or yogurt to make your meal more filling and full of fiber.

Farm Women Compared To Energizer Batteries

They Just Keep Going And Going

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) —"Farm Women are like Energizer Batteries," said Fern Hitz, president of the Lebanon County Society. "They just keep going and going."

Indeed, as the county societies reported on the activities of their 3,285 membership, it was evident that they have been spreading happiness across the state with numerous projects for the needy.

"But it isn't all work," said Barbara Malehorn, York County Society president, of the many fund raising events. "The only way to have and keep happiness is to give it. And the more we give, the more we have."

Members from across the state convened in Harrisburg on January 11 to tell how they have spread happiness, elect three new board members, and listen to inspiration speakers.

Although it was the 74th convention of the Society of Farm Women of Pennsylvania, it was the first time the convention was held for one day only instead of the customary two-day event.

The day-long meeting began at 9:30 a.m. in the Forum and ended with an evening banquet at the Penn Harris Inn, Harrisburg.

During the business session, members elected two new directors, Lois Laffey of Chester County and Janice Kress of Green County. Audrey Gilbert of Somerset County was elected secretary.

Lois Hughes, second vice president of the organization, reported that the societies lost 59 members, mostly through death during this past year, but gained 68 new members, which makes a net gain of nine members.

President Arlene Witman put aside the new dress she had purchased for the banquet and wore this T-shirt instead to remind members to participate in the Heifer Project during the upcoming year.

Soilst Helen Williamson, moved from Kentucky to York County six years ago when she and her husband purchased a farm. Helen joined Farm Women, who soon learned of Helen's musical talent. She is now kept busy singing for churches and organizations. Helen said that her mother used to say that the neighbors did not need alarm clocks because Helen would wake up them with her singing.

Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Crystal Sweighoffer and Jan Harding, director of Pennsylvania Promotion and Dairy Princess Services, made an appearance at the Farm Women Convention.

President Arlene Witman, who heads the societies, reported that she logged 3,500 miles as she traveled to county meetings. She challenged everyone to participate in the heifer project with at least $3 a member donated. Heifer Project International works to alleviate world hunger, one family at a time, by giving a heifer or other livestock to a needy family who then passes on one of the animal's offspring to a needy neighbor.

During the afternoon session, a memorial service was held for members who died during the past year.

Naomi Bupp, who spearheaded the Farm Women's Cookbook, presented a $10,000 check for the scholarship fund. To date, $44,000 has been donated to the fund.

Six scholarship winners who each received $1,000 this past year include Lancaster countians Amy Fyock, Kathy Esbenshade, and Karen Esbenshade; Dauphin countian Crystal Oellig, and York countians Patricia Bupp Bacha and John Brenneman.

The fund was established in 1960 for the children and grandchildren of Farm Womem members, who pursue a degree in home economics or a related field.

Joyce Bupp told how her daughter Patricia Bupp Bacha appreciated the scholarship, which allowed her to get a home economics degree from the University of Idaho. She is now working on her master's degree in vocational education and ag business and teaching college classes in home economics.

The inspiration speaker during the afternoon session was Jeffrey Batzer, who told of his rock climbing experience that happened 11 years ago. He was then 20 years old and a 17-year-old friend attempted to climb Mt. Washington, New Hampshire. Through a series of events, the two men lost their backpacks and became trapped in weather with a wind chill factor of -110 degrees below 0. The men crawled for many hours over ice and snow in an effort to reach shelter, but could not. After three days, they expected to die as the one had already become delirious from the cold and their limbs had turned a deep blue. In what Batzer terms a miracle, they were rescued by helicopter. However, severe hypothermia and gangrene eventually caused Jeffrey to lose one leg below the knee, several toes on the other leg, and several fingers. His friend lost both legs.

Batzer said that it was a pivotal point of his life. "God used this grievous thing to get my attention," he said. He considers his spiritual rescue a greater deliverance than the physical one that he had experienced.

Joanne Hershey, a Farm Women member, gave an inspiration talk on Celebrate Life.

She wrote a book, Happiness, Hollyhocks, and Heaven, which promotes ways to celebrate life. "Flexible living means every time life gives you a punch, kneel the whole way down and get right back up again."

She likened the troubles in life to an opal, which is made of dust and desert sand. "It owes its beauty not to perfection but to some defects. It will lose its luster when it becomes cold, but the luster is restored when held in a warm hand," she said.

"Laughter is like jogging on the inside," she said.

Joanne encouraged members to live 1993 to fullness. "Celebrate with laughter, develop a new image and have increased faith," she said.

The 1993 Farm Women's Spring Rally is scheduled for May 26, in Hagerstown, MD. Franklin County will host the event.

Use Treated Lumber In Home Gardens

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — With the availability of pressure-treated lumber in the last decade, home landscape design and construction has changed remarkably. Chromated copper arsenate (CCA) is the most common preservation in use today. In the treating process CCA chemicals are applied under pressure and the chemicals are driven deep into the wood cells. Done properly, pressure-treated wood can last up to 40 years, compared to the three to seven year life span of similar untreated posts.

CCA works by making the wood poisonous to the fungi and insects that use it as a food source. The copper component of CCA is the main toxin for fungi, and arsenic poisons the few species that are copper-tolerant. Insects such as termites are poisoned by the arsenic that is digested out of the treated wood they feed upon.

Chromium is the agent responsible for binding the arsenic and copper to the molecules that make up wood. This process renders the toxic principals water-insoluble, and they can't leach out of the wood. Environmental Protection Agency and U.S. Department of Agriculture studies have shown that CCA-treated lumber is safe used in the presence of plants and animals. Plants do not absorb the chemicals and animals that chew on the wood cannot digest out the arsenic. However, these chemicals can be released as toxic gases if the wood is burned. There is also the possibility of skin and lung irritation from contact with surface residues or sawdust created during construction.

Although studies have indicated CCA-treated wood is safe for direct contact with food, the Food and Drug Administration has not approved its use for structures or containers such as beehives, feed bins, or silos, where the feed or food would come into direct contact with the wood.

Home gardeners can enjoy the economy, beauty, durability and usefulness of wood planters, greenhouse benches, and raised beds for ornamentals, fruits and vegetables. Be sure to follow these safety tips:

- ✔ Dispose of treated lumber scraps through burial or household trash collection, not by burning.
- ✔ Wear protective clothing including dust mask, goggles, and gloves during construction.
- ✔ Saw or machine outdoors whenever possible to avoid indoor accumulations of airborne dust.
- ✔ Wash exposed skin thoroughly after contact, and before eating, drinking, smoking or using the toilet.
- ✔ Launder work clothes separately from regular family laundry.

Keith Wins National Young Farmers Competition

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

STRAUSSTOWN (Berks Co.) — Mary Ann Keith is talkative, outgoing, friendly and informed, according to many who have been in her company.

Almost a natural spokesperson.

Speech judges apparently also agree — the young agricultural lending agent and director on the board of the Pennsylvania State University Dairy Sciences Club can talk effectively.

Recently she won the national Young Farmer's Education Association Spokesperson for Agriculture contest, beating out two other finalists in a showdown in Des Moine, Iowa, that Keith almost didn't make.

Because of heavy snows, she missed a Friday flight and instead her family helped drive her to Pittsburgh to catch a flight onto Des Moine.

At the Des Moine airport, she stepped out of the plane to great some people from the convention, just in time to be rushed to a waiting car and be taken to the convention center. She walked on the stage just as the last of the contestants finished and she was to go on.

Her speach was prepared. She said she wasn't nervous.

"It's easier to talk to 800 or 1,000 people than to get up in front of your own family," she said, laughing.

Her topic was, "The Importance of Farmer in Our World Today."

She started out with a short but effective introduction that provided the talk with a personal and easily understandable setting — the dinner table.

From a brief description of the home-raised foods she and her family ate during that meal, she said that during the course of dinner table discussion, a comment was made about the future.

The comment was that with newer and newer technologies being developed, there is an apparent lack of need for the farmer in the future, because people can be fed with artificially manufactured, nutritive pills or tablets.

Then through a description of what a modern farmer actually is, compared to the antiquated image, and through a quick outline of the functions and interdependence of economies on agricultural production, she argued against the portent of the end of the farmer.

In fact, she argued for a stronger need in the future for the strongly-educated and practical farmer.

"Agriculture drives even the industries of steel, chemicals, plastic, glass and especially food service," she said in the speach. "Everyone in the world is somehow affected by our friends who work the land.

"In countries where proper farming methods are not adequate, the standard of living is very low and thousands go hungry," she said.

"Thialand is an important example in my own mind because I lived there for a year. Thais have very little knowledge of modern farming practices and rely a great deal on other countries, such as our United States, to survive," she said.

Later in the speach, near the end, she reverts back to the dining room with her family and said that the meal conversation turned. "We are no longer discussing the insignificant occupation of farming, but an important profession in our world today. We are in turn, no longer the greedy consumer.

"The farmer is ultimately responsible for our existence and comfort, and we are more aware of our dependence on the products and grateful for what the farmer provides."

She finished the speach in five minutes or less, as is the requirement, and took questions for 10 minutes from the judges.

She said the was told to be prepared for any questions, because the judges may not necessarily be farming enthusiasts, or they may have personal arguements with the farming industry.

But Keith shined.

Her modesty is not embarrassment, but acknowledgement that she has been blessed with a certain talent for talk. She doesn't take credit for it, as though she could have created the talent.

However, she attributes the refinement of her speaking and communicative abilities as the result of being active — in 4-H, FFA, high school, college, dairy clubs, etc., and being and staying informed. She has invested energy in getting and sharing knowledge.

The effectiveness of her communications is a result of practicing, which isn't just talking, she said, but is just as much listening — to others, and to herself.

To qualify for the national contest, she got a bye because she qualified from speaking as several meetings, doing several interviews, speaking in front of groups, and writing letters to the governor, lieutenant governor and a town major.

A speach she gave to the Pennsylvania State Grange, and later to the national Grange in Denver, Colo., was about changing the Grange. Her speach to the PSU Dairy Science Club was on being an agricultural lender.

She also won the state Grange speach contest and recognition at the national contest.

Her involvement in communications through the Young Farmers Association was intensive. She said she and the other contestants participated in a two-day media blitz about the convention while in Des Moine. The blitz included writing newspaper, radio and television releases, including being part of live broadcasts.

There were three judges for the Young Farmers contest — one representing the industry, one representing non-farming concerns, and the other was an agricultural radio personality.

Although she could probably speak on behalf of other interests, she said her desire is to speak on behalf of agriculture. Being raised on a commercial dairy farm near Lake Raystown, she said she grew up with a love of farming that has continued and grown.

Her parents, Harry and Joan (pronounced Joe-Ann), and brother John are in partnership on the 100-acre farm. They rent an additional 200 acres, have 50 milking Holsteins and raise their own replacements.

After graduating from Penn State College, she worked for the ag lending team at Lebanon Valley National Bank, and then more than a year ago, she took a position serving as an agricultural lender for Mid-State Bank, New Enterprise.

"I'll do anything to support the agricultural cause," she said. "It's been the backbone of my life."

The Young Farmers association was started to provide continuing education to the rural, mostly agircultural Americans of the past. The number of local chapters has been diminishing as the number of school districts cease to support the organization, citing low numbers of farmers.

However, Keith said the importance of the oranization isn't diminishing at all.

"The organization is very important. It's an educational organization that provides continuing education. That's something I think every farmer needs, especially the way the world's changing, and this organization provides the opportunity to keep up with the changes."

In the meantime, with her schedule full with work, and helping out with evening milkings and some weekend duty at the home farm where she keeps her three milking and three heifer registered Holsteins, she said she would still like to find a place to use her speaking skills for more benefit to agriculture.

Currently, she co-coaches the Huntingdon County Holstein Association dairy bowl team with John Andrew Foster III and is involved with the Blair County Chamber of Commerce Farm-City Committee. She also holds the office of Ceres in the state Grange.

In addition, she is a member of a sign language group that puts on demonstrations for church and civic groups and signs for plays and songs.

Plan For Next Year's Fertility Decisions

NORCROSS, Ga. — Now is the time to begin planning for next year's fertility management decisions. Review the 1992 season, production records, and most recent soil tests. Re-evaluate yield goals for 1993 and plan fertility applications according to projected needs.

High yields mean high removal rates. Many farmers were pleasantly surprised in 1992 with higher than expected yields. Fertilizer dealers and extension offices can provide tables to help estimate nutrients removed in harvested crops. Plans for 1993 fertilizer applications should include replacing nutrients removed in 1992 yields.

High yielding crops under favorable weather conditions tend to remove nutrients from deeper in the soil profile. Dry spring and early summer conditions in 1992 in many areas encouraged deep rooting of crops. It also meant less compaction to restrict root growth. The result was subsoil "mining."

Nutrient removal from deeper in the profile is not detected with normal soil testing. Soil tests may actually show increased nutrient levels in the upper part of the soil profile as plant residues decompose and release nutrients on the surface. Subsoil "mining" and nutrient accumulation at the surface do not reduce the need to replace nutrients removed by crops.

If 1992 fertilizer applications included amounts intended to meet the needs of the 1993 crop, high yields may have cut short the supply left for next year. Recalculate needs and apply supplemental fertilizer if expected carryover will not meet the projected needs for next year.

Dry spring and early summer reduced leaching and denitrification losses of nitrogen. Higher yields were attainable in 1992 with lower rates of nitrogen than usually expected. This does not mean rates for 1993 should automatically be cut. Remember that winter and spring rainfall and temperatures should be considered in estimating nitrogen which will remain in the soil over winter. Also remember that high yields in 1992 did remove more nitrogen in the harvested crop.

Not all farmers harvested high yields in 1992. They may have more potential nutrient carryover for 1993, but shouldn't expect large soil test increases for the extra carryover. Generally, for common silty clay loam soils, the soil potassium test will increase about one pound per acre for each 4 pounds of potash carryover; the phosphorus (P-1) test will increase about one pound per acre for each 9 pounds of phosphate carryover.

Best advice is to plan normal application rates for the 1993 crop. Remember that carryover phosphorus and potassium will contribute to building soil tests and will be accounted for in the next round of soil testing.

Don't overreact to low crop prices. Unfortunately, high crop yields over large production areas can result in lower market prices. That does not justify cutting back on basic inputs such as fertilizer. Over a wide range of fertilizer and crop prices, the optimum rate of fertilizer for maximum economic yield production does not change. Plan for normal applications for the 1993 crop, regardless of the prices. When crop prices are low, there is an even stronger incentive to increase yield levels to optimum so that fixed costs can be distributed over more units of yield and profits can be increased.

We cannot predict the 1993 growing season. This year brought many surprises. Consider the points above as you plan for the coming season. Most important — plan for a good year! That will insure the system will be in place to support a good crop, and the resources will also be available to reduce stress should the season be less than ideal.

Farmers Can Flourish In Warmer World

HUNTINGDON (Huntingdon Co.) — Farmers in some U.S. locations can continue to make a profit even if the greenhouse effect warms the climate, although they may have to change crop mix and techniques, according to a Cornell University study.

Harry Kaiser, a Cornell associate professor of agricultural economics, said his study differs from much of the previous work in this area in that his computer models track a gradual, decade-by-decade change in climate and give farmers the opportunity to respond with later-maturing crop varieties. A number of previous studies have looked at a one-time doubling of greenhouse gas levels.

"Farm adaptability is crucial in determining the agronomic implications of climate change," he said. "Models that don't allow for such adaptability show corn yields declining substantially after the year 2000. Our results show that corn yields can be as high as 90 to 95 percent of current levels if farmers can choose later-maturing, higher-yielding varieties." Additionally, according to Kaiser, agricultural scientists may develop new varieties with enhanced yield.

Kaiser examined two climate-change scenarios, both of which have some likelihood, according to widely used models. One is armer by 2.2 degrees Celsius in the year 2070 and 10 percent wetter. A more severe scenario increases temperature by 4.2 degrees and diminishes precipitation by 20 percent.

A warmer and wetter climate does not harm farmers in southern Minnesota, which has some of the country's best farmland. Corn yields decline by 10 percent from current levels, while yields of soybean and sorghum increase. Even under the hotter and drier scenario, corn yields fall just slightly more to 86 percent. "Farmers are not worse off," Kaiser said. "They can maintain profitability by adjusting their crop mix."

The mild scenario also is kind to Nebraska farmers. Winter wheat yields could increase by as much as 25 percent, while corn declines slightly to 95 percent of current levels. Under the more severe scenario, yields of corn, soybeans, and wheat drop substantially, but Kaiser pointed out that Nebraska farmers could offset those predicted effects by expanding their use of irrigation.

Kaiser, who plans to extend his studies to farms in Illinois, Ohio, and the Southeast, discounted any fertilizer effect from high levels of atmospheric carbon dioxide. Some studies have proposed that plants would benefit by exposure to more carbon dioxide, but recent research has cast doubt on this view.

Jon Erickson, a Cornel graduate student in resource economics, argued in a recent Cornell staff paper that "Relying on carbon dioxide from industrialization to fertilize the world's agriculture is analogous to relying on your car's exhaust to fertilize your home garden."

Water supply, along with limited nutrients and atmospheric pollution, are widely recognized as the chief limiting factors in crop production worldwide, he said. Some climate change scenarios predict drier climates or suggest higher variability, with frequent swings between droughts and floods. Under such conditions, more carbon dioxide in the atmosphere would not increase plant yields.

Swim Suit Workshop

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — In a few hours, you can create a flattering swimsuit without breaking the budget. Attend the Swimsuit Workshop at Lebanon Valley Agricultural Center Saturday, May 1, from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. You will learn every step of construction as you sew the suit in class. The class is taught on a conventional machine with serger adaptations given. Guidance will be provided for buying fabric and patterns. A class supply list will be sent upon registration. To register, send $14 for members, $17 for non-members to Lebanon Co. Sewing Guild, 75 Rocherty Rd., Lebanon, PA 17042. For more information, call Linda at (717) 274-1197.

PANTS WORKSHOP

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Getting pants to fit can be frustrating. Learn how to choose the right size pattern and alter it according to your body shape at a Pants Workshop sponsored by Lebanon Co. Sewing Guild. Choose one of two workshops to be held at the Quality Inn, 625 Quentin Rd., Lebanon, on Thursday, January 21, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. or 7-9 p.m. To register, send $8, if member, $10, if non-member, to Lebanon County Sewing Guild, 75 Rocherty Rd., Lebanon, PA 17042 or call (717) 274-1197.

Durocs At Open Swine Show Higher Quality Than At National Sales

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Within the last few weeks, sales of Duroc swine stretched westward across three states — Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois, and if you put all three sales together, they wouldn't equal the quality and balance of the Pennsylvania Farm Show Duroc competition, according to the judge at the open swine show.

Out of the Duroc class, needless to say, came the grand champion overall swine, a February gilt, DCH2 MS Gambler 7-7, exhibited by David C. Holloway, Glen Rock, in competition last week marking the beginning of the 77th annual Farm Show.

Howard Parish, a purebred Duroc and Hampshire breeder from Eden, Ohio picked the Duroc as champion because he believed it exhibited the overall underline quality, including feet and legs, that are important to the breed. Reserve of that class went to James T. Parlett and sons, Airville, for JTP Miss UW S92.

Following are the results of the other breed class champions and their placing:

Berkshire

In the year since he judged the last Pennsylvania Farm Show, Parish said this group showed an extreme amount of improvement.

The group expressed the "femininity, good underlines, and great assets," of the breed, said Parish. "We are blessed here in America with eight different breeds to work with to make hog production possible."

The champion of this class went to the January gilt exhibited by Dennis Grumbine, Myerstown, for F.V. Tall Girl. The Berkshire was the champion at the Keystone Classic.

Reserve went to Todd and Cheryl Bennecoff, Kutztown.

Chester White

Parish said he often asks show attendees if they remember a half Chester cross barrow named "Jasper" — because it is an example of what the model for the market is becoming through the years. That type of gilt is heavily muscled, leanest, and will provide some of the best barrows.

The Parletts swept the class, also picking up reserve for TM Ann T S92.

Hampshire

The champion went to Todd and Cheryl Bennecoff, Kutztown for their January gilt, TTB-2 Dixie Pure.

Reserve went to Donna Strawbridge, Windsor, for 2 Miss Buckshot 1-3, of which the January gilt "could sell a lot of boars" because of its excellent balance, according to Parish.

Landrace

This breed is known universally for hogs that adapt in confinement, according to Parish.

The ones in this class were showing the qualities that would exhibit a good litter, and the champion went to Harlan Wessner, New Tripoli, for his January sow, RAF2 Dora 15-1.

Poland China

Bennecoff also swept this class, winning reserve with her CAB2 S Cruiser.

Both gilts in the reserve class, according to Parish, were "really up there" in terms of muscling, but also had excellent tops and rumps and other underlying qualities.

Spotted Swine

This durable, tough breed of hog, according to Parish, was represented well at the swine show. The exhibitor's hogs were show-

Yorkshire

The last class of the show, according to the swine judge, and also the biggest class with 56 hogs was well represented at the swine show.

Overall, Parish told the exhibitors that they have a tough job as breeders and members of breed organizations. He said that to be careful because when you think you have the best and have what no one else has, watch out.

But the class showed "tremendous balance and femininity," and said to keep in mind the production qualities of the animals.

The March gilt, exhibited by Leon Arnold, LLA2 Ag Arena 84-6, won champion.

100-HP JOHN DEERE 3255 TRACTOR

Loaded and priced to move

For performance and price, you can't beat the combination of a John Deere 3255 Tractor and a perfectly matched loader.

It's easy to keep loads moving. You get top traction in slippery lots with standard "engage-on-the-go" Caster/Action™ MFWD. You'll turn tighter in all tread settings, so cramped quarters are an easy fit.

There's plenty of power, too – with the turbocharged 100-horsepower, 6-cylinder dies High on torque yet low on fuel consumption, th remarkable engine delivers a 24-percent torque rise at just 80 percent of rated speed. You can keep working – without downshifting – right through changing load demands.

That lugging power is coupled to the innovative top-shaft-synchronized (TSS) transmission. For loader or blade work, the "shuttle-shift" lets you quickly move back-and-forth with a single lever while clutching. All this for a surprisingly affordable price.

Ag Secretary Speaks To Farm Bureau

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Robert L. Walker spoke to the assembled delegates at the Maryland Farm Bureau convention in Clinton, Md. recently, telling them that maintaining the integrity of the Maryland Department of Agriculture is essential.

"We need the Farm Bureau to help make sure that Maryland doesn't become the only state in the union without a department of agriculture," Walker said.

"The talk of merging departments brings to my mind bigger bureaucracy. It has never been my view that bigger means better in government. Agriculture needs a strong voice in Annapolis," said Walker.

He went on to describe departmental successes during the past year, including the opening up of new farmers' markets, the expansion of the "Maryland with Pride" program, and the success in international marketing.

"Much of our success in the international marketplace comes from the strong commitment and leadership of Governor William Donald Schaefer. He continues to push Maryland companies to expand their market possibilities," Walker said.

He also spoke to agriculture's continuing to meet new challenges in the environmental area. He described the new regulations in place for the state's expanded nutrient management program which will increase by a great degree the number of acres involved in nutrient management.

In concluding his speech, Walker called on the Farm Bureau to join with him and continue to work as a team to "keep agriculture as the maninstay of Maryland's economy."

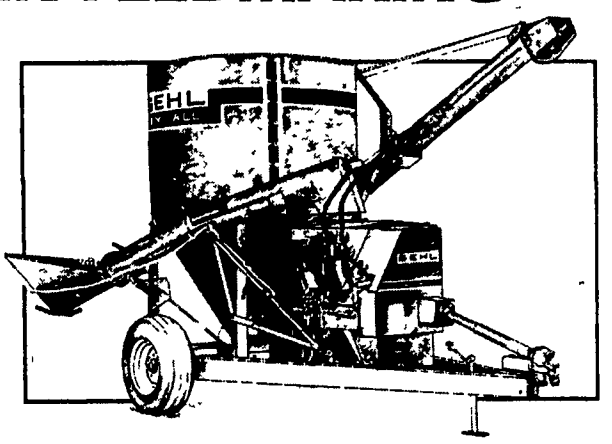
GEHL

THE #1 NAME IN FEEDMAKING



Gehl Mix-All® portable grinder-mixers have been leading the industry for over 30 years. Now the new Gehl Roller Mixer combines proven Mix-All features with a commercial-grade roller mill to produce the best possible feed for your livestock.

- Total hydraulic control – Self-contained hydraulic system allows infinite speeds to power the discharge conveyor, unloading auger and in-feed attachments.
- Remote controls – Operate the unloading conveyor from the tractor seat or from the rear of the machine.
- Electronic scales – For precise ration weighing.
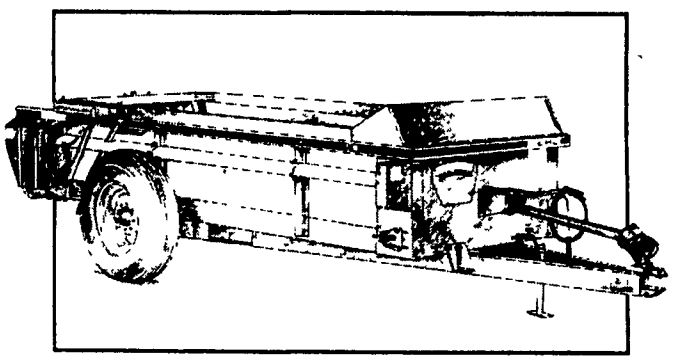
- Customize your machine – With a wide variety of options and attachments.

EVEN WHEN IT'S EMPTY...IT'S LOADED



When you're checking out box-type manure spreaders, look to Gehl for a better spreader! Gehl box spreaders are available in five sizes ranging from 135 to 425 bushel heaped capacities. Gehl box spreaders deliver these and many more advanced features:

- Gehl-Tuff flooring is slippery so manure slides out easily
- T-bar apron chains are extra-strong for durability.
- Galvanized steel sides are more corrosion resistant.
- Single or tandem axle models available.
- 10-year warranty on sides and floors.
- Hydraulic apron drive (optional) to match your specific application needs.

STILL NUMBER

Big Dutchman®

If You Are Looking at Another Cage System, Take A Moment

No matter what you have heard from our competition, Big Dutchman is still Number One, with the best cage system by far. Locally some Big Dutchman systems are approaching their twentieth year of service, and still going strong.

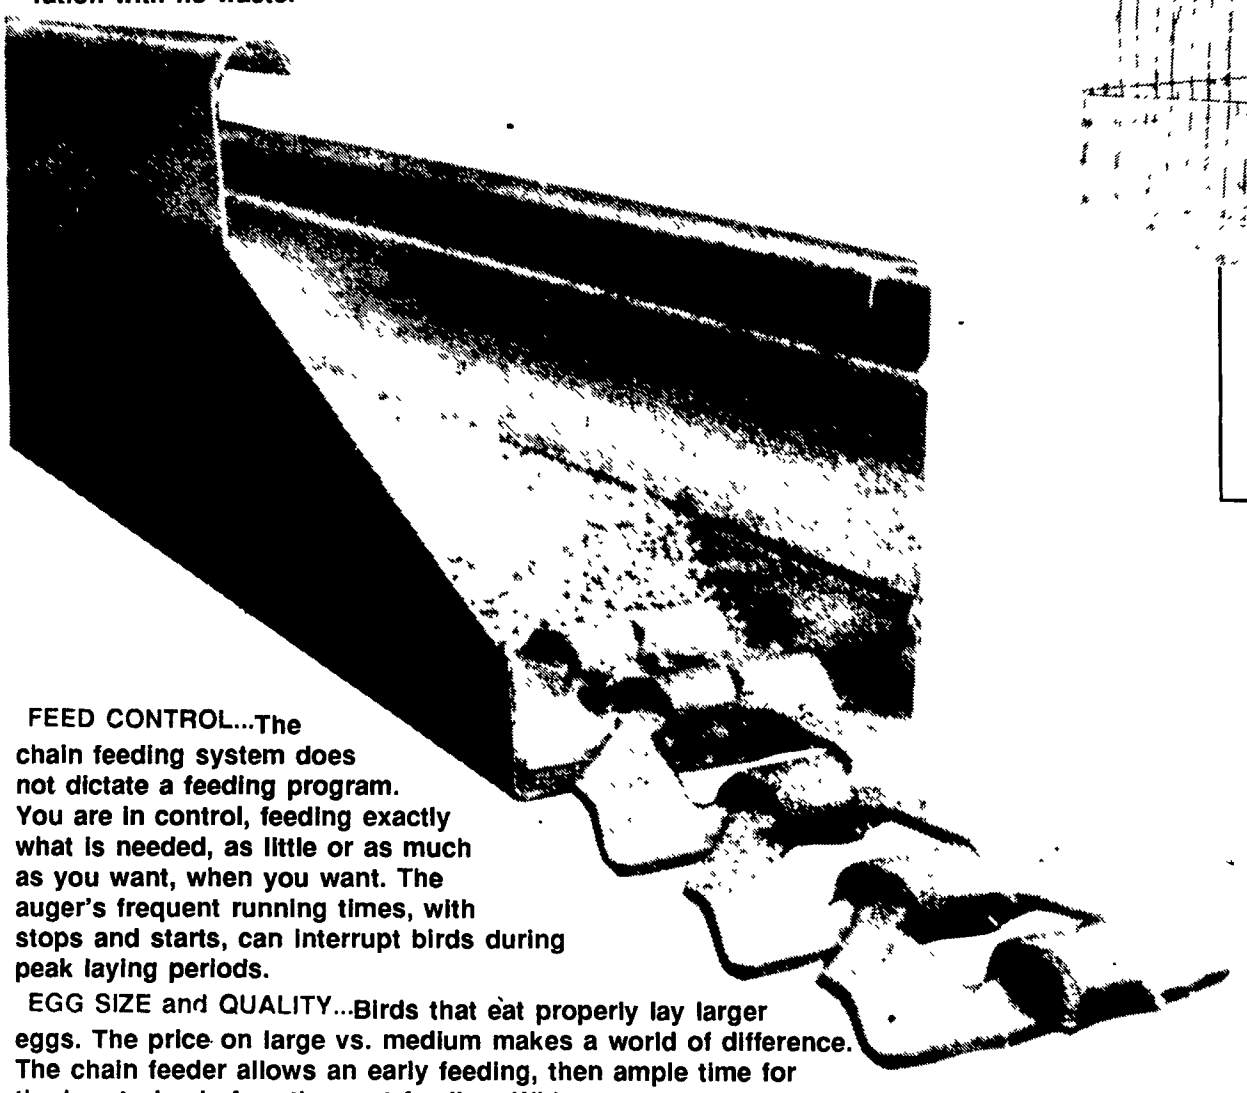
WHOSE FEEDER IS BETTER?

DESIGN...Our chain feeder allows easy access to feed, but keeps feed levels further below the lip of the trough compared to the grinding auger feeder. The chain feeder has a steep sidewall, discouraging feed build-up. The auger feeder trough has a slope that allows build-up, inviting mold and disease. Our trough is ribbed, for strength. Theirs is built for price alone.

FEEDING SPACE...Actual feeding space with the auger feeder is skimpy. In fact, our chain feeder has 2½ times more feeding space per bird. This allows the chain feeder to run as few as three times per day, while the auger must run eight or more times per day. Chain carries the feed and supplies a uniform ration with no waste.



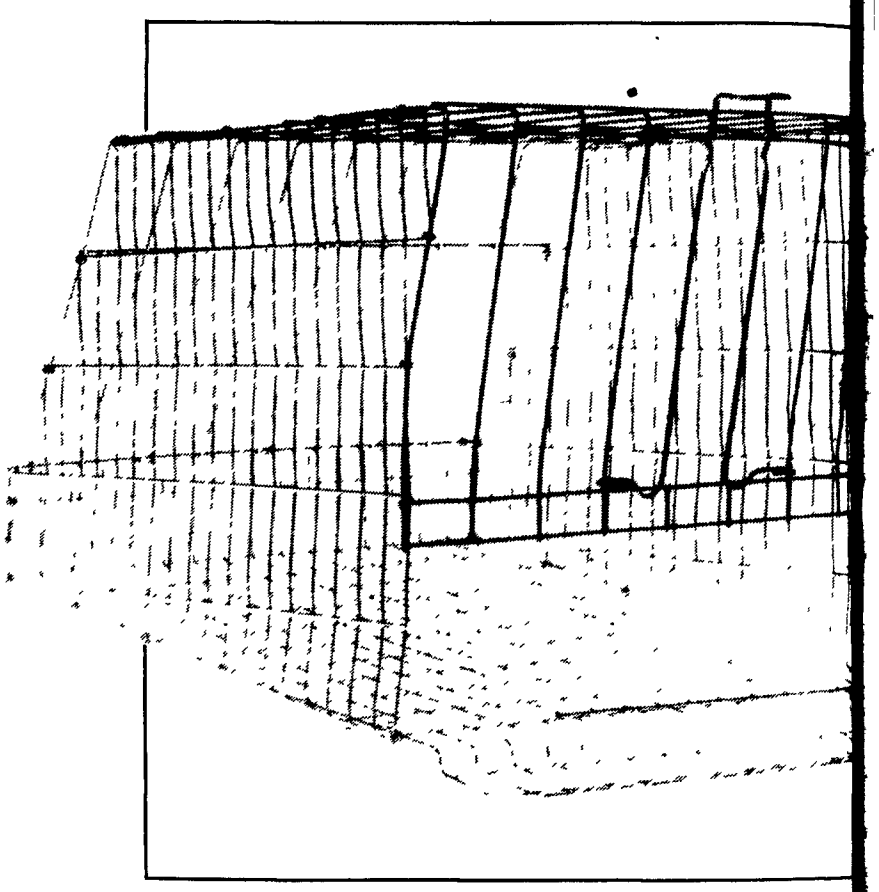
FEED CONTROL...The chain feeding system does not dictate a feeding program. You are in control, feeding exactly what is needed, as little or as much as you want, when you want. The auger's frequent running times, with stops and starts, can interrupt birds during peak laying periods.

EGG SIZE and QUALITY...Birds that eat properly lay larger eggs. The price on large vs. medium makes a world of difference. The chain feeder allows an early feeding, then ample time for the hen to lay before the next feeding. With an auger feeder, hens fight for feeding space, spend much more time than necessary at the feeder, and create unwanted activity in the cage. The results are smaller eggs and more crax and chex. Profits go down. Put a pencil on it.

REPAIR and MAINTENANCE...The hardest thing about repairing a chain feeder is remembering where you left the hammer and chain breaker tool some months back. With an auger system the need for a welder, torch and grinder is almost routine. Downtime is up, and repair hours and expenses rise with it.

THE TEST of TIME...The chain feeder seems never to wear out. Some thirty year old units are still performing every day. On the other hand, the auger system is "short term," with time as it's enemy. Our goal is to help you make a profit, and chain feeding plays a leading role.

WHOSE CA



STRENGTH...The wrap-around single piece construction of our heavy duty front, top and back makes our cage stronger.

GALVANIZING METHOD...The formed bottom and back are completely double galvanized. In addition, we double galvanize every cage partition completely, from top to bottom for the ultimate in protection from rust and for longer service life. Double galvanizing actually provides more than three times as much zinc, compared to single galvanizing.

CONTROL...Our cage is designed and constructed to control egg roll, significantly reducing crax and chex and providing cleaner eggs.

3 Reasons Why Your Next Cage System Should Be CHORE-TIME®

Reason Number 1

A Better Feeder

You save feed, electricity and parts with Chore-Time's Ultraflo feeder.
Ask any grower who has an Ultraflo Feeding System.
Call or send for our list of 76 farms with 182 Ultraflo houses in the Northeast.

Reason Number 2

Heavier Cages

Chore-Time Cages are 11.2% Heavier, That's Over 3½ Tons More Wire Per House!
(Based upon 108,000 bird house. Call or write for actual test data)

Reason Number 3

Over 14 Million Layers In Our Region

Since Chore-Time introduced the Ultraflo Feeding System in 1985, over 180 houses have been sold in our sales area which is Pennsylvania, Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey, New York and New England.

Think about it. In only 7 years, 1 out of every 3 layers in our region has been switched to Chore-Time with Ultraflo! Many farmers bought one Chore-Time house and after seeing the results purchased more. Some large farms have replaced all their non-Chore-Time cage systems with Chore-Time cages and Ultraflo feeders.

Can over 180 houses and 14 million layers since 1985 in the Northeast be wrong? Why not check out the facts for yourself? Call today or send for the list of all Ultraflo houses in the Northeast.

Better feeder, Better cages, Better reasons to GO CHORE-TIME.

Beef Task Force To Develop Long-Range Plan

DENVER, Colo. — The beef industry's four national organizations have announced the appointment of a task force which will develop a long-range plan for the overall industry.

The plan will guide the organizations as they design and carry out programs intended to improve profit opportunities for beef producers in the decade ahead.

Preparation of an "Industry-Wide Long Range Plan" had been proposed by the elected officers of the Beef Industry Council of the Meat Board, the Cattlemen's Beef Board, the Meat Export Federation, and the National Cattlemen's Association. The Beef Promotion Operating Committee, at a meeting in November, authorized the use of checkoff funds to prepare a long-range plan which will maximize returns on checkoff, dues, and other dollars invested in beef marketing, issues management, and other projects.

The organization officers who announced the appointment of the task force included Ray Larson, Maple Park, Ill., BIC chairman; Mardie Hanson, Cowdrey, Colo., CBB chairperson; Stan Miller, Excel Corp., Wichita, Kan., MEF chairman, and Jimme Wilson, Trout Creek, Mont., NCA president.

The announcement pointed out that the 14 producer members of the task force, through industry knowledge and organizational experience, are uniquely qualified to develop a plan which will forecast needs and challenges facing the industry and which will recommend ways in which the organizations can meet the challenges. All of the task force members have had experience in long-range planning, both in their own businesses and in industry organizations.

Task force members, including officer-representatives of the four industry groups, are Rob Adams, vice president, cattle operations, Continental Grain Co., Chicago; Tobin Armstrong, Armstrong Ranch, Armstrong, Texas; Buck Bell, Summerton, S.C., chairman-elect of the BIC; Linda Davis, C S Ranch, Cimmarron, N. M.; Bill Engelbrecht, seedstock producer, Henry, Ill.; Bob Foster, dairyman, Middlebury, Vt.; Joe Hampton, cow-calf producer, Windsor, Ill.; Mardie Hanson, Cowdrey, Colo., CBB chairperson; Burke Healey, seedstock and cow-calf operator, Davis, Okla.; Virgil Huseman, cow-calf rancher, Ellsworth, Kan.; Jack Maddux, rancher and feeder, Waunеta, Neb.; Jim Mullins, Corwith, Ia., farmer and feeder, chairman-elect of MEF; Roger Stuber, Stuber Ranch, Bowman, N.D., president-elect of NCA, and Gordon Van Vleck, rancher, Plymouth, Calif.

Rich Shuler, vice president and general manager, Syntex Animal Health, Des Moines, Iowa, was named task force facilitator. He will participate in the planning sessions and facilitate the development of a comprehensive plan.

Earl B. Peterson, vice president, finance and administration, NCA, is project leader of the checkoff-funded planning project. Staff persons who will provide liaison between their organizations and the task force are Jay Wardell, BIC executive vice president; Monte Reese, CBB executive director; Phil Seng, MEF president; and Burton Eller, NCA executive vice president.

The task force is expected to complete its work within the next year. A basic objective, the organization officers said, is to "get the most possible bang for each beef dollar" put into programs of the respective organizations. The single, comprehensive long-range plan will cover domestic and foreign marketing and promotion programs. It will cover industry issues management, industry public relations, and other programs which the industry's organizations develop and implement. Available resources will be matched against challenges which can be dealt with through collective actions.

Major benefits of the planning project are expected to maximize the effectiveness of industry resources including checkoff funds, dues, and other non-checkoff dollars. Optimizing organizational efficiency, effectiveness, and development of information which individual producers and all organizations can use in making their own business plans are additional goals of the project.

The task force, according to the announcement, will obtain input from the industry grassroots and from any interested organizations, and it will use consultants with expertise in appropriate subject matter areas. The overall plan will ultimately be coordinated with the strategic plans of the national organizations.

Farm Show Opening Features Outstanding Agribusinesses

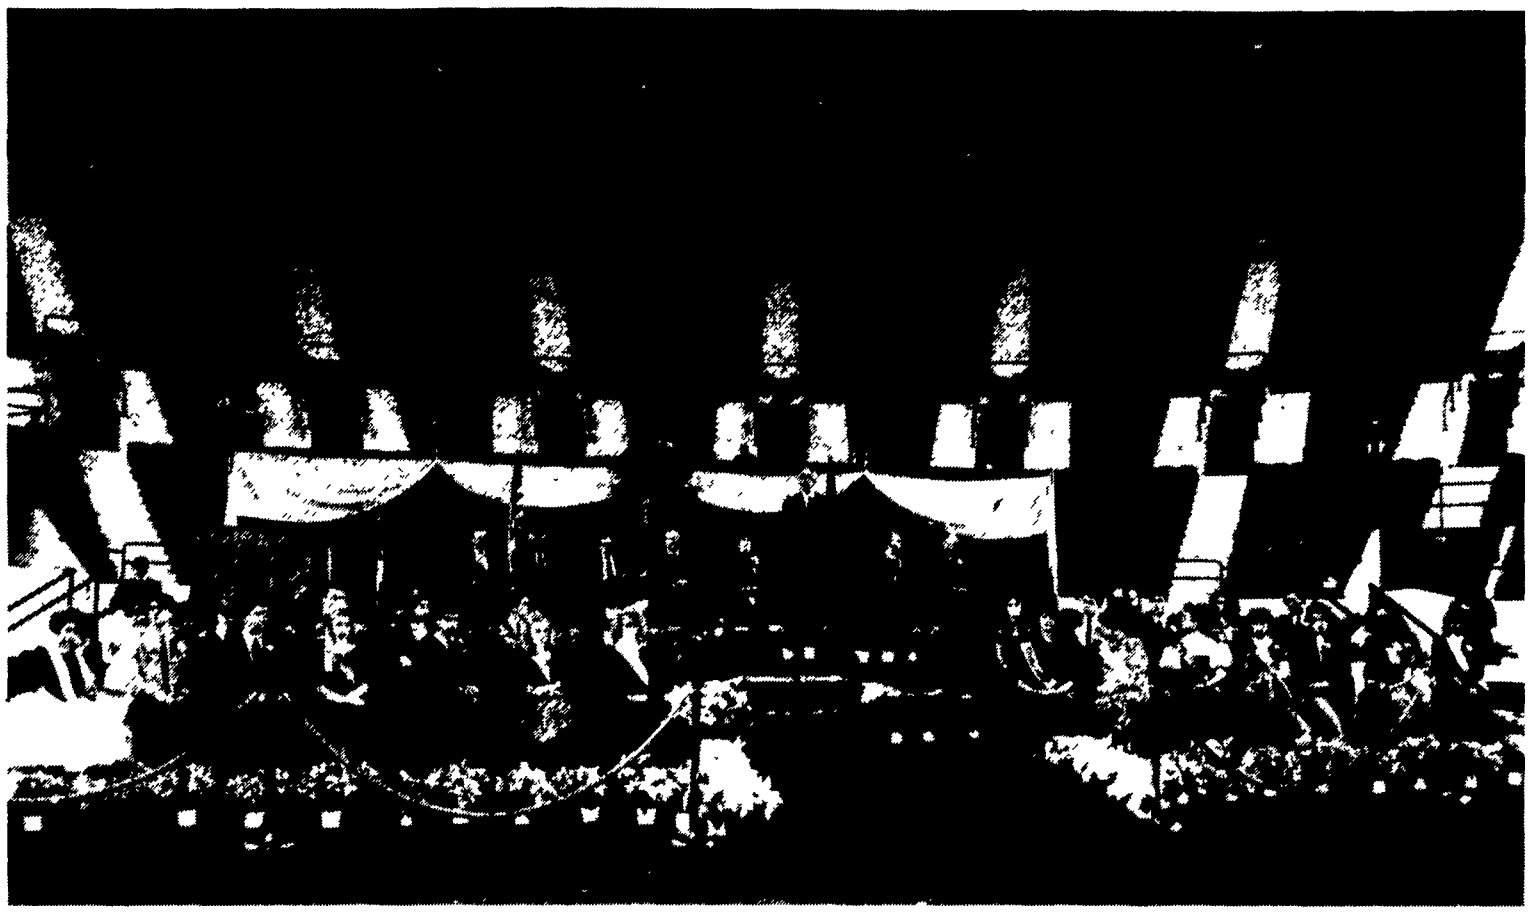
EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)—Opening events at the Pennsylvania Farm Show this week gave state officials the opportunity to extol the virtues of agriculture.

On Saturday evening at the annual Farm Show Banquet, State Agriculture Secretary Boyd Wolff announced the agri-business awards and set the stage for the week's activities. And on Sunday morning, Gov. Robert Casey announced the release of State Capital funds for the design of a new $6.7 million animal diagnostic labratory at the Department of Agriculture located across from the Farm Show complex.

"I like to think of the Farm Show as a reunion for Pennsylvania's diverse farm family," Wolff said. 'A place where old friends meet, compete and stay current in new ag practices and technoloby. The farm show is a showcase for the Commonwealth's largest industry and a place where our consumers can learn about agriculture and its many quality products."

The agribusiness awards went to Newhart Foods, Inc. of Allentown and Knouse Foods, Inc. of Peach Glen. The awards are presented annually to one smaller company and one larger company for their special contributions toward the development and expansion of Pennsylvania agribusiness.



Gov. Casey speaks at the opening ceremonies Sunday in the large arena with the commodity representatives down front.

Gov. Robert Casey and Mrs. Casey are set for the coach ride into the large arena.

Newhart Foods is a family business started in 1945 as a corner grocery store in the small town of Coplay. Julian Newhart, its founder, competed with 26 other neighborhood grocery stores in the same town. By 1953 he sold the store to become a full-time salad manufacturer. Now with 55 full-time employees, Newhart Foods markets 180 items in eight states, including major chains like Burger King. A state-of-the-art facility in Allentown allows them to produce the freshest salads in the United States.

As a family business, Newhart Foods is proud of the quality products carrying their name and operates with the same philosophy it had in 1945, "to serve their customers with the freshest, highest quality products available."

Knouse Foods is a grower-owned cooperative named after the first president of the company, Milton E. Knouse. As a private brand packer, Knouse began the marketing of fine fruit products in 1949 and has evolved into one of the largest apple processors in the country. With over 1,700 Pennsylvania employees, Knouse Foods markets their products under the national brand names of Lucky Leaf, Musselmans, and Apple Time.

Knouse Foods has the highest quality consistency of raw fruit and processed apple products. Their philosophy is reflected in their commitment to be the industry leader in innovative new products and packaging. They have exhibited at the Farm Show the last four years in the Pennsylvania Food Pantry, a showcase for processed foods.

—Gov. Casey speaking at the opening ceremonies in the large arena said the release of funds for the laboratory fulfills a commitment he made to the agriculture community when he ran for governor in 1986. The new lab will replace the outdated and out-grown one at Summerdale and will help to expand and accelerate testing for disease such as avian influenza, bovine tuberculosis and salmonella.

"We've spent the past six years working with our farm and agri-

Youth Lead In Open Beef Show Competition

Just ask Erin Krueger, Coatesville, 12-year-old daughter of Greg and Jane Krueger. Erin, South Brandywine seventh grader, showed Kruegers Reba Belle (S: R&J Maxima, D: Kruegers Belladonna) out of the early summer heifer calf class to the grand champion Angus and supreme champion female on Monday at the Farm Show.

Erin has been showing with her family for several years, and said this is her first Farm Show championship.

Although many times the open shows are won by veteran showman, Kevin Rooker, 11, has grown up on a Polled Hereford beef farm. He took only four years, from showing at the Fayettle County Fair since he was 7, to exhibiting the grand champion Polled Hereford heifer at the open show beef competition.

Kevin, son of Keith and Linda Rooker, Uniontown, paraded in the ring the "bigger frame type of female," said judge Howard Hoffman, Far Hills, N.J. The heifer, KWR Fore Girl (S: IGT Forecaster 1737, D: KHR JJ My Girl 1004) showed completeness and balance, according to Hoffman, which competed in the junior heifer calf (Jan.-Feb. 1992) class.

Kevin also had to best brother Kyle and nine others in the same class.

The grand champion bull of the Polled Hereford breed went to Curt Stockdale, which was "athletic and stylish-looking," according to Hoffman. Curt, 15, Dayton, has been showing for seven years. He is a member of the Dayton 4-H Livestock Club.

Judges for the show were Tom Reedy, Lovington, Ill. and Howard Hoffman, Far Hills, N.J.

business community to preserve, protect and enhance Pennsylvania's agricultural heritage and our agribusiness base," Casey said. 'This new lab will help protect the most profitable sector of our farm industry, animal agriculture."

The governor said animal agriculture represents 70 percent of Pennsylvania's total farm receipts of $3.8 billion and is the principle resource of the state's $15 billion food processing industry.

The governor also said plans are in the works to pave parking areas and replace the main exhibition area floor. And his other initiatives include:

Forming an Animal Health Commission to help develop policies that will protect the investments and livelihoods of Pennsylvania farm families.

Creating a Farmland Preservation Program that has enabled the Commonwealth to permanently protect from development more than 25,000 acres of prime farmland.

Developing a new agricultural product marketing program--"Quality...From Our Home to Yours." This marketing program has resulted in an 85 percent increase in the value of agricultural exports from Pennsylvania.

Establishing the CHEMSWEEP farm chemical collection program that has helped farmers dispose of nearly 30,000 pounds of unwanted pesticides free-of-charge.

Creating new markets for fresh fruits and vegetables through the Farmers' Market Nutrition Program that provides vouchers to 28,000 women enrolled in the Women, Infants and Children nutrition program.

Silage Production Conference Set

ITHACA, N.Y. — Silage production is a central component of animal agriculture in temperate climates. Silage Production from Seed to Animal, a conference to be held in Syracuse, New York, on February 23-25, will focus on this important agricultural issue.

Thirty prominent agricultural scientists from around the country will discuss all aspects of silage production and utilization, from variety selection to troubleshooting silage nutrition problems. Speakers include agronomists, agricultural engineers, farm advisers, industry representatives, animal scientists, dairy nutritionists, extension agents, agricultural economists, and others. A keynote address will be delivered by Marshall McCullough, professor emeritus, University of Georgia.

The conference will provide practical guidelines for producers and promote an integrated systems approach to silage production. The session topics are forage in the field; preserving silage; silage additives; choosing a silo; feeding silage; troubleshooting silage nutrition problems; and managing human, environmental, and economic factors. Two evening discussion sessions will focus on the importance of variety and management and nutrition considerations.

The intended audience includes livestock farmers, dairy farmers, forage producers, farm advisers, industry representatives, veterinarians, plant breeders, and university specialists. The conference structure will encourage interaction between participants and speakers through discussion periods after every few presentations as well as through evening discussion sessions.

The conference content was developed by a committee that included Janet Fallon, crop specialist, Agway, Inc.; Jim Barney, western New York dairy farmer; and Tom Kilcer, Cornell Cooperative Extension agent. Cornell professors Ron Pitt, agricultural engineer; Alice Pell, animal scientist; and Shaw Reed, agronomist, also provided leadership in creating the conference program.

The conference is sponsored by the Northeast Regional Agricultural Engineering Service in conjunction with the American Society of Agricultural Engineers, American Dairy Science Association, American Society of Agronomy, the Crop Science Society of America, and the Soil Science Society of America.

The registration fee is $130 if received before February 5. Late or walk-in registration is $145. The fee includes admission to the conference and evening discussion sessions, a buffet lunch on February 24, break refreshments, a copy of the conference proceedings, and a pass to the New York State Farm Equipment Show. The New York State Farm Equipment Show will be held from February 25-27 on the New York State Fairgrounds, 15 minutes from the site of the conference.

The conference will be held at the Sheraton Inn Syracuse, 7th North Street and Electronics Parkway, Liverpool, New York. The room rates are $65 for a single or double if you let the hotel know that you will be attending the conference. Rooms have been set aside until January 22, 1993 and can be reserved by calling (315) 457-1122.

Census Of Ag Report Forms Due

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Farmers and ranchers are reminded that the deadline for returning the 1992 Census of Agriculture report form is February 1. Most forms have been returned, according to the U.S. Bureau of the Census.

For those who have not completed their form, estimates are acceptable if records are not available. Those not operating a farm or ranch who received a form should return it so they will not be contacted again.

If you're thinking about not returning the form, you should know that you are required by law to answer the census. Delay sharply increases the cost of the census and postpones the release of data which is scheduled to begin this fall.

Assistance in completing census forms is available locally from the USDA offices of the Cooperative Extension Service, Soil Conservation Service, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, Farmers Home Administration, and vocational agriculture teachers. Farmers can also call the Census Bureau's toll-free number at (800) 233-6132 for assistance or to obtain a report form.

All information collected in the agriculture census is kept confidential by law. This 24th census will provide a detailed picture of the status of agriculture for the nation's 3,100 counties.

Massey Ferguson 70 to 90 PTO HP tractors now offer a new 12-speed, side-shift, synchronized shuttle transmission that saves time in gear/range changes and clears the deck for a more comfortable operating position.

Side-Shift Transmission For Tractors

DES MOINES, Iowa — Massey Ferguson's 300 Series cab tractors from 70 to 95 PTO horsepower now feature a new 12x12 full synchromesh transmission, new reverse shuttle, new sideshift gear lever, new four-wheel drive engage/disengagement on-the-move, new electrohydraulic differential lock control, and new hydraulic console.

"The MF 390 (70 PTO hp), MF 390T (80 PTO hp), and MF 399 (95 PTO hp) are ideal all-purpose tractors with the power to handle field work and the maneuverability to be useful in feed lots and around the farm," said Wilf Boyle, Massey Ferguson tractor marketing manager. "Theh new features incorporated into these tractors will increase versatility, improve output, and provide greater ease of operation."

The MF 399 features the new 95 PTO hp Perkins 1000 Series Quadram power diesel engine with the new combustion chamber and piston head design that improves fuel economy, increases torque, and provides longer engine life and quieter operation.

The new fully synchronized transmission has 12 evenly spaced gears with three speed ranges for slow specialist jobs, medium field jobs, and fast field and transport jobs. A single side-mounted lever control selects both gear and range changes.

The side-mounted control lever is mounted to the right-hand side of the driver. This clears the cab deck for a more comfortable driving position, provides for a more convenient gear change, and offers clear cab entry from either side and unmrestricted seat access.

The new full synchromesh 12x12 reverse-shuttle gives operators on-the-go reverse speed in each of the 12 forward speeds. This makes turning in the field and hooking up or maneuvering easier and faster, and is ideal for fast, high output loader cycles.

A new, optional fouru-wheel drive can be instantly engaged on-the-go with electro-hydraulic push button control — a real time saver when you need extra traction to get through slippery spots or up an incline. Front and rear differential locks are also operated by electro-hydraulic control.

The optional factory-installed HiLine cab has air conditioning and heater combined with a unique dual-level heating and ventilation system, superb forward visibility, front and rear work lights, and large fenders with easy-access steps.

Cutter Uses Triple Spindle Design

GIBSON CITY, Ill. — M&W Gear Company announces the addition of the Prairie Clipper PC1532 heavy-duty flex wing rotary cutter to the M&W product line.

The PC1532 uses a triple spindle design with updraft blades, which requires only one wrench to change, and oval blade protectors. The PC1532 is a flexible, high clearance cutter which cuts a 15 foot swath. It is available with 540 or 1,000 RPM PTO drive with 35R side drives and a 3-joint 44R input shaft.

A swivel clevis hitch prevents binding when cutting uneven ground. Wings can cut at angles from 22° down to 90° up and each wing can be independently raised. Standard features include replacable side skids, center section skids, clutches on all power shafts, hydraulic cylinders, and hoses. Four 8-inch x 25.5-inch 20 ply rated aircraft tires on five-bolt hubs are also standard equipment. For more information, contact M&W Gear Company, 1020 South Sangamon Avenue, Gibson City, Il 60936.

Centralized Distribution For Cummins Diesel

"The opening of this distribution facility will set new standards in parts availability for all of our customers," said William K. Gemmill, executive vice president for Cummins Diesel Engines Inc.

"This expansion will enable us to provide a broader range of part number availability to all our regional outlets," he said. With the proliferation of part numbers it becomes more important to stock slow moving numbers as well as the fast movers. When you're in the parts business, being able to meet market demands is the key to success. To make sure CDE meets market demands, our new Harrisburg facility will stock over 20,000 line items valued in excess of $3 million. Our goal from this expansion effort is to consistently exceed a 97 percent 'first pass' order fill rate."

Cummins Diesel Engines Inc. has installed an elaborate telephone system which includes three inbound fax machines to enhance the ordering system. Orders can be shipped overnight directly to Cummins branches and dealers. Stock orders from authorized dealers of $1,500 or more qualify for free outbound shipping.

"We have an excellent staff of seasoned professionals at the new distribution center," said Gemmill. Tom Von Zagorski, who is the director of the distribution center, brings many years of experience from our Monroeville facility. Likewise, Tim Prall, our warehouse manager, comes to the center from the Harrisburg branch, where he was a parts man for many years. Most of the rest of the staff came from other Cummins branches. Their collective experience and familiarity with our customers will be a big plus for this facility. Early in the planning stages of the distribution center, we realized that it (the distribution center) would only be as good as the people who work there. The goal was to assemble the best staff possible, and I feel we've done just that."

The Cummins product lines available through the Harrisburg warehouse will include new genuine Cummins parts, reconditioned parts, Donaldson and Fleetguard filters, Dayco belts and hoses, Jacobs brakes and parts, Thermostar heaters and parts, and Voith and ZF transmissions.

The Harrisburg operation not only includes improved parts coverage, but also free core pickup, an enhanced quantity order discount policy, and 24-hour emergency order capability for its dealers.

Ciba-Geigy Seed Division Adds Screening Station

LANDISVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — The Ciba-Geigy Seed Division has announced that it will be consolidating one of its Bloomington, Ill. based pathology stations with its Manheim disease screening station to form the Pennsylvania Disease Breeding and Screening Station.

"This area of Pennsylvania," said Dr. Bruce Hunter, vice president of research for the Ciba-Geigy Seed Division, "is an idea geographical location for pathology research work. Our expanded efforts should have a long-term positive impact on our efforts in the areas of disease resistance.

"Our efforts will be focused on maturity groups 3-5, which include hybrids ranging from 105 to 115 days maturity."

Dr. Loral Caster, a pathology research scientist, will oversee research activities at the new facility. Although a site for the station has yet to be determined, Castor and Jay Garber, a technician at the Manheim facility, are investigating possible locations. Additional staff will be added early in 1993.

Fred Lepley, vice president of sales and marketing for Hoffman Seeds, believes the station will pay big dividends for users of Funk's G® brand hybrids.

"We're very excited about the news," said Lepley. "The 105 to 115-day maturity group represents a large percentage of the acreage within the Hoffman territory. Our customers can now expect even better performance from Funk's hybrids, especially considering the disease associated with Northeast growing conditions."

Hoffman Seeds is an associate producer of the Ciba-Geigy Seeds Division and distributes a complete line of farm seeds to Northeast farmers.

MAGNUM 7120

Case IH put more into the new MAGNUM Tractor line than any farm tractors developed in over twenty years. Here's why you'll get more out of it:

MAGNUM means more. Outstanding field performance from a new 505-cubic-inch turbocharged engine with reserve power. MAGNUM power.

The MAGNUM Tractor's powershift puts 18 speeds of shift-on-the-go workpower at your fingertips — standard. And only MAGNUM Tractors offer a full powershift creeper transmission with six additional speeds from .5 to 2.1 mph for more control and performance. MAGNUM performance.

The MAGNUM Tractor's new larger cab has 48 square feet of window area — virtually unobstructed visibility — and more seating comfort. MAGNUM comfort.

It all adds up: The Case IH MAGNUM 7120 Tractor sets new standards for the 150 hp (112 kW) class — and for you. See us for details.

MAGNUM means more.

DER Says Water, Not Crisis, Management Needed

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — If 1993 signals another drought year, and low flow rates are declared on the Susquehanna River, then irrigation in some places may have to cease.

That's one of the reasons Pennsylvania could use a statewide Water Management Plan, in order to put in place procedures and policies for water use and to be prepared in case a drought such as happened two years ago doesn't send agriculture reeling.

Tom Fiddler, Department of Environmental Resources (DER) field operations deputy secretary, spoke about the proposed management plan drawn up recently. Although irrigation only makes up two percent of the entire water use in the state, it comes at a time when river levels can be dangerously low, and when other industries are also forced to cut back.

Fiddler spoke at a meeting on water law, water rights, and irrigation recently at the Farm and Home Center. About 75 farmers and irrigation industry representatives attended the meeting.

Low flow rare

However, historically, according to meeting coordinator Leon Ressler, extension environmental specialist, low flow rates on the river have occurred rarely, perhaps twice over the past six decades — once in the mid-1960s and once during the Dust Bowl years in the 1930s. The remainder low flow rates have occured in the fall, when irrigation is not necessary for most crops.

But the state still lives under riparian doctrine, which declares that a landowner is allowed to draw whatever amounts are "reasonable" from water under or next to the land owned. But what is reasonable, especially when agricultural systems (such as poultry) draw so much water?

Fiddler said that only the Susquehanna River Basin Compact, drawn up in January 1971 through cooperating states and federal government, currently enforces policies to preserve water. But Pennsylvania could draw its own water management plan using elements from the existing Maryland plan.

Maryland plan

According to Dr. Herb Brodie, University of Maryland ag engineer, the Maryland plan allowed five years to pass since its inception in July 1988 for farmers to apply for a permit. If a farm uses more than 10,000 gallons of water a day on a year average, the farm must have a permit.

Maryland's drought management plan, according to Brodie, places human and health services (hospitals, fire stations, etc.) as top priority for access to water resources. Farming is next in line, for irrigation, livestock, and food processors. Everybody else is last.

Putting farmers in priority order to use the water during drought crises has made farmer's happier, according to the ag engineer. The five-year grace period ends in July this year. After that time, farmers will have a more difficult and complex task obtaining a permit, including posting and advertisement for intended use and going through public meetings.

Comply with cutbacks

If a drought occurs this year, according to Dave Heicher, program specialist with the Susquehanna River Basin Commission (SRBC), during low flow periods industry and farmers must comply with cutbacks. Farmers are going to have to deal with this if the cutbacks occur during the irrigation season.

If a drought occurs this year, according to Dave Heicher, program specialist with the Susquehanna River Basin Commission (SRBC), during low flow periods industry and farmers must comply with cutbacks.

Dr. Al Jarrett, Penn State ag engineer and irrigation systems specialist, spoke about the use of drip irrigation rather than overhead or sprinkle irrigation to meet crop needs.

Pennsylvania could draw its own water management plan using elements from the existing Maryland plan. According to Dr. Herb Brodie, University of Maryland ag engineer, the Maryland plan allowed five years to pass since its inception in July 1988 for farmers to apply for a permit.

Under current SRBC guidelines, farmers are allowed to withdraw up to 100,000 gallons per day during any 30-day period. A series of meetings last year reviewed the plans drawn up by the commission, and suspended all fees for ag use. The SRBC does not charge any water use fee for farming operations. The SRBC "is not interested in extracting money," said Heicher. "We're interested in making sure the water is there."

This year, meetings will resume to discuss policies regarding farming and irrigation and implementing overall water management plans, according to the SRBC representative.

For now, according to Ressler, there is not going to be an easy answer for this complex problem. If a drought occurs, it won't mean farmers won't be able to irrigate during low flow periods. It will just mean deciding who will.

Efficient use

That's all the more reason for farmers to closely examine how to make more efficient use of the resource, according to Dr. Al Jarrett, Penn State ag engineer and irrigation systems specialist.

Jarrett spoke about the use of drip irrigation rather than overhead or sprinkle irrigation to meet crop needs.

"I teach some turf irrigation to some students who wish to become golf course superintendents," he said. "There's a concept within the turf industry which I think is just horrendous. They basically say you turn on the irrigation system for 15 minuts each day, completely independent of what the system is doing and what the soil needs are and what the crop needs are and what the system will put down. Hopefully we can get beyond that."

It means looking closely at a complex equation involving several factors, including:

• Evapotranspiration, or ET. This is the loss of water from the soil because of evaporation and transpiration from the plants. The "ET factor" is often published in newspapers. If not, get in touch with your local extension service to find out what the ET factor is, because this will help plan exactly what water loss is occuring and how much you need to irrigate.

• Crop coefficient. This is simply what amounts of certain kind of crop needs to maintain maximum growth in its cycle. This is also available from your local extension office.

• Soil type. Each farm has a specific soil type with specific water needs. Jarrett said needs depend on each individual site and crop planted.

• Other factors, such as solar radiation, date, time, and precipitation factors, such as occur during the summer season, with local thunderstorms and other rain events.

Jarrett emphasized the importance of conserving water by using drip irrigation, which places water exactly where the plant needs it in the right amount. This saves water for many types of vegetable and fruit crops, because overhead or sprinkle irrigation wastes a great deal of water.

Tom Fiddler, Department of Environmental Resources (DER) field operations deputy secretary, spoke about the proposed management plan drawn up recently.

About 30 percent of the water is wasted in well-designed sprinkle irrigation. In drip, five percent or less is wasted. "You do a better job with drip irrigation," he said.

But even in the best of years, the water can lack necessary moisture at critical times. The goal is to keep the moisture content in the root zone below field capacity (saturation) and above the halfway point (moisture in 50 percent of soil profile).

There are soil moisture sensors, such as tensiometers, available to measure how much is available to the plant, available from the irrigation industry.

"We can generalize to death and just figure on .2 inches (of water) a day, but we're not going to do a good job of managing our resource, and that is water," he said. "Most of the time you're going to overirrigate — that's better than underirrigating, but if we have drought problems, then you're very sensitive to wasting that resource. You don't want to do that."

Wool, Mohair Producers Asked To File Receipts

LEBANON (Lebanon Co. — The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) reminds wool and mohair producers to file their 1992 sales receipts by January 31 so that the documents can be used in determining the national average market price.

Although the deadline for filing 1992 receipts to qualify for a 1992 price support payment is March 1, ASCS encourages wool and mohair producers to file in January because USDA's National Agricultural Statistics Service needs the data in February to compute wool and mohair market prices.

"Since national average market prices are the basis for wool and mohair payment rates, producers are urged to submit their sales documents to us at least by the end of January," said Jenifer K. Minnich, county executive director.

She reminds producers that "actively engaged in farming" and "person" determinations must be made to be eligible for a payment. Also, producers are required to certify that they are in compliance with highly erodible land and wetland conservation provisions.

"We encourage producers to bring in their 1992 sales receipts as soon as possible," Minnich said.

What Is Pasture Doing For You?

The forage industry is the major agricultural enterprise in the northern United States. With 720,000 milk cows, 216,000 beef cows and 134,000 sheep in Pennsylvania, it is not surprising that pastures make up more than three million acres of our forage production acreage.

Unfortunately, most agricultural research focuses on cropland production and assembly line feeding of livestock. Attention has been on the individual components of livestock production as opposed to integrated management of the farming system. But economically, well managed pasture is one of the best ways to feed livestock. Dollar for dollar, it makes sense.

There are specific advantages to good pasture management. In the northeast, the group of plants best adapted to maximum production under our conditions are the cool-season grasses. It is probable that well-adapted forage species are right there waiting to be used!

The properly managed cool season grass pasture and grazing system provides the simplest, inexpensive, and most effective soil erosion control method found. In addition to erosion control, in a grazing system where animals rest and eat on pasture, manure storage and handling can be greatly reduced.

Some farmers have been able to reduce the amount of manure they handle by as much as two-thirds. Pasturing is also good for the environment. Managed forages can increase soil tilth, reduce pesticide use, and provide a natural means for harvest. Grazing is also socially acceptable to neighbors who don't farm.

Pasture can be seen as a feed ingredient, providing return to the good farm manager. Most dairy farms, for example, don't have enough tillable land to provide all the forage needs of their livestock. Developing a pasture system will reduce spending for supplements to forage grown at home.

According to J.G. Hlubic of Penn State and Cornell's T.R. Smith in "Economics of Pasture Systems," a well managed pasture can show a potential $50 per acre or $38 per cow increase in income over the course of one grazing season, as well as a potential loss of $118 per acre or $61 per cow on poorly managed pasture.

Effective use of pasture ground requires active management, with careful consideration of plant and animal performance. Results from a Penn State survey of dairy producers identified several management problems causing reluctance by farmers to move towards a more intensive pasture approach. These included variation in pasture quality and yield, balancing rations, and estimating feed intake.

Fencing, shade, and watering methods must be established and maintained. With profitable production dependent on pasture quantity, nutritional composition, intake and specifics of the supplemental feed program, the success of grazing systems depends on a higher level of management compared with confined feeding systems.

Whether you are ready to begin intensive grazing or are merely considering practical guidelines for getting started in low cost, easy to manage grazing systems, your local conservation district can help. The district offers technical advice, information, and management planning for effective grazing practices. Contact Lori Sandman at the Chester County Conservation District, (215) 696-5126 or the conservation district office in your area for more information.

Junior Swine Exhibitors Voyage To A Supreme Championship

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — For the grand champion crossbred swine exhibitor, it was a matter of making the voyage from sixth place to grand in one year's time. For the reserve, winning meant first traveling to Canada to pick out just the right type of hog.

For both exhibitors, who won supreme and reserve supreme, respectively, getting to the grand championship was as exhilarating as it was simply hard work.

Mark Simmon, 14-year-old son of Barbara Simmon, Lebanon, enjoyed his first Farm Show Junior Swine Show crossbred grand and supreme champion (considering that last year he placed sixth or seventh, he said, and can't even remember the placing at this year's Lebanon Fair). A member of the Lebanon County 4-H Swine Club, on Tuesday Mark exhibited a 249-pound Hampshire/Duroc cross, which reflects what the industry is trying to achieve, according to show judge Tom Farrer, Royal Center, Ind.

Farrer, an Indiana purebred Hampshire, Yorkshire, and Spotted swine breeder, said it is difficult to make a decision, considering the 30-pound range of hogs that "fit the bill" for leanness, overall soundness of structure, balance, and dimension in the championship drive. The hog, according to Mark, was obtained from Larry Arnold.

For the reserve crossbred (and reserve show supreme), to find a champion, Kurtis Good had to travel to Thames Bend, a breeder in Canada, to find a hog with all the market championship qualities, according to Kurtis. The 19-year-old son of Ezra and Elsie Good, Denver, Kurtis showed a 252-pound Hampshire/Yorkshire/Duroc cross.

IH Enthusiasts Club Expands

ROYAL CENTER, Ind. — The International Harvester Collectors, a club to preserve the history at International Harvester Co., was formed in July 1990 with 200 members signed up in the first day.

Nine directors were elected by the end of 1990 and 800 charter members had signed up. To date, the club has more than 2,000 members and is growing.

The first annual meeting was held in Winamac, Ind., in 1990 where the club was born. The second annual meeting was held at Janesville, Wis., in September 1991. The third meeting was held at Marion, Ohio, in June 1992. The fourth meeting will be held at Boonville, Mo., in September 1993. Plans are to have umbrella chapters formed in various states which we have already. These and two more are in progress.

The Chapter 2 of northern Illinois is sponsoring a winter convention to be held February 26, 27, and 28 at the Elgin Holiday Inn Holidome in Elgin, Il. The convention will feature IH displays, parts for sale and demonstrations. For those with other interests, there will be bus tours to local shopping malls and craft shops.

For information on IH Collectors, write to IH Collectors, Rt#2 Box 286, Winamac, IN 46996, (219) 278-7277.

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)—"History is for learning, and we have recycled history many times in the dairy industry," said Donald Ace, professor emeritus, Dairy and Animal Science Dept., Penn State University. "But I question sometimes how much we have learned."

Ace was the featured speaker at the 122nd annual meeting and banquet of the Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association Monday evening in conjunction with the Pennsylvania Farm Show. He traced the history of the association back to 1871 when a group of dairymen in Crawford County formed an organization "to encourage dairy farming in the state and improve the industry and protect it from fraudulent products."

Over the years the Dairymen's Association joined dairymen with distributors and manufacturers into a united cause, but in more recent years the members have become dairy farmers in a service type role in the industry.

Sue Bashore, executive secretary, reported that the organization continues to support young people in 4-H, FFA and in collegiate activities. And among other projects, they have supported the Pennsylvania Foundation For Better Living. This foundation educates teachers in the public and private school so they can include farm information in their regular classroom presentations. On Tuesday morning at the Farm Show the Dairymen's Association presented a check to this foundation. (See side story this issue.)

Walter Peechatka, deputy secretary, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, said animal health would receive attention over the next few years and announced a program to combine the Summerdale lab, the veterinary science facility at Penn State, and the New Bolton Center at the University of Pennsylvania into a common data base for computer networking to be accessed through a 900 number system.

Dr. Lamartine Hood, dean of the College of Agricultural Sciences at Penn State, said the financial resources at the college were "restrained" as everywhere else. He noted that 63 percent of the funds for the college come from state and federal appropriations. But on a bright note, he said the increased enrollment in the Dairy and Animal Science department showed that young people had become more aware of the opportunities in the dairy industry and this "bodes well for the future of the dairy industry in Pennsylvania," he said.

Crystal Schweighofer, state dairy princess, said dairymen face many problems, but the fact that they ranked high in the nation in production and provided 56,000 jobs in Pennsylvania showed that they were successful and were "doing a great job."

Several awards were presented at the meeting. The winner of the PA Dairymen's Extension Award this year is Eugene W. Schurman of Indiana County. Gene is the agricultural agent for Indiana County and also assists with work in nearby counties.

Gene was born in Clymer, New York and graduated from Cornell University in 1972 with a degree in Dairy Science. He obtained a Master of Science degree in Dairy from Penn State in 1974 and then started work with the Extension Service in Franklin County. He moved to Indiana County in 1977 and taught vocational agriculture for several years. In 1982, Gene returned to Extension and became an agricultural agent with dairy responsibility for Indiana County.

Gene has set a high standard for others to match. He was a member of the Penn State Milker School teaching team from 1982 to 1985. He was a committee member and twice chairman of the Southwest Regional Dairy Day committee from 1983 to 1990. He has been on the State Dairy Task Force committee, the 4-H Dairy Project Evaluation committee, the PA Dairy Termination Program team, the PA Dairy Farm of Distinction committee and both the All-American and Farm Show Dairy committees.

His on-going activities are with the 4-H Dairy Overnighter School; county and regional participation in the DHIA educational program, nutrition schools, dairy cattle breeding clinics, calf and heifer management schools, reproductive management schools, county and regional 4-H dairy shows and on-farm trouble shooting. He also schedules the Forage Testing Van to his area, develops rations for dairy herds, generates a regular county newsletter and helps other agents with milking systems and barn ventilation evaluations. As a fellow agent put it - no request for help is turned down.

Gene has received several awards including being the winner of the National Association of County Agricultural Agents (NACAA) "Search for Excellence" award in 1987. Also in 1987, Gene received the Pennsylvania County Agents Achievement award. He was a 1989 national winner in the 4-H Recognition program for his tractor safety program. In 1992 he was chosen as Dairy Promoter of the year by the PA Dairy Promotion Board.

Gene and his wife Carol are an Extension team in Indiana County and have done an outstanding job with the 4-H and adult agriculture programs. Gene has been a "main man" at both the PA All-American and Farm Show dairy shows. Gene has been chairman of both Holstein shows since 1983. He also helps Carol with the Dairy Goat show at Farm Show where they start work at 5 a.m. and oversee the checking in and showing of over 200 animals in a single day.

The Charles E. Cowan Award was established in memory of a man who was longtime secretary and a leader of the Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association. It recognizes dairy farmers who have made major contributions to the state's largest agricultural industry. Harold Crider of Chambersburg in Franklin County is the 1993 recipient of the Charles Cowan Award.

Harold and his wife Leona are in partnership with twin sons Roger and Rodney at Antrim Spring Farms. Harold has bred over 30 EX cows and currently have a BAA of 107.2%. The Criders were early adapters of embryo transfer technology and currently use the technology heavily in their breeding, selection and marketing program.

Harold is very active in Holstein, DHIA and Dairy Promotion in Franklin County as well as regional and state levels.

Harold was a director of the Franklin County Holstein Club for 25 years having served as president and currently as secretary-treasurer. Harold served in the position of state director for 10 years. Harold has also served as delegate to the National Holstein Convention 15 times.

Antrim Spring Farm has been on DHIA for over 30 years. Harold has served as a county director for 18 years and president. Harold also served on the state DHIA board for 4 years and also served that organization as secretary-treasurer.

Harold has served on the Franklin County Dairy Promotion Committee and also served as a director for the Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association for more than four terms. Harold has also served on the advisory committee to the Penn State Veterinary Science Department.

Harold's community activities are just as involved as those related to agriculture. He has served as a school board member for the Greencastle-Antrim School Board, a charter member of the Kauffman Ruritan Club and a very big supporter of 4-H activities in the county.

Harold is involved with the 100 voice Mercersburg Area Community Chorus which performs classical music and is a member of the Cedar Grove Mennonite Church and music committee.

Harold and his wife Leona are the parents of five children: Rodney and Roger who are in partnership at Antrim Spring, Eileen, Marianne and Don.

Case Unveils Next Generation Combines

RACINE, Wis. — During Case IH business meetings held recently in Milwaukee, Case unveiled the next generation of its popular 1600 Series Axial-Flow® combines.

The new Case International 1644, 1666, and 1688 combines, which will be available early in 1993, deliver significantly higher horsepower than their predecessors. They also incorporate new technology that provides higher air quality to the cleaning system. Many other changes have been made for enhanced performances and reliability.

The axial-flow design introduced in 1977 remains a Case exclusive, according to the company, providing a gentler, more efficient harvest for better quality grain and more of it, according to Gerry Salzman, Case product manager-combines. "During the last few years, we've continued to make numerous upgrades in our Case IH combine line, taking an excellent product and making it even better," he said.

Horsepower up but not rpm

Advances in engineering have made it possible for Case to increase horsepower on these new combines while actually reducing engine rpm on the two larger models. The 1644 is rated at 180 PTO horsepower at 2500 rpm, and the 1666 and 1688 deliver 215 and 260 horsepower, respectively, at 2200 rpm. These ratings are 20 to 25 horsepower higher than in the 1640, 1660, and 1680 combines, which the new units replace.

"Keeping engine rpm down with these higher horsepowers means longer engine life, and that's a quality factor that's important to our customers," said Salzman.

In fact, Case has made several modifications to accommodate the increase in horsepower, including enlarging the air cleaner, hydraulic oil cooler, and radiator as necessary on respective units to handle increased demands on air flow and engine and hydraulic cooling systems.

Salzman indicated that the other key feature of the new combines is the cleaning system. "We've applied a longer chaffer and shoe sieves, as already developed for the 1680, to all three units," he said. This increases the cleaning area by more than 20 percent, which reduces sensitivity to crop variations.

"For the customer, that means better utilization of the threshing and separating capacity of the Axial-Flow rotary system," he said.

New fan distributes air evenly

"But what really puts the extra capacity to work for the customer is the new Cross Flow™ fan our engineers have developed. It distributes air evenly over the entire sieve area," he said. "This is patented technology offered only on Axial-Flow combines. It alleviates high-velocity air pockets that can blow grain out the back of the combine."

According to Salzman, the chevron pattern and cupped blade design of the Cross Flow fan generate more air volume at a fraction of the previous fan's horsepower requirements, and noise from the fan is minimal.

The new Case International 1644, 1666, and 1688 combines, which feature higher horsepower and a superior cleaning system, harvest better quality grain and more of it.

"Our customers who have test-operated pre-production units have been especially impressed with the fact that the new cleaning system hardly requires any adjustments," said Salzman. He added that some customers actually said they didn't need to adjust the sieves for an entire crop season.

Changes improve reliability, serviceability

Another important change Salzman noted is that the feeder reverser drive chain on the new units features a high-temperature "O"-ring design. "While we still recommended daily lubrication, the chain is effectively sealed from dust and dirt. We've found the design extends chain life by 200 percent or more," he said.

Bolt-on feeder chain slats are standard equipment on the new models because they can be replaced much faster than riveted slats. The stalk roll bearing on corn heads has been replaced by a sealed water pump bearing to increase life and eliminate daily servicing. A split drive on grain headers provides better balance and longer life for drive components.

"These and other changes help our customers get their work done faster and better," said Salzman. "And that's what this new generation of Case International combines is all about."

Dairymen's Association

Clyde Robison was a director, an officer and often times president of virtually every statewide and local dairy organization that he belonged to. He was a strong supporter of the Jersey cow, farmer cooperatives, the Extension service, the AI Industry, Penn State, the Fair Association and his church.

Clyde went to meetings to participate and not just to be there. He would ask the tough questions, the ones other people were thinking about but were reluctant to ask. He wouldn't settle for just one opinion. He would ask for input from anyone present if they thought they knew anything at all about the subject being discussed.

Clyde Robison was born on the family farm in Washington County in 1918. He lived all of his life on that farm working with his herd of Jerseys. He and his wife Marie raised three children: Bev, Connie and Bob. They also have 11 grandchildren.

Clyde served the Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association for 35 years. He was president in 1976, the same year he received the first Charles E. Cowan Memorial Award.

* Questions to ask before buying metal roofing & siding for your building
- What are the benefits of New Improved AZ-55 coating?
- Why is standard painted galvanized roofing fast become outdated?
- Why does AZ-55 coating last 2-4 times as long as old fashioned painted galvanized?
- Why do some metal dealers NOT sell AZ-55?
- When should I NOT use AZ-55

BREWEX - For Use In Dairy Feeds

BREWEX is used extensively in complete dairy formulations to contribute utilizable energy. It is a price/performance value when used in dry feeds, liquid feeds and on-farm mixes.

MIX WITH DRY FEEDS: BREWEX is found in commercial pelleted rations for dairy, hogs and poultry as an energy source to replace corn. BREWEX replaces corn on a pound for pound dry basis and provides for improved pellet durability, reduced mineral segregation, dust control and improved palatability in dairy rations.

ON-FARM MIXING

A commercial Jersey dairy farm, having over ten years of experience in feeding BREWEX to partially replace corn finds that

- BREWEX replaced 5% to 10% corn/day
- BREWEX improves butterfat about 0.1%
- BREWEX mixed with forage reduces mortality due to displaced abomasum
- BREWEX helps cattle to stay on feeds

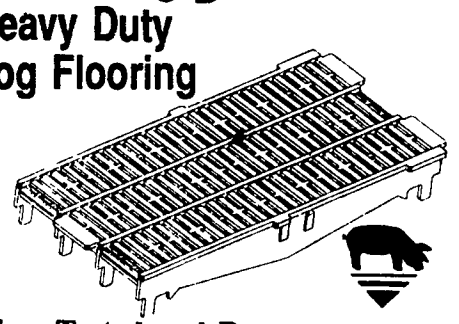
REPLACING HOG FLOORING? CONSIDERING NEW CONSTRUCTION? ☑ CHECK OUT Polygrate™

Heavy Duty Hog Flooring



Time Tested and Proven
This style of POLYGRATE was first introduced in 1981. Over the years Faroex has continued to refine this product. POLYGRATE is one of only a few "World Class" floors that has stood this test of time.

Outstanding Traction
POLYGRATE'S unique "high-low" finger design provides outstanding traction for pigs of all sizes, while enhancing safety and comfort.

- ♦ POLYGRATE'S rounded corners minimize injuries. The edges are bevelled providing a smoother, safer surface that promotes comfort, too.

What Does This All Add Up To?

- ♦ More piglets survive until weaning
- ♦ Less splay/spraddle leg problems
- ♦ Heavier piglets at weaning
- ♦ Better conditioned sows at weaning

Eby Aluminum Grain Bodies pay off in dependable long-term service. Their all-aluminum construction means:

- Greater payload efficiency
- Maintenance-free service
- Substantially higher resale value.

If you think that steel is cheaper, think again. We can show you how aluminum actually saves you dollars in the long run.

Eby's time-tested design is available in lengths to 24' and a 48" standard height; optional heights include 54", 60" and 72". A long list of standard features such as tie rail, built-in steps, aerodynamic uprights and Harsh hoist is complemented by a full range of custom options, including tailgates, Wahpeton tarps and chute.
When you select your next grain body, consider the value that aluminum offers. It's a worry-free investment in your future.

BIOLOGICAL CONTROL

Dr. Charles W. Pitts
Professor of Entomology

Proper cultural practices encourage poultry manure accumulations containing populations of beneficial predators and parasites that can suppress house fly populations.

In the Northeast, macrochelid mites and hister beetles are the major predators in caged-layer operations. Parasite populations, of major importance in the southern United States, are present at lower densities. Less is known about the role of parasites in suppressing fly populations in poultry houses in the North.

The macrochelid mite, MACROCHELES MUSCAE-DOMESTICAE, is the most common mite in poultry manure. The reddish-brown mite, slightly less than 1/16-inch in size, feeds on house fly eggs and first instar larvae. It can consume up to 20 house fly eggs per day. Mites are found on the outermost layer of the manure, particularly its peak. Macrochelids can cause substantial reductions in house fly numbers, but large mite populations are required for any appreciable impact. Efforts, therefore, should be made to conserve natural populations present in the manure. About 3-4 weeks of manure accumulation is necessary for mites to become established.

Another mite that may be found in poultry manure is the uropodid mite, FUSCUROPODA VEGETANS. It feeds only on first instar fly larvae deeper in the manure, complementing the egg-feeding activity of the macrochelid mite on the manure surface.

The principle hister beetle in northeastern poultry houses is CARCINOMAS PUMILIO, a small black beetle approximately 1/8-inch long. It feeds on house fly eggs and first instar larvae. The potential as a predator appears similar to the macrochelid mite. Adult and immature hister beetles live in the surface layers of the manure and forage for fly and mite prey. Like macrochelid mites, hister beetles do not seem attracted to fresh manure and it may take six weeks for significant populations to develop. Another hister beetle, GNATHONCUS NANUS, is also present at lower numbers on poultry farms in the Northeast.

Tiny stingless parasites attack most of the common manure breeding flies. Parasites are rarely noticed because they are extremely small (1/16-1/8-inch) and can occur naturally in low numbers on many farms. They live in manure or other decaying organic matter and search for pupae. Adult female parasites lay an egg in the puparium where the developing parasite larva consumes the pupa and emerges as an adult parasite.

Because of naturally low parasitism levels, control programs have been based on mass releases of laboratory reared parasites. Some parasites are available from commercial insectaries. For a release program to be successful, the producer needs to consider which species and strains, and in what numbers, to release. Parasite strains must be climatically adapted to the planned release area. Parasites currently offered by commercial insectaries have problems maintaining pure cultures. Most producers should concentrate on conserving and building their native predator and parasite populations by using proper management techniques and by minimizing insecticide use.

Forest Stewardship Workshop Set In Urban Area

MONROEVILLE (Allegheny Co.) — If you own forestland in rural Pennsylvania but live in the Pittsburgh metropolitan area, you won't have to travel very far to attend a forest stewardship workshop this winter.

The first Forest Stewardship Landowner's Workshop in a major urban area will be held from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Palace Inn in Monroeville on January 23.

Jon Kolb, former offensive lineman of the Pittsburgh Steelers and a Pennsylvania forest landowner, will kick off the program with an introductory speech. The workshop is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Forest Stewardship Program in cooperation with The Western Pennsylvania Conservancy, Pennsylvania Environmental Council, the Frick Nature Center, the Audubon Society of Western Pennsylvania, the Ruffed Grouse Society, and Westmoreland Woodlands Association.

If you're interested in forest resources management and conservation, you won't want to miss this opportunity. The workshop will cover forest management planning, wildlife habitat management, biodiversity, timber taxes, estate planning, and other subjects useful to woodlot owners. The $15 fee covers lunch and a snack. A comprehensive notebook of stewardship related materials will be offered for sale separately.

"Did you know that one out of every 10 families in Pennsylvania own forestland?" asked Dr. Stephen Jones, assistant professor of forest resources at Penn State and cocoordinator of the Forest Stewardship Program's educational component. "Stewardship workshops are a vital way of getting the message of sound forest management out to forest landowners acorss the state. The Pittsburgh workshop is a way to reach landowners who often have been left out of the information loop because they don't live on or near their woodlands."

"Over the years — and sometimes through past mistakes — resource managers have learned a great deal about using forests for multiple benefits without destroying the complex and delicate balance among the plants, animals and natural forces in a forest ecosystem," said Yuri Bihun, Pennsylvania Forest Stewardship Program associate.

!A forestland owner can reap the economic benefits from timber harvesting without sacrificing the forest's other benefits, such as air and water purification, soil conservation, wildlife habitat, and recreational and aesthetic values," Bihum said.

At the workshop, landowners will learn about another program component which gives forestland owners technical and financial assistance in designing and implementing sound forest management plans.

"The more people who get involved in the program, the better chance Pennsylvania has to leave a legacy of healthy, productive forests for future generations," Jones said.

For more information about the Pittsburgh workshop, contact: Eric Oesterling, Westmoreland County Cooperative Extension, P.O. Box 250, Greensburg, PA 15601-0250, (412) 837-1402.

Pork Industry Representative Wanted

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania Pork Producer Council is seeking individuals to serve as a pork industry representative. Applicants, male or female, should be between the ages of 18 and 23 years old. Participants should have a strong background and sincere interest in the future of the pork industry. The selection process will be completed at the Keystone Pork Congress, Harrisburg, on February 17.

The selection process will include personal application and interview. The pork representative must be able to attend the Pork Leadership Institute on July 15-20 in Des Moines, Iowa. The attendee will expand their communication and human relation skills by attending state activities such as conferences, media interviews, service on state committees, boards, and county programs. For more information, call Floyd Huber, youth committee chairman (215) 944-6687.

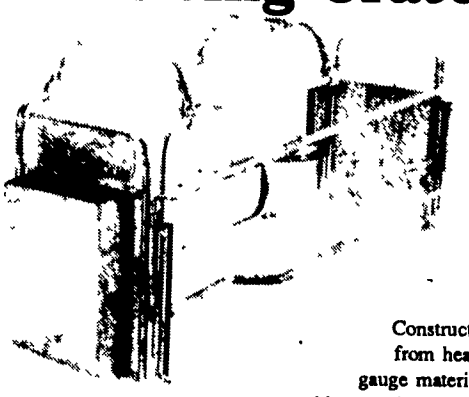
BSM Model 90 Farrowing Crate



GALVANIZED!

Constructed from heavy gauge materials this crate is designed to reduce crushing, with sow comfort in mind. The bowed bottom bars makes for a comfortable 33" crate width when the sow lays down, yet the adjustable anti-crush bars eliminates the sow from carelessly dropping in the piglets.

This movement restriction does not hamper the sow as she lays down, or wants to stand up, as the bars slide up and out of her way.

Master Farmers Honored At Farm Show

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Nine Pennsylvanians from five farms were honored Tuesday by the Master Farmers Association during its awards luncheon at the Penn Harris Convention Center, Camp Hill.

A master farmer award is an honor bestowed on outstanding farmers from five states who not only have consistent exceptional production, but who are also active off the farm in leadership roles and serve as role models.

The awards program is co-sponsored by the extension service organizations in Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey and West Virginia and farming magazine, Pennsylvania Farmer.

All nominations are confidential and reviewed by two panels of judges, with the final 3-member panel consisting of Sam Garrison, New Jersey's assistant secretary of agriculture; John Crowgey, vice president of special credit with Farm Credit Bank of Baltimore; and Don Evans, assistant dean, Penn State Cooperative Extension.

This year's winners were Charles Beaver, of Millerstown; Stanley Brown, Loganville; John Hess, Gettysburg; Russell Dietrich and his three children, Bill and Brian Dietrich, and Robin Rassler, all of New Tripoli; and Joseph and Thomas Strite, of Harrisburg.

Charles Beaver

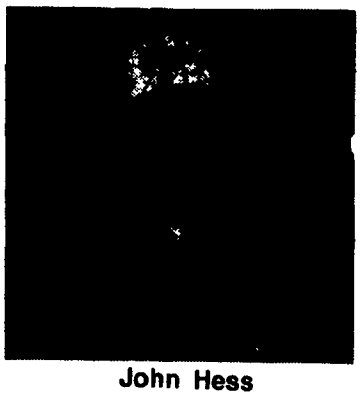
Charles uses all no-till on 700 acres to raise corn soybeans, wheat and hay, with part time help. Virginia handles the books and helps with chores, in addition to working off the farm part time. Douglas is a computer analyst for Ford-New Holand, and helps at the farm when he can.

In addition to the cropping, Beaver also raises about 80 head of Simmentals for market as fattened steer and heifers. He has also served on the local school board for 11 years, been secretary for the Perry County Farmers' Association for 17 years, and is active with Pfoutz Valley United Methodist Church. Also a member of the state Simmental Association, and Millerstown Fire Company, Beaver used to serve on his local extension and Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service committees.



John Hess

Stanley Brown

Stanley E. Brown, and wife Nona own and operate a 180-acre orchard and a 7,500-square foot farm market (2,500 square feet for retail, the rest for storage and office space). The couple have three grown children, Scott, Linda and David.

Stanley and Nona built up the business over the past 35 years, expanding, offering a variety of fruits and vegetables, adding certain entertainment features which attract crowds and boost sales, and adding a bakery.

He employs up to 60 full- and part-time people all year. His eldest son Scott and his wife Brenda also work at the farm. Scott is orchard manager and Brenda, a former banker, takes care of all the records with a computer.

Stanley has been a school board member for 14 years, was a founding member of the Farm and Natural Lands Trust of York County (A private foundation with the goal of preserving open spaces.), serves on the York Area Chamber of Commerce, the Loganville Borough Planning Commission, and has been president of the PSU extension advisory board and the York County Fruit Growers.

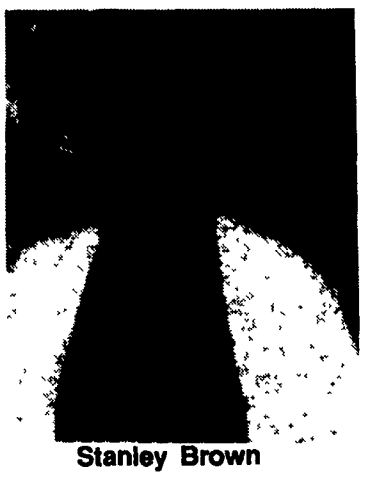
He has also been chief of the Loganville Volunteer Fire Company, and was a crew member for the Jacobus Lions Ambulance Club. He is a member of the Horticulture Association of Pennsylvania, PFA, and Zion United Church of Christ.

John Hess

In Adams County, John Hess has a 217-cow Dairy of Distinction with 210 replacement heifers on 1,386-acres — 381 acres owned, the rest rented — that he crops to feed his own herd and to supplement a side business of selling silage and totally mixed rations, in addition to brokering chicken manure.

He and wife Bonnie have five children: Jennie, a York County extension agent (Her husband Dale Brown also feeds the herd and prepares TMRs for sale to area farms.); Josephine, who is responsible for milking and breeding; John II and Jayne, who are both PSU college students; and Joy.

Charles Beaver



Stanley Brown

In addition to farming, John has served as president of Adams County Holstein Association and the county farmers' association, is a member of Dairy Herd Improvement Association, Dairy Shrine, Agway, Bethel Mennonite Church and his chamber of commerce's agriculture committee.

Russell Dietrich family

The 1,019-acre (129 owned, 890 rented) dairy farm is operated by Russell and his wife Elaine and three of their four children. The three children working on the farm have families of their own and are in partnership with their father to run a 240-head registered Holstein milking herd, raise replacements, and take care of crop operations.

Russell and Elaine's children who are in partnership and also received Master Farmer awards include Brian Dietrich (wife Fay), Robin (husband Bryan Rassler), and William Dietrich (wife Imogene).

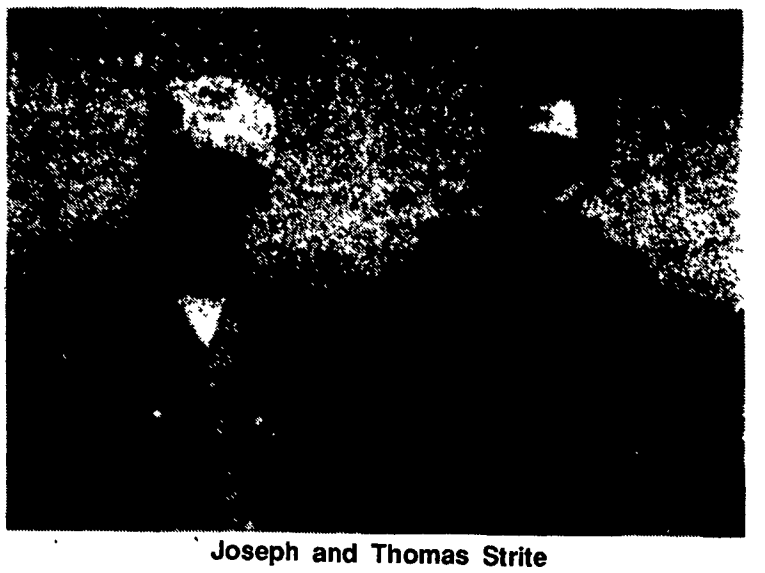
In leadership roles, Russell is vice chairman of the Lehigh County Land Preservation Board, a delegate for Atlantic Dairy Cooperative and has been president of the county farmers' association, local Lehigh Valley Farmers Cooperative and the Atlantic Dairy Co-op local. He also served on the township planning commission for 14 years.

His children are also heavily involved in community agencies and organizations.



Joseph and Thomas Strite

Joseph and Thomas Strite

In Dauphin County, brothers Joseph and Thomas Strite are second generation master farmers.

The Strites have taken over their father's 277-acre Harrisburg-city vicinity fruit and truck farm and made it support their two families.

They do mostly direct marketing. The orchard farm is completely surrounded by housing development, which, in effect provides them with a direct market for their 55 to 60 different fruits and vegetables.

Joseph's wife is Sharon and they have two children Jason and Stephanie. Thomas and Sheryl have three children, Matthew, Jonathan and Bradley.

Brillion's HFC cultivator features a five-bar, three-inch by four-inch frame with a 26-inch under-frame clearance. Thirty-two-inch spacing between shank bars gets you through heavy residue without trash buildup.

Brillion HFC Field Cultivator Manages Residue

BRILLION, Wis. — Brillion's new HFC high-clearance field cultivator helps you manage crop residue with ease. It also helps improve efficiency while working more ground faster, without trash buildup.

"Our new HFC cultivator features a five-bar, three-inch by four-inch frame with a 26-inch under-frame clearance," said Michael Irish, marketing manager. "Thirty-two-inch spacing between shank bars gets you through heavy residue without trash buildup. This is especially important today as more emphasis is placed on conservation tillage and residue management."

The quality of Brillion's HFC cultivator is unsurpassed in the industry, said Irish. The pivot point of each shank features a one-piece cast ductile iron bracket that is stronger than traditional formed steel brackets. A hardened steel bushing and grease zerk fitting provide lubrication to the pivot point, reducing wear and extending the life of the shanks. A point pressure of 142 pounds maintains the sweep at a constant depth in the hardest ground.

"The quality of our shank is something that we're proud to stand behind," said Irish. "That's why we offer an exclusive four-year warranty on all C-shanks. No other manufacturer can make that claim."

What's more, the shanks on six-inch spacing are arranged to split the pattern of the rank to the front, resulting in more uniform tillage, improved chemical incorporation, and level seedbeds.

For more information, write Brillion Iron Works, Inc., Brillion, WI 54110, (414) 756-2121.

PennWest Hires Loan Officer

MERCER (Mercer Co.) — Daniel D. Morrison, Meadville, has been recently hired as a loan officer in the Meadville branch of Penn West Farm Credit, ACA (Agricultural Credit Association).

Morrison comes to the job with five years experience as a loan officer with Farm Credit Services of Mid-America, ACA, at the Wooster, Ohio, branch. He was raised on a beef operation in Muskingum County, Ohio.

Prior to becoming a loan officer, Morrison attended Ohio State University, Columbus, and earned a bachelor's in agriculture with a major in agricultural economics.

He will be servicing loans and providing credit to qualified farm customers in the Meadville area.

Juniata County DHIA Meets

MEXICO (Juniata Co.) — Speerette Farm of Blairs Mill, owned by Naomi and Richard Speer, was honored recently for having the top producing rolling herd in Juniata County among members of the county's Dairy Herd Improvement Association (DHIA).

The award went to the Speers during the annual meeting of the Juniata County DHIA, held late December at the Walker Grange Hall in Mexico.

According to year-end data contained in the annual Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association yearbooks, Speerette Farm moved to first this year from sixth in the county last year with 20,661 pounds of milk, 758 pounds of butterfat, 650 pounds of protein for 1991 production.

In fact, Speerette Farm has advanced production significantly since 1990 production when they ranked sixteenth with production at 18,190 pounds of milk, 676 pounds fat, and 587 pounds of protein.

However, the rest of the county's DHIA members have been improving also.

Of the 83 herds on test in the county for 1992, four posted protein averages of 700 or more pounds, and 25 herds had averages of more than 600 pounds.

There were 64 herds enrolled in the Pa.DHIA somatic cell testing program. The average count for Juniata County herds was 398,000. Nine herds completed the testing year with somatic cell counts (SCCs) of less than 200,000.

Recognition for the county's lowest SCC herd was tied between two Port Royal farms — one run by R.E. Shearer and family, the other by Fred Shoop. The two dairy operations shared a year average of 117,000.

The county herd management award went to Timothy Lauver of Mifflintown whose 38 Holsteins increased production 4,507 pounds of milk, 99 pounds of fat, and 171 pounds of protein.

The herd management award, in its second year, recognizes the major management factors that contribute to the profitability of a dairy enterprise. Criteria for the award include production improvement, sustained production, mastitis management, and reproductive management.

A number of individuals received recognition for having cows achieve production of more than 750 pounds of protein, or 850 pounds of fat, or 23,000 pounds of milk. A total of 211 cows, of the 4,568 on test, qualified.

The best among those five were Petunia, owned by Steve and Barbara Wilson, with a record of 974 pounds of protein; Jigger and Karma, owned by Glen and Tracey Henry, with respective productions of 971 pounds protein and 901 pounds; cow No.74, owned by Rodney and Brenda Conrad, with 931 pounds protein; and cow No.472, owned by Richard and Frank Crawford, with 929 pounds protein.

Also during the meeting, elected to the organization's board of directors were Sheldon Harshberger, Ronald Mummah and Mervin Zendt.

Speaker during the event was Patricia Toretti, Pa.DHIA computer program analyst. She talked about the use of laptop computers in the barn by Pa.DHIA technicians, etc. She said that the county's technicians would be receiving lap-top computers for on-farm use and she demonstrated the use of computer generated records and information which would be available on test day.

Lactation Report

Four hundred and sixty four cows completed records of 305 days or less. Eleven produced more than 850 pounds of protein; 23 produced over 750 pounds of protein; 65 produced over 650 pounds of protein.

Ag Retailers Association Names President

MANCHESTER, Mo. — Dr. Paul Kindinger has been selected to be the president and chief executive officer of the Agricultural Retailers Association, according to Tom Hunton, ARA chairman of the board.

In making the announcement, Hunton said, "Dr. Kindinger brings to ARA a broad background of service in agriculture and government. His background includes positions in academia and associations, service as Michigan director of agriculture, and director of public affairs and special assistant to the secretary at USDA. Currently he is a lobbyist and governmental relations advisor with Kahn, Soares, & Conway in Washington, D.C., specializing in agricultural and environmental issues."

Tom Hunton also said that "the directors of ARA are delighted and enthused to have a person the caliber of Dr. Kindinger lead our association toward its full development." Kindinger will be based at the association headquarters in St. Louis, Missouri.

The Agricultural Retailers Association was officially formed in early December during the first annual meeting held in Cincinnati, Ohio. The new association resulted from a merger of the former National Fertilizer Solutions Association and the former National AgriChemical Retailers Association. Kindinger will be the first president/CEO of the newly formed group. ARA is committed to the professional development and business viability of the plant nutrient and crop protection retail industry, and serves the needs and interests of retail dealers and other facets of the agricultural retail industry.

Pioneer: Supplies Of Seed Corn 'Very Good'

DES MOINES, Iowa — A leading U.S. seed corn marketer has excellent hybrid seed supplies in most maturities for 1993, according to the company's corn product manager.

Bob Heimbaugh said Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc., is prepared to meet corn growers' seed needs for 1993 planting.

Demand for Pioneer® brand hybrids during the past two years had reduced carryover inventories going into last season, so the company significantly increased seed production acreage in 1992, Heimbaugh said. The increased acreage, along with good seed yields, produced very good to excellent inventories in most maturities.

"We expect especially great demand for hybrids in the 90 CRM and 105 CRM ranges because of their excellent yield and drydown this year," Heimbaugh said. "We encourage corn growers to make early contact with their sales representatives so they can discuss supply and plan their orders. That will help ensure seed is available when and where it is needed."

Heimbaugh expects demand to remain strong because Pioneer hybrids performed well for farmers during the 1992 season.

"Through mid-December, U.S. corn growers had completed just over 159,000 comparisons between Pioneer and competitive hybrids," he said. "Our hybrids had a 7.5 bushel per acre yield advantage and were 1.4 percent drier at harvest than competitive products.

The maturity of many hybrids was slowed by 1992's cool, wet summer, so some growers may be re-evaluating their use of full-season hybrids. Heimbaugh cautions corn growers not to overreact to the past season's weather conditions, but said the ample seed supplies should enable farmers to make some maturity adjustments.

The prime interest rate is 6 percent, down a half-point from this time a year ago, and rates for short-term loans many farmers use to finance operations were in the 8.5-10 percent range this week.

Suppliers of seeds, crop protection chemicals, and other inputs typically offer discounts for cash purchases made in advance of planting season. With the relatively low interest rates, it may make sense to borrow operating funds to take advantage of the discounts.

"For example, we have a three-tier discount for cash purchases of seed: 7 percent through January 4, 5 percent through February 13, and 2 percent through April 30," Heimbaugh said.

"If you borrow 9.5 percent operating money now for seed you plant in late April or May, the actual cost for the four months you use the money is 3.17 percent," he said. "With a 7 percent discount for paying cash, the return is better than 2-1."

Heimbaugh advised farmers to work with their lenders to assess the option of borrowing to take advantage of the discounts.

Local Co-Op Board Reorganizes

Lester E. Martin was elected chairman and Kenneth C. Ketterer was elected vice chairman. Paul W. McPherson was elected to serve on the executive committee with Martin and Ketterer.

Martin operates a 270-acre dairy farm, "Pleasant Valley Jerseys," consisting of 248 cows and 180 heifers, in Franklin County. Prior to Martin's election as chairman, he served as vice chairman of the board since 1991. Ketterer owns and operates a beef, hog, and vegetable operation in Cumberland County. McPherson owns and operates "Maple Lawn Farms, Inc.," a fruit and grain production operation in York County.

McGregor resigned from the board, after serving since 1981, to devote more time to his farming operations. His position on the board will remain vacant until the next stockholders annual meeting in the spring. The other members of the board are Clifford L. Hawbaker, Franklin County; Lawrence R. Cauffman, Perry County; David F. Kuhn, Adams County; Dale R. King, Adams County; and Paul B. Whipple, outside director.

Livestock Notes

New Implant Available

A new implant called Revelor-S®, made by Hoechst-Roussel Agri-Vet Co., is now available for use in beef cattle. This implant is a combination of trenbolone acetate and estradiol, and is targeted to increase average daily gain and feed efficiency in feedlot cattle. This company formerly marketed a trenbolone acetate implant under the name Finaplix®.

As you may recall, growth-promoting implants are used to increase daily gain and improve feed efficiency in beef cattle by increasing the amount of growth hormone naturally produced. This increases the percentage of muscle and decreases the proportion of fat. The objective, therefore, is for the animal to add more weight as protein and less weight as fat. This works well for growing cattle, but does not work as well for feedlot cattle nearing the completion of their fattening phase before slaughter. While there will be an improvement in yield grade, there may also be a reduction in quality grade which is partially fat dependent. To reach the same quality grade endpoint, implanted steers will often need to be 75-100 pounds heavier than non-implanted steers of similar type.

Trials with steers implanted twice with Revelor-S (65-70 days apart) have indeed shown there will be fewer steers grading Choice with lower average marbling scores than steers fed for the same period of time implanted twice with another implant. In a quality-conscious market such as the one in the Northeast, this can be detrimental.

However, Revelor-S has supported 6.9 percent higher weight gains and 5.2 percent higher feed efficiencies, compared to that of cattle implanted with a similar product. The differences with non-implanted cattle would be dramatic. Implants generally have a $7-$8 return per $1 of investment.

Revelor-S certainly has a potential advantage for beef producers in our region, but some care must be taken when it is used. Use it early in the feeding period to increase growth, but go to a different product in the latter stages of finishing to keep quality grades at an optimum level.

Feeder Cattle Teleauctions

A recent report by Georgia researchers (Turner et al., 1992) indicates there are some management practices that will affect the price of feeder cattle sold through teleauctions. Further, the price effects from these practices have changed in recent years.

Results on the sale of more than 95,000 calves through teleauctions were separated into two time periods: 1977 through 1982 and 1983 through 1988. Analysis of the sales indicated that the factors affecting price were different for the two periods.

For example, Angus cattle received a premium in the earlier period, while Hereford calves received a discount in the later period. However, dairy and dairy-cross calves received a discount in both periods.

As would be expected, steers received a premium compared to heifers, but the difference in that premium was reduced by 57 cents/100 pounds in the later period. Small-framed cattle had a discount in the earlier period, while large-framed cattle had a discount in the later period. Neither muscling score nor flesh condition affected price in either period.

Health practices resulted in sizeable differences in price. Practices such as prevaccination for specific diseases, weaning, and preconditioning brought a 25-30 cent price premium, but only in the later period. More cattle sold in the second period were prevaccinated or preconditioned. Neither deworming nor implanting had an effect on price.

The use of teleauctions for marketing feeder cattle is growing in Pennsylvania, but the results of this study indicate that management before the sale still affects price. Producers should be aware of the factors that will optimize the price for their calves in their market.

Too Much Fat To Chew (Waste Fat vs. Taste Fat)

To most beef producers, there seems to be a major contradiction in the pricing of market cattle when lean cattle are discounted relative to fat cattle. Packers continue to pay the highest prices for the fatter cattle (unless overly fat). This makes economic sense only if you understand the packer's role in marketing beef (and to a smaller extent, lamb and pork.)

The packer is a middleman who simply breaks the live, finished product into many components and sells them all as profitably as possible. Large efficient plants have grown because they can efficiently use labor and effectively market the by-products of meat production, such as hides, organs, bones, fat, and glands. During processing, packers (except pork) remove as little fat as possible. Since the fat stays with the primal cuts, packers are not economically penalized for leaving the external fat. This partly explains why pork packers have more aggressively pursued programs to penalize producers for producing an overly fat product.

Excess fat then becomes the problem of the retailer, the purveyor, or the food service operator. Consequently, the packer has more pounds of that cut to sell relative to the carcass weight he purchased. The dressing percent (ratio of carcass weight to live weight) of fatter cattle is higher; therefore, the packer will pay more for higher finished cattle.

Preliminary data presented by Jeff Savill of Texas A & M on the Beef Quality Audit Project funded by the Meat Board shows that the beef industry is producing in excess of 97 pounds of external fat per head. This amounts to a loss of $112 if the meat is trimmed to 1/4 inch external fat (actually most beef is now trimmed to 1/8 inch or less). Excessive seam fat (fat between the muscles) accounts for another $63 loss. Excess fat in trimmings used for manufacturing costs an extra $15. Therefore the total cost to the beef industry of producing too much fat amounts to $190 per head of cattle.

You might say the beef industry is losing the war on fat. Compared to 1976 industry figures, external fat thickness has decreased by a mere .01 inches. The average yield grade of cattle sampled was 3.14. While this is generally thought to be an acceptable level, it still represents 250 pounds of fat and 260 pounds of lean tissue in a 750-pound carcass. Twenty percent of all cattle measured had more fat tissue than lean tissue. Obviously, all this fat does not reach the consumer. In fact, retailers are trimming meat cuts closer than ever. Virtually all beef is trimmed to less than 1/4 inch and over half is trimmed to 1/8 inch or less of external fat. The external fat trimmed off at retail is a great loss at every level — the cost of production, transportation, labor, and disposal.

What does this loss mean in terms of consumer prices? In 1976, the cost of one pound of beef would buy 1.1 pounds of pork or 2.4 pounds of poultry. In 1991, the cost of a pound of beef was equal to 1.3 pounds of pork or 3.2 pounds of poultry. Because of price, consumers are buying more poultry. It is clear that beef producers cannot afford to continue to produce so much excess fat.

The lamb industry faces the same dilemma. Major revisions proposed for grading lambs should help emphasize the fat problem and promote a change in production methods. While the pork industry is making progress, it's still far from what packers would like in terms of fat production.

How does the industry solve this problem? There is no way they will ever change out of good conscience alone. The meat business climate is simply too competitive for that to happen. There is only one way for the change to occur in the short term--trim the fat off before paying producers. Then those producing animals with less external fat will be fairly compensated.

But one packer's close trim program has already failed because retailers distrusted the resulting higher prices. He has since retreated from that novel approach. Even though it is far more efficient to trim the fat at the packing plant, retailers are not yet willing to pay for the increase in value.

Another approach has been to prepare retail cuts at the packer level. These cuts would be closely trimmed, vacuum packaged, and sent to retailers as case ready products. But a long-term market test for this approach also failed. The industry must continue to work at reducing fat, but without sacrificing eating quality.

Creep Feeding

Creep feeding is a method of providing supplemental feed for lambs during the nursing period. Creep feeding is of little value in some operations and very valuable in others.

If a producer wants to achieve maximum growth rate from his lambs or wean early, he should be creep feeding. Twins and triplets will grow more rapidly when creep fed.

Lambs will start eating feed at 3 days to 2 weeks of age. The amount of feed consumed is small, but it helps to develop the lamb's digestive system. So we should start the lambs on creep as soon as possible after birth - younger lambs tend to be more inquisitive and use the creep quicker than older lambs. Research has shown that nursing lambs make very efficient use of good quality hay and grain provided in a creep. Creep rations do not have to be complex. Palatability of the ration is very important, but becomes less important as the lambs get older (6-8 weeks of age).

Lambs like corn and soybean meal. They like oats, but because oats are higher in fiber, lambs will not gain as rapidly when the creep ration contains a large amount of oats.

A few things to consider in planning creep and creep rations:

- Creep should be large enough to accommodate the lambs
- Creep area should be constructed so that only the lambs can get in
- Place creep in a favorable location where it is light and warm (a heat lamp or light will help attract lambs into creep)
- Creep ration should contain at least 13-14 percent protein. You may want to increase protein content to 16-18 percent protein as ewe's milk production decreases and/or when lambs are 6-8 weeks old.
- Pelleted feeds tend to increase intake and lamb performance
- Ground rations with 5-10 percent molasses to reduce dust appear to be more accepted by young lambs than rations of whole grains or rolled grains
- Feed in creep should be clean and fresh
- Clean fresh water should be available at all times
- Place good quality legume or legume-grass hay in the creep area and replace hay daily and give the unused hay to the ewes
- Adequate intake of roughage is an aid in preventing overeating disease.

Some examples of creep rations are:

- Ground shelled corn - 3 parts; oats or wheat - 2 parts; soybean oil meal - 1 part.
- Corn - 6 parts; oats - 2 parts; wheat bran - 1 part; soybean oil meal - 1 part; 1 pound or 1 percent bone meal or dicalcium phosphate; 1 lb. or 1 percent trace minerals salt.
- Shelled corn - 80 pounds; oats - 10 pounds; soybean oil meal - 10 pounds; alfalfa hay - free choice.*
- Shelled corn - 55 pounds oats - 5 pounds; alfalfa pellets - 40 pounds.
- Shelled corn - 55 pounds; oats - 25 pounds; soybean oil meal - 15 pounds; molasses - 5 pounds.*
- Cracked shelled corn - 20 pounds; crimped or rolled oats - 20 pounds; wheat bran - 10 pounds; soybean or linseed oil meal or commercial protein supplement - 10 pounds; 1 percent bone meal or dicalcium phosphate; 1 percent trace mineral salt.
- Commercial lamb feed.
- Cracked shelled corn - 160 pounds; crimped oats - 50 pounds; soybean oil meal - 50 pounds; distillers - 25 pounds; molasses - 20 pounds; limestone - 2½ pounds; AD&E; selenium.

* Wheat or barley could replace up to ½ of the corn in these rations.

You may want to add an antibiotic to the creep ration such as aureomycin or terramycin.

Foot Bath Recommendation

Zinc sulfate is valuable in the prevention/treatment of foot rot. The use of a 10 percent solution (8 pounds zinc sulfate in 10 gallons water) is a good preventative measure. If foot rot is a problem, the solution should be stronger (1 pounds of zinc sulfate per 1 gallon of water).

Pseudorabies — Vaccination Theory

By Paul M. Pitcher, DVM, MS
USDA Field Veterinary Medical Officer, Pseudorabies

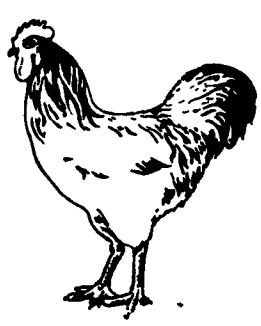
Vaccination is one of several tools used to stop transmission (or "circulation") of disease-causing organisms from infected animals to susceptible animals. Vaccination is used often because it is usually easier to implement than other tools. Other tools which are used to stop disease include: 1) preventing contact of susceptible animals with infected animals 2) increasing the disease resistance of susceptible animals, and 3) decreasing the ability of infected animals to transmit disease. The key to tools 2 (and 3) is reducing stress: other disease, overcrowding, poor ventilation, poor diet, fighting. It is difficult to provide an environment for pigs that is consistently free of stress.

There are many reasons for vaccination to "fail" and not prevent pseudorabies infection. There is always a balance between the level of protection against disease provided by vaccination and the level of challenge by disease-causing organisms. If the balance is tipped in favor of disease, a pig that would normally be protected against pseudorabies can become infected. This is the reason that vaccination should not be relied upon as the only tool used to prevent pseudorabies infection. The more tools that are used, the more the balance is tipped to favor protection against disease. Vaccination is not as effective at preventing infection with pseudorabies virus as it is at preventing clinical signs of pseudorabies (baby pig deaths, respiratory disease in fat hogs).

Vaccination for pseudorabies works in two ways. First, it increases the resistance to disease of pigs which have not been exposed to pseudorabies. Vaccinated pigs are about 10 times more resistant to pseudorabies infection than unvaccinated pigs. In addition, vaccination of infected pigs against pseudorabies decreases the chance that virus will be "shed" into the environment. Both of these effects of vaccination work together to decrease the chance that pigs will become newly infected with pseudorabies in an infected herd.

In infected herds, pseudorabies virus can circulate among one or both of two different groups of pigs: breeding animals and fat hogs older than 3 months of age. Infected pigs of these groups which shed virus can readily infect any susceptible pig that has nose-to-nose contact with them. If enough infected pigs shed virus in a group, enough virus can be produced to spread infection to susceptible pigs in an adjacent building or even an adjacent farm. Virus shedding is provoked by any kind of stress. When virus is shed and circulated between animals, pigs that will be positive on a blood test are produced.

The purpose of vaccinating for pseudorabies is to help prevent virus circulation. If virus circulation is prevented, pigs which test positive for pseudorabies are not produced. If virus circulation is prevented for a long enough period of time, all infected, positive pigs will have left the herd for other reasons and the herd will be free of pseudorabies. However, if vaccination is not used continuously or is not done often enough, large numbers of pigs in the herd can be left susceptible to infection if virus circulates. How often pigs should be vaccinated depends on the factors mentioned above. In many herds, the only way to determine an effective vaccination schedule is to regularly monitor the groups of susceptible pigs in the herd with blood testing.



Kinze Expands Cultivator Line

WILLIAMSBURG, Iowa — A new line of hydraulic-folding conservation cultivators specifically built to meet the challenges of today's tough crop residue management systems it now available from Kinze Manufacturing Inc.

The Kinze 1500 Conservation Cultivators are available in seven hydraulic-folding models designed to create efficient erosion control and moisture conservation without sacrificing protective cover. Sizes range from 8-row N to 16-row N and feature a compact, 165-degree folding design.

The high-performance units enable operators to work in mulch-till, ridge-till, no-till and even conventional-till conditions at speeds of up to twice as fast as conventional cultivation equipment. The new folding units complement an existing 1500 rigid-frame series which also has been expanded to include sizes ranging from 4-row to 10-row N.

The backbone of the Model 1500 is a sturdy 7-inch x 7-inch x 3/8-inch tubular frame that provides the penetrating strength needed for high-residue conditions. The center section on the largest units (12-row " and 16-row N) is also equipped with an additioinal 3-inch x 7-inch forward toolbar for added strength and stability. The folding wings on the Model 1500 have unlimited up-flex and 5-degree down-flex. Stop bolts on the hinge assembly allow the operator to limit down-flex, or pin the wings for rigid operation. All units have crop clearance of 30 inches.

Heavy-duty parallel linkage allows the row units to independently ride up and down over uneven terrain with up to 10 inches of vertical movement and yet maintain rigid side-to-side alignment which is critical when working closely to the row. Four quick-adjustable coil springs control down-force pressure, providing maximum weight transfer for uniform penetration in all soil types.

Each row unit is equipped with adjustable 18-inch diameter coulters (with scrapers) that slice through heavy residue and open a path for the shank. Replaceable bolt-on shank points break up compacted soil layers for increased water infiltration and enhanced aeration.

Reversible and replaceable double-edge shares, available with regular or Kinze's new hard surface cutting edges, are available in 17-inch, 19-inch, 21-inch, 25-inch, and 27-inch sizes. The shares are angled to cut below the surface of the soil to remove weeds and grasses at root level without disturbing protective soil cover.

The units can easily be equipped to apply liquid fertilizer or anhydrous ammonia. The optional liquid fertilizer package is set up with a John Blue L-4405 piston pump, flow divider, and spring loaded drive wheel. Fertilizer tubes are preinstalled on the shanks for immediate or future applications. The optional anhydrous attachment includes heavy-duty 1¼ -inch square spring coil shanks with quick-clamp knife mounts for customer-supplied knives. Other options include ridging attachments, rolling disc or rotary hoe crop shields, cut-away weeding discs, dual lift assist wheels, and a rear telescoping hitch assembly.

The Kinze 1500 Conservation Cultivators are available in seven hydraulic-folding models designed to create efficient erosion control and moisture conservation without sacrificing protective cover.

Better Living Foundation Starts Fundraising Efforts

Margaret Wolff, left, is honory chairperson for the fundraising effort started during the Farm Show by the Pennsylvania Foundation for Better Living. Patty McMurry, a director of the Dairymen's Association presented a check for $2,500 to Mrs. Wolff in support of the mission of the foundation.

In 1992 the foundation hosted a four-day teacher's workshop for 45 teachers to increase the understanding of the relationship between agriculture and the consumer and the economy. This summer two workshops are planned to accommodate 100 elementary teachers.

Christine Jacobs, a kindergarten teacher and a graduate of last summer's workshop explained how she incorporates the information she learned into her regular curriculum. She also has shared her knowledge and teaching materials with other teachers in her school.

In addition to the workshops, the foundation has established a speakers' bureau and provides teaching materials and follow-up support for teachers. For more information or to make a contribution to the Pennsylvania Foundation for Better Living, write Beth Moore, executive director, at 5399 Guitner Road, Chambersburg, PA, 17201. BEANS & CORN TOO CHEAP?

Grow them without toxins and get $8.00 to $12.00 per bu. for soybeans and $3.00 for corn, guaranteed. You can do it this year yet Others have been doing it for 12 years and are very happy. You are just as smart, but you are not getting paid for your smartness.

We need beans by the semi-loads from many farmers for tofu and soy milk factories. We can't get enough. And corn even more for the smart dairymen who learned the great value of it. Their cows do better with it. Protein and minerals are very high and in good balance, better than a computer can do it.

One of our excellent blends, the SK blend, is only $116 per ton Ask for a detailed description of our program.

The new Case International 3900 flex-wing disk harrow is just what you need for today's high-powered farming. Expect outstanding performance and reliability with:

- Superior gang strength from a massive welded tubular unibody gang frame. For years of trouble-free operation.
- Unique self-leveling spring-loaded hitch that transfers weight between tractor and disk to maintain ground-hugging performance in uneven terrain.
- A new mechanical stop depth control that eliminates variances common with master/slave systems. Plus crank adjustment for easy fine-tuning of front-to-back leveling. Great for uniform incorporation of chemicals and residues.
- Earth Metal® blades for sharp penetration and easy pull that save you fuel. Plus extra durability that means fewer replacements.

Check out the new 3900 Stop in today.

WHO'S THE LEADER

MAGNUM IS THE LEADER - OTHERS ARE JUST COPIES!

The CASE IH MAGNUM Was Introduced In 1987...

The Rest Are Trying To Catch Up!!!

■ PFC HYDRAULICS (Since 1979)

1. Pressure/Flow Compensating Means Variable Pressure And Flow To Fit Your Requirements

■ POWERSHIFT TRANSMISSIONS (Since 1987)

1. 18 Speed, Full Powershift Is Standard
2. Does NOT Use Electronics To Shift
3. Designed/Built For Rugged Ag Use- No Compromises!!
4. Helical Cut Gears (Since 1981)

■ ENGINE DESIGNED FOR ECONOMY

1. 505 Cubic Inch Designed For Hi-Torque Usage
2. Totally New Technology In 1983 - Not A Rework of 30 Year Old Technology

■ LARGE COMFORT CABS (Since 1987)

1. Easy Entry, Roomy Operator Environment
2. Excellent Visability All Around - Exhaust At Cab Corner
3. Easy Access Controls All On Right Side Within Easy Reach - No Compromise Location For Optional Right Side Door

■ RUGGED RELIABILITY (Since 1987)

1. 5 Year/5,000 Warranty
2. No Problem, Trouble-Free Design
3. Heavy Cast Side Rails For Stability

■ ELECTRONIC HITCH (Since 1987)

1. Rocker Switch Automatically Lowers Hitch To Pre-Set Level
2. Rotary Load Control Knob To Control Implement Depth
3. Complete Control From Inside The Cab

JOHN DEERE

Announcing For The First Time Since 1946, KISTLER'S MONEY SAVING PROGRAM FOR JANUARY!

If you are seriously thinking of buying new machinery, large or small, see us before you buy. We will give you our best price, and also pass on the special company deals, plus financing. We will talk to you about the machine you want to replace. We are talking about fresh new machines direct from the company to you at the lowest prices possible. Why buy obsolete, weatherbeaten equipment when you can buy new direct from the factory. Save the money it costs us to stock the machine.

Call us for an appointment to discuss your exact needs, and the rest of this program. You will be glad you did. WE will "lean over backwards" to please you.

K.K. Kistler, Pres.

RUFF-TUFF
POLY SILO LINERS for Upright Silos

Now With New Expansion Ring For Easy Installation

If Your Silo Needs New Life...

Try Our Poly Silo Liners

-THE ADVANTAGE OF A POLY LINER-
- Spoilage is reduced around doors.
- Feed is exposed to less oxygen - better fermentation.
- Allows storage of high moisture grains or dry grains in a conventional silo.
- Delays repair or replacement of corroded silos.
- Prevents corrosive acids from contacting silo wall - extends silo life.
- Quick installation.
- Effectively seals silos from air and weather.
